

BIG SEARS-ROEBUCK BRANCH HERE HAILED AS BOON TO GEORGIA

$30,000,000 SET AS BUSINESS GOAL FOR FIRST YEAR

Great Retail Department Store and Mail Order House To Feature Georgia-Made Products.

EXTENSION SEEN ON NORTH AVENUE

$200,000 Paid for Ponce de Leon Site for $3,000,000 Nine-Story Structure.

Formal announcement that Sears-Roebuck company, of Chicago has purchased a tract of 16 acres on Ponce de Leon avenue at Glen Iris drive at a cost of approximately $200,000, on which to erect a $3,000,000 nine-story retail department store and mail order branch, Tuesday was hailed as one of the greatest business and industrial acquisitions Atlanta has ever made.

In addition to the great outlay on construction and the local realty investment, those interested in transfer of title to the parcel of land drew attention to the following significant facts:

- 1.—The Atlanta branch of the Sears-Roebuck company is expected by officials of the concern to do $30,000,000 in business the first year of its operation, with proportionate increases from then onward.
- 2.—It will put the Atlanta postoffice on a new basis in Washington, vastly increasing business of the local office.
- 3.—The branch will use Georgia-made products in so far as it is able, thus giving new stimulus to manufacturing throughout the state and particularly in Atlanta.
- 4.—It will maintain a working force of approximately 1,500 persons, practically all of whom will be Georgians, with a payroll of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 annually.
- 5.—It will add another great retail department store to Atlanta's already

Continued on page 3, column 1.

'Flying Yank' Again Stages Speed Event

Seller To Run 10 Miles Today Against Wills Sainte Claire.

John F. Seller, "the Flying Yank," and champion walker and runner, after resting Tuesday from his record-smashing 50-mile walk Monday, today will appear before Atlantans again to stage a 10-mile run in competition with a Wills Sainte Claire automobile in the second of a series of endurance and speed tests sponsored by The Constitution.

Tuesday Seller was given an enthusiastic reception by Atlanta college students, who cheered him when he appeared before large groups telling them of his unique training methods. Hundreds crowded around him to get "close-ups" of the 23-year-old track wizard, who Monday walked

Continued on page 22, column 3.

MEET THE SHOPPER FAMILY

This is PHILANDER FANGER, father's older brother. Him that never married. Always arrives Christmas and needs socks.

13 shopping days left before Christmas.

BANDIT WEARING CHAPLIN MAKE-UP GETS $3,000 LOOT

New York, December 8.—(AP)—The police today are looking for a bandit who effects the make-up of Charlie Chaplin. A dapper little man, twirling a mustache, wearing a bowler hat and a sweeping bow with his derby presented the astonished woman with a bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. Bucola's wonderment had hardly ceased when the man stepped inside and herded Mrs. Bucola and her mother-in-law into a side room by threatening them with a revolver and after binding and gagging them escaped with more than $3,000 which she was about to take to the bank.

DRY ENFORCEMENT DECLARED IN NEED OF CONGRESS' AID

Sargent, in Annual Report, Admits Startling Increase in Crime Since Dry Law Enactment.

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.

Washington, December 8.—Congress must come to the aid of the department of justice if the prohibition and other federal laws are to be enforced, Attorney General Sargent and his assistants declare in their annual reports, which reveal a startling increase in crime since 1920, when the prohibition act became effective.

As these official administration views were made public, wets were deluged the house and senate with bills aimed at the Volstead act. Senator Edwards, of New Jersey, a democrat, offered one to repeal the whole dry law. Congress is firmly dry, and wets know their measures have no chance, but they believe that the useful purpose of discussion will be served by them, and that ultimately they will lead to revision of the dry laws.

Not to be outdone by his democratic colleague, Edge, of New Jersey, republican, announced he would introduce two bills, one to legalize 2.75 per cent beer and the other to remove restrictions on prescription liquor. Edwards also presented a 4 per cent beer bill.

Increase of Crime.

Dwelling on the increase of crime throughout the country during the last few years, Attorney General Sargent said:

"My predecessor invited attention to the fact that the criminal business of the federal government had increased 33 1/3 per cent since 1920 and over 500 per cent since 1912."

Continued on page 4, column 3.

Salm To File Divorce Suit; Claims Child

Husband of Millicent Also Hints at Action for Alienation.

New York, December 8.—(AP)—Count Ludwig Salm-Hogstetren, who arrived in the United States a week ago today with his mother, announced tonight through his attorney that he would bring suit for separation against the former Millicent Rogers, daughter of Colonel H. H. Rogers, one of the largest owners of Standard Oil securities.

The count's attorney, Herman B. Goodstein, said papers in the suit were being prepared and would be served on the countess' attorney, if she would appoint one to accept service. If not, the courts will be asked to grant the required permission to serve by publication.

Life in Florida.

Either of these courses is necessary, it was pointed out, as the countess and her infant son, who was born after she parted from the count, following a four months' honeymoon in Europe, are spending the winter in Florida.

In the brief announcement of his intentions to sue for separation, the count declared that he is entitled to the custody of his child and wanted a possible suit for alienation of his wife's affections.

"Count Salm is finally convinced that the affection which his wife had for him has been alienated and that she now joins with her advisers in rendering his efforts to see his child unprofitable and difficult," Mr. Goodstein said.

Count Salm's typewritten statement issued by his attorney to the press follows:

"I have been instructed by my client to commence in his behalf in the supreme court of this state an

Continued on page 4, column 1.

PORTABLE SCHOOLS BOUGHT TO AVERT DOUBLE SESSIONS

Influx of Junior High Pupils Make Necessary Purchase of 22 New Temporary Structures.

SUTTON APPROVES TWO DAILY SESSIONS

Board Names Committee To Investigate Feasibility of Inaugurating System Next Year.

Confronted by the alternative of purchasing 22 additional portable schools to care for the influx of pupils in the four junior high schools at the beginning of the next semester in February, or holding double sessions in these schools, the board voted 6 to 5 Tuesday afternoon to purchase the portables at an estimated cost of $22,000.

At this meeting, a plan which would revolutionize the class system of the Atlanta public schools, by providing two sessions a day for all children with an hour's recess at the noon hour in order that they might go home for lunch, was advocated by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent. The present system of one session a day would be eliminated under Mr. Sutton's plan.

The board adopted the superintendent's suggestion that the president of the board be authorized to appoint a committee to look into advisability of instituting the new system by September, 1926, and to report back to the board at an early date as practicable.

Eubanks Opposes Purchase.

In the debate on purchase of the portable buildings, Dr. R. M. Eubanks, commissioner from the fourth ward, placed himself on record as being opposed unalterably to acquisition of any more structures of this type.

"It is not sound business policy," he said. "I would rather see two sessions a day in the schools than have the children housed in these non-standard class rooms."

Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, chairman of the committee on buildings and grounds, said she ordinarily would oppose portable schools, but that in the present case she believed them necessary. Many junior high school pupils live a mile or more from their homes, and by being forced to attend afternoon sessions would get home after dark she said.

For purchase of portables—Commissioners Slate, Therrell, Hancock, Mills, McLendon and Mrs. Peterson. Against—Commissioners Morris, Eubanks, Brooks, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Hess.

"The plan to hold two school sessions a day is not a passing fancy with me," said Mr. Sutton in explaining his suggestion to the board. "I advocate it both from a standpoint of improved health for children and greater efficiency. Our health program I believe is as important as any subject we teach. Many children now get up late, swallow a hasty breakfast and skip off to school by 8:30 o'clock. They have a recess period at 11:30 and have a lunch, sufficient in some instances only to spoil their appetite by the time they arrive at their homes by 2:15 or 2:30 o'clock. If allowed an hour's recess period from 12 to 1 o'clock each day, the

Continued on page 4, column 3.

BOARD SEEKS PAY INCREASE FOR TEACHERS

Asks Council for 1926 Allowment 10 Per Cent in Excess of Legal 26 Per Cent of Revenue.

SUTTON'S SALARY FIXED AT $7,500

Additional Requested Fund Would Be Applied By Education Board To "Adjusting" Salaries.

The city board of education—in line with wholesale salary increases granted 3,000 city employees Monday by city council—Tuesday afternoon laid the groundwork for general salary raises and adjustments for school teachers and other school employees next year.

After voting to raise the salary of Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent, from $5,000 to $7,500 a year, retroactive as of last September 1, the board adopted a resolution by its salaries committee requesting city council to appropriate to the schools department next year 10 per cent in excess of the legally-allotted 26 per cent of the city's current revenues, which automatically goes to the schools department under provisions of the city charter.

The 10 per cent excess, designed to bring in about $250,000, would be allocated by the board of education in an "equitable adjustment" of teachers' and principals' salaries, it was explained by W. W. Gaines, chairman of the committee. Mr. Gaines, T. J. McLendon and W. C. Slate were joint authors of the resolution.

After the resolution had been adopted, John T. Hancock, president of the board, was authorized to appoint a committee of five members to consider the salary question. President Hancock appointed on this committee

Continued on page 2, column 6.

ITALY RATIFIES WAR DEBT PACT

Action Represents "Real End of War" Count Volpi, Finance Minister, Tells Senate.

Rome, December 8.—(AP)—The war debt agreement entered into between the United States and Italy was ratified today by the Italian senate. The loan arranged with the Morgan company of $100,000,000 also was ratified.

In the opinion of Count Volpi, the finance minister, who headed the mission to Washington for the funding of the debt, the two measures represent so far as Italy was concerned, the "real end of the war."

Signor Tittoni said there had been no real clash of opinions in the negotiations but simply an act of common solidarity between a great nation, rich in natural resources and marvelous industrial ability, and a nation whose soil was less fertile, but whose people had an abiding faith in themselves and their future.

"To the Italian and American negotiations," he added, "goes the gratitude of two great peoples already held in bonds of brotherhood by the great war."

Continued on page 4, column 3.

TURKEY DEFIES WORLD LEAGUE

Angora Delegates Threaten To Leave Geneva If Arbitrary Decision Is Made in Dispute.

COUNCIL RESERVES RIGHT TO DECIDE

Geneva, December 8.—Turkey has defied the League of Nations and its court of international justice at The Hague. The Mosul dispute, therefore, has reached a grave point where all efforts at mutually acceptable settlement have failed. It is feared that if the council should impose an arbitrary decision regarding the territory in conformity with the court's order of last month, hostilities between Great Britain and Turkey would be inevitable.

Two groups have appeared in the council. One desires an immediate decision, owing to the fact that winter would prevent military operations for about four months. By that time, it is argued, the Turks would have cooled off. The other group favors postponement on the council's action in the hope that a solution may be found.

Ignores Defiance.

The gravity of the situation caused the council to ignore the Turkish defiance contained in Mursi Bay's announcement that the Turkish delegation would withdraw if the council endeavored to dispose of the dispute by arbitrary decision instead of mediation and conciliation. The council is reserving to itself the right to decide the issue if Turkish-British negotiations fail. The fact that the Turks have offered to remain in Geneva to negotiate until they are ordered to withdraw, by announcing an arbitrary

Continued on page 2, column 6.

ECONOMY BLAMED FOR AIR FAILURES

Two Agencies Assailed by Colonel Mitchell Are Defended by Six High Ranking Witnesses.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—Economy and the army air service itself were blamed today by high ranking officers, testifying before the Mitchell court-martial for aviation and other troubles now vexing army executives.

The war department and the general staff, the two agencies blamed by Colonel William Mitchell, technical prisoner before the court, for incompetent administration of the national defense, were defended by the six witnesses heard—three major generals and three lieutenant colonels.

Major General Hanson E. Ely, commander of the army war college, opposed a unified air service, defended the army's existing organization and declared the best defense was "a balanced army," with all departments cared for and developed in portion to their value to whole. As far as the budget permitted, he said, money should be expended on each arm, with the air

Continued on page 4, column 3.

HOUSE RUSHING WORK ON TAX REDUCTIONS; EARLY VOTE IS SEEN

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR WORLD COURT AND CUT IN TAXES

Executive Changes Precedent by Sending Message to Both Houses by Messenger.

URGES DISPOSITION OF MUSCLE SHOALS

President Reiterates Stand for Remodeling of Present U. S. Shipping Board Policy.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—A wide range of legislative recommendations, some of them new, others a reiteration of policies he has advocated to congress for the last two years, was contained in President Coolidge's annual message transmitted today to the house and senate.

Abandoning his custom and that of Presidents Wilson and Harding of addressing a new congress in joint session, Mr. Coolidge submitted his message in writing. One of the longest presidential messages in years, aggregating 10,000 words and touching on 46 subjects, it was read by clerks in each house.

Urges Tax Reduction.

In the field of domestic legislation, the executive urged further tax reduction, giving general approval to the bill drafted by the house ways and means committee; recommended action to strengthen aviation along lines proposed by his air board; renewed his advocacy of power to deal with labor disputes in the coal industry, as proposed two years ago by the coal commission; advised a curtailment of the shipping board's powers and control of the merchant fleet by one executive, and touched again on the need for encouragement to co-operative marketing as an aid to agriculture.

The president also appealed for observance of the prohibition law by the public and vigorous enforcement with the cooperation of states. He renewed his advocacy of railroad consolidation, governmental reorganization and increased state and local co-operation in reclamation projects, opposed return for the present of property seized from aliens during the world war, and recommended sale of Muscle Shoals to the highest bidder.

In a lengthy discussion of foreign affairs, Mr. Coolidge appealed for favorable senate action on the proposal for American adherence to the world court, voiced gratification over

Continued on page 5, column 1.

Ford Peeved At Publicity Given Fiddler

Maine's Champion and Wife Now Visiting Auto Manufacturer.

Detroit, December 8.—(AP)—Mellie Dunham, Maine's champion fiddler, accompanied by Mrs. Dunham, tonight from a train here late today, walked through the railroad station, stepped into a luxurious automobile, and then dropped from sight some where in the recesses of Henry Ford's organization.

The automobile which met the fiddler and his wife at the station headed rapidly for Dearborn, the suburb which is the site of the Ford estate. At that moment the publicity which has been Dunham's since he came to Detroit to play for Henry Ford came to an abrupt stop.

Mr. Ford refused to see newspapermen and the refusal covered his guests. Persons in close touch with the Ford organization said they had not seen the fiddler and there was nothing to be said. It was reported that a statement "might be" forthcoming tomorrow.

It was intimated at Dearborn that Mr. Ford was not altogether pleased with the publicity that had been given his invitation to the fiddler, some reports going so far as to say that the motor manufacturer had felt that a private invitation to a man and his wife should not be broadened to include "all the newspapermen and photographers in the vicinity." Persons in the Ford organization, though, refused even to discuss this angle of the situation.

The last time Dunham and his wife were seen publicly today was when they crossed the railroad station, the fiddler with his precious fiddle tucked under one arm and with a pair of snow shoes made especially for Mr. Ford under the other.

Continued on page 3, column 6.

LOSS OF OVERCOAT RECALLS COOLIDGE VISIT TO ATLANTA

President Coolidge, according to Atlanta friends, has an "overcoat-losing complex," if his inclinations may be judged by the frequency with which he forgets his own such a wrap. Dispatches from Washington Tuesday told of the president's temporary loss of an overcoat, which was left in a Chicago hotel. It was recovered and sent to Washington on the next train.

Several years ago when Mr. Coolidge was vice president, he visited Atlanta and was a guest at a dinner at the Druid Hills club. Again he finished speaking, he forgot to had an overcoat and left the club in the chilly fall weather. However, his overcoat was returned next day by a greatly chagrined and apologetic Atlanta business man, who explained the garment greatly resembled his own and that he had picked it up by mistake.

LARGE BACHELOR APARTMENT SOLD IN $775,000 DEAL

Cash Payment and Assumption of Mortgage Figure in Change of Ownership of Carlton.

Indicative of steadily increasing activity in Atlanta real estate, announcement was made Tuesday that the Carlton bachelor apartment had been purchased by Mrs. Julia M. Muller from The Carlton, Inc., a group of local capitalists headed by Dr. W. W. Blackman, for the sum of $775,000.

The sale was consummated by Jesse Draper, of the Draper-Owens Realty company, who announced that Mrs. Muller bought the property as an investment.

No change in the management or policy of the big apartment hotel is expected as a result of the change of ownership. The Carlton is a 12-story, concrete, brick and terra cotta residence for men. It was completed last July at 501 Peachtree street, just north of the Georgian Terrace hotel. The Foundation company were contractors, and Pringle & Smith were

Continued on page 4, column 3.

5 MORE INDICTED IN LANGSTON CASE

Alleged Confession Results in Five More Men Being Implicated in Fayette County Slaying.

Fayetteville, Ga., December 8.—(AP) Indictments against five more men for the murder of James C. Langston, rural mail carrier who was slain in October, 1922, were returned today by the Fayette county grand jury.

Three men have been convicted of the crime and are serving life sentences. Today's indictments were returned after Solicitor General E. M. Owens, of Zebulon laid before the grand jury what was described as the complete confession of Melvin Windham.

Windham's alleged confession implicates seven men, the three already convicted of the crime—Oscar Dutton, Ora Whittle and John Waller. Those indicted today are Rainey Caughen, Melvin Brown, Arthur Alexander and Windham.

The automobile which met the fiddler and his wife at the station headed rapidly for Dearborn, the suburb which is the site of the Ford estate. At that moment the publicity which has been Dunham's since he came to Detroit to play for Henry Ford came to an abrupt stop.

SEE "SLIM" BROLUND

Taking Scenes for The Constitution's Moving Picture

To Be Shown at the Howard Theater Week of Dec. 21.

At the Following Places Today:

- Black and White Cab Co. at Terminal Station, 10 A. M.
- Stone Baking Co., 11 A. M.
- Routos Cafe, 1 P. M.
- Thom McAn, 2 P. M.
- H. G. Lewis & Co., 3 P. M.
- Edico Piano Co., 3:45 P. M.

BILL WILL MEET LITTLE OPPOSITION, LEADERS ASSERT

House, by Unanimous Consent, Limits Debate to 4 O'Clock Saturday Afternoon.

SENATE SITUATION HARD TO FORECAST

Senator Simmons Announces He Expects To Canvass Democrats Soon and Plan Program.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, December 8.—The house began work upon the tax reduction bill Tuesday, taking it up immediately after members had listened to the annual message of President Coolidge in which he approved the measure framed by the ways and means committee.

It was clearly demonstrated in the early debate on the bill and the comment in the lobbies as the measure began its way that it will meet little opposition in the house. Veteran observers predicted that the bill would go to the senate substantially as it came from the committee, with perhaps a few minor and technical changes. Others went so far as to forecast a smooth road for the legislation in the senate.

House Limits Debate.

By unanimous consent, the house agreed to limit debate to 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and a few minutes later Chairman Green, of the committee, began an explanation of the measure, and answered some of the objections which have been raised by two minority members of the committee, Hull, of Tennessee, former chairman of the democratic national committee, and Rainey, of Illinois.

Both these members voted to report the bill to the house, however, as did every other member of the committee, republicans and democrats, and it is this unanimity of opinion on the general features of the law that presages a smooth road in the house.

Investigation by the United News disclosed that house democrats generally will support the measure, and that Hull and Rainey will not be able to drum up enough supporters to make the changes they desire, upon which, however, they will not insist. Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking minority member of the committee, informed the house that both of these would vote for the bill as it stands.

The situation in which house democrats find themselves was indicated by Garner in his speech, his usual fiery pronouncement. He made it plain that democrats, if they had a majority, would have constructed a little different measure, but since the republicans were in majority, the democrats joined them, getting as much as possible in exchange for their cooperation.

The Texas democrat personally

Continued on page 3, column 4.

The Weather FAIR

Washington—Forecast: Georgia: Fair Wednesday and Thursday; not much change in temperature; moderate to fresh west and northwest winds.

Local Weather Report.

Highest temperature	61
Lowest temperature	43
Mean temperature	52
Normal temperature	46
Rainfall in past 24 hrs., inches	0.00
Deficiency since 1st of mo., inches	1.98
Total rainfall since Jan. 1, inches	32.92

STATIONS AND STATE OF WEATHER	Temperature	Barometer
ATLANTA, clear	54	30.00
Birmingham, clear	54	30.00
Boston, cloudy	50	30.01
Buffalo, cloudy	38	30.01
Charlotte, clear	38	30.01
Chicago, clear	48	30.01
Denver, clear	48	30.01
Des Moines, clear	48	30.01
El Paso, clear	48	30.01
Houston, clear	54	30.01
Indianapolis, clear	54	30.01
Jacksonville, cloudy	50	30.01
Kansas City, clear	54	30.01
Memphis, clear	48	30.01
Miami, clear	74	30.01
Mobile, clear	60	30.01
Montgomery, clear	54	30.01
New Orleans, cloudy	54	30.01
New York, cloudy	54	30.01
North Platte, clear	44	30.01
Oklahoma, clear	48	30.01
Phoenix, clear	68	30.01
Pittsburgh, cloudy	48	30.01
Raleigh, clear	48	30.01
San Francisco, clear	62	30.01
St. Louis, clear	48	30.01
Salt Lake City, cloudy	34	30.01
Savannah, clear	54	30.01
Tampa, rain	64	30.01
Toledo, cloudy	38	30.01
Wichita, clear	48	30.01
Washington, clear	52	30.01

C. F. von HERRMANN, Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

ROGERS

There's a ROGERS Store near you
Where Satisfaction is a certainty

Large, Thin Skin---Genuine "SEALDSWEET"

GRAPEFRUIT Each 10^c

TURNIP SALAD lb. 5^c

FREE 75c ALUMINUM BISCUIT PAN and Biscuit Cutter

To All Women Who Attended the CONSTITUTION'S Cooking School Last Week

If you attended any of the sessions of The Constitution's Cooking School and will present to the manager of any Rogers store your "Blue Shield Notebook" (the book handed to you at the school) he will have brought to his store for you FREE a dandy 75c White Lily Aluminum Biscuit Pan and Cutter.

Be sure to bring your notebook, which will be stamped by the manager and returned to you, and you will get this valuable gift absolutely free.

RUTABAGAS CANADIAN CROP. LB. 2^{1c}

Firm Smooth Irish POTATOES 5 Lbs. for 27^c

PORTO RICAN YAMS They Candy Fine 5 Lbs. for 19^c

TODAY'S THE DAY FOR Raisin Bread

A loaf of raisin bread is a portion of health in its most delicious form. Rogers' raisin bread is filled with lots of body-building iron in the shape of Sun-Maid raisins. It is baked fresh for Wednesday out of the finest ingredients.

16-oz. Loaf 13^c--2 for 25^c

Delicious and Economical — Satisfactory for Cooking and Baking at the Table

SPREDIT NUT Lb. 25^c
MARGARIN Carton

EVERY ROGERS' STORE Is Full of Christmas Foods

JUST A FEW SUGGESTIONS---

Candy Christmas Assortments LB. 15^c 20^c 25^c

Ocean Spray Cranberry Sauce No. 2 Can 25^c

Dromedary DATES 10-Oz. 25^c

SWAN'S DOWN CAKE FLOUR 2¹/₂ Lbs. 39^c

LIBBY'S MOIST MINCEMEAT 1-lb. Jar 29^c

LIBBY'S PLUM PUDDING 19^c and 35^c

There's a ROGERS Store near you
ROGERS
Where Satisfaction is a certainty

SCHOOL CHIEF LAND OFF TO CONFERENCE

Fort E. Land, state superintendent of education, left Atlanta Thursday for Baltimore, to attend a conference with school superintendents from all over the south. New ideas in education and modern school methods will be discussed, and the superintendent will study the Maryland system, which is noted for its advance in equalization of educational opportunities and school supervision.

D. Ernest Randall, Georgian Art Chief, Summoned by Death

D. Ernest Randall, of Elmwood drive, manager of the art department of the Atlanta Georgian, died Tuesday at a private hospital. Mr. Randall is survived by his widow and two daughters, Ernestine and Doris Maud Randall. He was a member of the First Baptist church, and was a native of Indiana. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by H. M. Patterson & Son.

MOVE LAUNCHED FOR PAY RAISE IN SCHOOLS

Continued From First Page.

Commissioners Gaines, McLendon and Slate, Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson and Dr. Fred L. Morris.

The committee is to be asked for a report at an adjourned meeting of the board of education to be held next Tuesday afternoon.

There are somewhat in excess of 1,000 teachers and principals in the Atlanta public school system. If the request of the board of education is granted by council, it was estimated by Mr. Gaines that the schools department would have about $250,000 to apply to salary adjustments next year.

Superintendent Sutton's record of efficiency was praised by President Hancock, Commissioner Slate and other members of the board. Mrs. Peterson and Commissioner Oscar Mills, however, objected to making the salary increase for the superintendent retroactive, but favored making it effective next January 1. There was no recorded vote, however, when the original motion made by Commissioner Emory Brooks was put. Later Mrs. Peterson, however, asked the secretary to record her vote in favor of the increase effective January 1.

Sutton Takes Floor. Superintendent Sutton then took the floor and explained that he had discouraged any efforts to increase his salary until principals and supervisors and teachers had been provided raises. His decision to yield, he said, came only after Atlanta Public School Teachers' association officials had requested that he accept the increased remuneration. The superintendent thanked the board for its consideration.

The resolution by Commissioners Gaines, McLendon and Slate read as follows:

"Whereas, the people of Atlanta, by vote on December 2, increased the salaries of members of the fire department."

"And, whereas, the city council, since that date, has voted a raise to each of the other departments of the city."

"And, whereas, the raises so voted amount to increases of approximately 10 per cent."

"And, whereas, the board of education, the teachers and various education authorities who have reviewed our Atlanta school department have repeatedly called attention to the inadequacy of salaries in our schools department."

"Resolved, further, That a committee of three be appointed to appraise said increase in case it is granted."

The sweeping salary increase measures adopted by council Monday night were approved next Monday by the permanent board and later by the mayor, in order to become law. In session immediately after council's meeting Monday afternoon, the permanent board decided to defer its regular session, scheduled for Thursday afternoon, until the following Monday because of the intended absence from the city of several members of the board.

The increases would affect about 3,000 city employees, and would entail an increased pay roll next year of about $700,000. Mayor Sims was not present Tuesday as he had intentions, declaring he would have nothing to say until the papers were formally presented him.

TURKEY DEFIES WORLD LEAGUE

Continued From First Page.

decision, is considered to be encouraging.

The British are standing pat. They have announced that they would accept the council's arbitrary decision, whatever it may be. It is the British belief that neither Mustafa Kemal nor Ismet Pasha, who control Turkey, are as belligerent as their spokesman at Geneva would have it believed. The principal fear is that Fevzi Pasha, the leader of the militarist party at Ankara who is suspected of intriguing against Kemal, may gain control of the situation and seek popular support by an attack on Iraq, which would amount to an attack on Britain.

Could Gain Local Victories.

It is admitted that the Turks could gain local victories along the present boundary line wherever they might attack, but it is emphasized that these victories would be in no sense important.

It is thought that even Fevzi would hesitate before taking action which would align the British empire and the League of Nations against him.

The Hague court last month decided that the council had the authority to determine the Mosul dispute by arbitrary decision which would be binding on Britain and Turkey. Neither interested party would participate in the vote, which would have to be unanimous.

Despite Turkey's protest, the council Tuesday unanimously accepted the Hague court's decision. Councillor Unden, of Sweden, held that the council still can attempt to mediate the dispute, despite the acceptance.

WHAT I AM UP AGAINST IN TEXAS

Continued From First Page.

ward M. House, was the adviser of President Woodrow Wilson. They boasted that a Texan was, as they openly put it: "The power behind the presidential throne."

Wilson Had Adviser.

It was quite regular for Woodrow Wilson to have an adviser, if it is right for Mr. Stearns, of Boston, to be the confidential friend of President Coolidge, why is it wrong for me to have such an aid?

It is a known fact that one of the men who is fighting me hardest, just as he fought my husband eight years ago, a man who has sat in the governor's chair of this state, took advice in every question from his wife. It is known that she aided him, counseled with him, advised him, controlled him.

Did they condemn that administration? They did not. My husband has as broad an acquaintance in Texas as any man in the state. If he doesn't know, personally a man recommended for office in this state, he knows the man or men from whom the record can be secured. Why is it wrong for me to take advantage of that knowledge? Yet I am up against just such criticisms.

There is never a day in the governor's office that some man does not come in to tell me something like this:

"Now, Mrs. Ferguson, I don't want you to think I am trying to run your office, or tell you what to do, but if I were in your place, I'd do so-and-so—or 'I'd appoint so-and-so."

Isn't that advice? Isn't that the sort of council that every governor of every state in this union gets day by day? Isn't that the sort of thing for which a president appoints a cabinet? Is it possible for any one executive to know all about all the questions that come before him or her? Common sense tells you the answer to these questions. Yet it seems that common sense has little to do with the hatred I face.

All Ask Advice. When an executive wishes to make a fine record, as I have wished to make, as I have made, as I will make before I complete my term, despite my that has followed him through the years, that executive asks for and accepts advice. And I ask again, where could I get more disinterested advice than my own husband can give me?

Is Own Boss. Why should I wish to accomplish anything else than the best administration that any governor of Texas ever had? Did I not run on a platform of vindication of my family name, and having been granted by the voters of this state an opportunity to do that, should I not use every advantage I have to leave a finer record than has ever gone before me? In such circumstances, is it not reasonable that my husband would wish to give me the best advice he can, since his interest is the same as mine? Is there anything criminal in such interest and such advice?

They condemn me because my husband often interviews people for me. Does not every executive have trusted advisers who interview people and give confidential reports on such interviews?

Since I took office, as one of the moves toward state economy I cut the appropriation for my office in the state capital considerably below that used by my immediate predecessor. My husband has done a great deal of the work of my office, has done it without pay, without hope of other reward than the accomplishment of as fine a record for the Ferguson administration as human hands could make.

Yet they have not praised him—not have they praised me. They have only read into such effort as baleful a meaning as possible.

As for my opponents' statements that my husband tells me what to do, I have this remark to make:

Miriam A. Ferguson, wife and governor, is her own boss. My husband is my friend and helper, but he has never told me what I should do or—no—and he never will. I have a mind of my own. I have a will of my own, and I have never seen the day when I could not use both of them. I would have less of the respect and friendship of the man who helps me if I were less than just as independent as he is. The 26 years of our married life have been a partnership in every sense of the word. There are no bosses in the family, whether it is the private life or the public life of the present governor of Texas.

I have taken my husband's advice and help—and I shall continue to take both. The Bible tells us to "counsel together as one." If such be treason, my dear enemies, make the most of it.

(Copyright, 1932, by Current News Features, Inc.)

(Tomorrow Governor Ferguson will continue her side of the struggle against possible impeachment.)

STEWART'S
Foot Comfort Department
Don't Procrastinate

If your feet are troubling you—if your ankles are swollen at the end of a day's work—call and see our foot specialist, who is trained in the

WIZARD
System of Foot Correction

F. B. C. shoes can be had in black or brown kid or oxford and black kid S-top fitted exclusively in the

Foot Comfort Department
B. A. Parker in Charge
Orthopedy of the Foot

Stewart
FRED S. STEWART CO.
ATLANTA, GA.
25 Whitehall St.

BROYLES

Specials for Today and Thursday

New Store at 811 Peachtree Street

157 Sycamore St. DE. 1877 305 E. College Ave. DE. 0597
720 W. College Ave. DE. 1824 283 Grant St. MA. 5556
211 Peoples St. WE. 2489 165 Luckie St. WA. 9678

All purchases of $1.00 or over will be delivered. Absolutely no purchases under $1.00 will be delivered.

216 Size Sweet Florida Oranges Doz. 30^c

Full Cream CHEESE 31^c 40 to 50 PRUNES 15^c

PURE LARD lb. 19^c

No. 2¹/₂ Libby's SPINACH 23^c No. 2 Can Cut BEETS 10^c

Stokley's Canned Vegetables

No. 2¹/₂ Can KRAUT 13^c No. 2 Sugar CORN 15^c
No. 2¹/₂ Lye HOMINY 10^c No. 2 Green BEANS 15^c
No. 2 Early June PEAS 15^c No. 2¹/₂ Green BEANS 20^c
No. 2¹/₂ Can BEETS 18^c

Pink SALMON 14^c 14-oz. Welch's KETCHUP 25^c
1 lb. 5 oz. Net Cranberry SAUCE 23^c Three Rolls Waldorf Toilet Paper 25^c

"SEVEN-ELEVEN"... by AUERBACH

"You said a mouthful!"

"You bet! 7-11 is in a class by itself. Milk chocolate, roasted nuts, butter cream, caramel—a sweet picture no artist can paint! Step up to the nearest candy counter. Exchange 5c for 7-11 and tickle your taste."

The Winning Candy

PLACE a Luden's Cough Drop on your tongue—inhalate deeply—at once the exclusive Luden blend of menthol relieves irritation from cold or cough and makes breathing easier.

Sold everywhere
Wm. H. Luden, Inc., Reading, Pa.

LUDEX'S

MENTHOL COUGH DROPS

5^c

The Quality Syrup

ALAGA

Oh how They Love it!

Our special blending process saves that golden flavor of pure Georgia Ribbon Cane, bringing it fresh to you with each can of ALAGA.

Insist on your grocer supplying you with ALAGA—The Quality Syrup.

"Good Every Drop"

ALAGA SYRUP

Its Purity is Nature-made

Alabama-Georgia Syrup Co., Montgomery, Alabama

Who goes — when the Telephone Bell rings in your house?

Dad's tired. Mother's tired. Jane is Tired.

BUT — when the telephone bell rings down the hall — somebody goes. Ofttimes the message is for one who did not answer. So two people have to walk to the telephone.

An easy and inexpensive solution to this problem is an extension telephone in your living room — convenient to everybody's reach. Costs only a few cents a day.

Christmas is a good time to order an extension telephone as a gift to the whole family.

Tell our Business Office you want an extension telephone installed in your home.

"BELL SYSTEM"

SOUTHERN BELL TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH COMPANY

One Policy, One System, Universal Service

One Policy, One System, Universal Service

One Policy, One System, Universal Service

SEARS AND ROEBUCK COMING TO ATLANTA

Continued From First Page.

supposing list, entering especially to the automobile trade out of the downtown congested area.

It will result in extension of North avenue from Kennesaw avenue to Glen Iris drive in order to give the company rear frontage and entrance, cost of the extension to be defrayed by the company.

16 Acres Purchased.

Sixteen acres of land, including what is known as Spiller's Amusement park, were purchased from J. R. Spiller by the company through the R. R. Otis Realty company as a location for the plant.

Official announcement of plans for the branch business house was made by C. M. Kittle, president of Sears-Roebuck and company, in an interview with a Constitution reporter at the Biltmore hotel.

"Atlanta was selected for a distribution point in the southeast because of her fine transportation facilities," Mr. Kittle declared. "We made a thorough investigation of the entire section, desiring to serve our patrons with better and quicker service, and finally decided that Atlanta would fill the bill."

Growth of Section.

"One of the chief considerations in our selection of Atlanta is the phenomenal growth of the southeast in the past few years, and particularly the growth of Atlanta."

George C. Nimmons and George Carr, of Chicago, architects for the company, are preparing plans for the new structure, and construction work will be started as soon as these are ready.

To Employ 1,500.

The new branch will employ between 1,000 and 1,500 Atlantans, with an annual payroll of between two and three million dollars.

"All of our employees in this branch will be local people with the exception of executives and experts who will import from our other offices," Mr. Kittle said.

Sears-Roebuck and company, one of the oldest and largest mail order houses in the world, had sales amounting to $255,000,000 during the past year, the company declared.

Three million dollars' worth of merchandise will be kept in the plant as stock.

The Atlanta branch will carry tremendous stocks of merchandise to be shipped in mail order lots over the southeast, and it will also include a big retail store to supply trade in Atlanta.

To Carry Great Stock.

There will be 35,000 different items in the Atlanta mail order store, the same as in other branches of the company, Mr. Kittle told The Constitution. The list will include everything from a paper of pins to automobile accessories.

Large sections of the 16-acre tract will be reserved for future expansion, while other portions not needed for immediate building purposes will be used as parking spaces for automobiles of employees and patrons.

To Extend North Avenue.

Agreement to extend North avenue from Kennesaw avenue to Glen Iris Drive, thereby giving the new concern frontage on three important thoroughfares reached by members of the council streets committee, in conference with officials of the company Tuesday, it was announced.

As a matter of fact, the matter is to be presented to city council at its next session for ratification.

R. R. Otis, president of the real estate concern which handled details of the purchase of the Ponce de Leon avenue tract, was enthusiastic in his views of the import of the coming of the company to Atlanta.

"The nature of the Sears-Roebuck company may not be clearly understood," said Mr. Otis. "This firm does not operate an industry or manufacturing plant. It now operates the largest retail store in connection with its mail order houses in the world."

Sears-Roebuck company, since its location of its branch houses in Philadelphia, Kansas City and Seattle, has gone directly into a new method of retail merchandising—that is, of creating retail department stores of the best type on the edge of congested districts and convenient to the automobile trade.

At its Ponce de Leon avenue site, it will have an up-to-date retail store facing Ponce de Leon which will be second to none in the city. The mail order department will be in the rear and on the top floors.

Rail Tonnage Increase.

"The retailing direct to the Atlanta trade and distribution of every known commodity through this Atlanta branch will increase the volume of tonnage weight to railroads of Atlanta many fold, hence increasing railroad payrolls."

Incidentally, Sears-Roebuck and company will transfer over-night to the Atlanta branch about July 1, 1923, several millions of dollars in business from its branches in Philadelphia, Chicago and other cities, and this money will all pass through the Atlanta branch.

"The Atlanta postoffice from now on will be on an entirely new basis in the eyes of Washington. I am told that in Dallas, Texas, where a branch of the company is located, postal business increased fourfold in six months. It is predicted by officials of Sears-Roebuck that the Atlanta branch will do $30,000,000 of business during its first year, and it will employ about 1,500 high-type clerical workers, both men and women."

Frankly, I do not know of any one thing that has happened in Atlanta that should demonstrate to the world beyond any doubt that selection of Atlanta by the Sears-Roebuck company establishes this city as the leading retail and distributing center of the southeast. Other firms of the same type are sure to follow, and I can see the dawn of a big industrial outlook for Atlanta."

Novell Gratified.

Fred C. Novell, of the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was also highly gratified at Atlanta's success in securing the big new development over other competing southern cities.

"Our bureau has for months past been supplying the Sears-Roebuck company with statistical information concerning Atlanta, and we have been told by officials of the concern that the facts thus presented them figured materially in their decision to locate their branch here," he said.

The information we supplied was based on a recent industrial survey of Atlanta and we have been told it constituted the best argument in favor of Atlanta as a business location, officials of Sears-Roebuck ever saw.

"Tonight I conferred with officials of the company, and they informed me that they intended conducting a thorough canvass of all manufacturing plants in Georgia with a view to using as many Georgia-made products as is possible in their stock. The importance of the advent of the company in Atlanta can scarcely be gauged at this time from a commercial and industrial standpoint."

Also accorded material credit in demonstrating Atlanta's outstanding position in the south to Sears-Roebuck was Postmaster Edwin K. Large, who has been in touch with heads of the company for many months and who has presented the city's postal and other advantages in a thoroughly convincing manner.

George C. Nimmons, one of the architects of the new building, superintended construction of the Trust Company of Georgia building here, then called the Equitable building. He is a nationally-known leader in his profession, as is his associate, Mr. Carr.

Martin S. Schwab, of Chicago, will be in charge of mechanical engineering of the new structure, it was learned.

TAX BILL CERTAIN OF HOUSE PASSAGE

Continued From First Page.

took credit for the exemptions provided in the bill, and gave the democrats credit for forcing still greater reductions in normal rates than had been recommended by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

George C. Nimmons, one of the republicans of the committee when they reduced the surtax maximum to 20 per cent were "acting as Prussian soldiers under command of the administration," and that many of them believed it should not go below 25 per cent.

Attacks Mellon.

"All that the secretary of the treasury is concerned with is getting surtax reductions for persons in his own class," he said. "If you could get a fair and square vote on surtax in this house, say by secret ballot, the surtax would not be cut lower than 25 per cent."

House insurgents do not agree with many provisions of the surtax bill before the house, and are expected to say as much and vote accordingly, but even with the aid of all the democrats they would be unable to make any change, because of the republican majority, and the democrats are not going to go with them in any force at all.

The situation in the senate is less attached by Representative Rainey, of Illinois, and Hull, of Tennessee, democratic members of the committee.

The chairman argued the increase in personal exemptions from $1,000 to $1,500 for single persons and from $2,500 to $3,500 for married persons was one of the main items of relief offered by the bill to taxpayers of small incomes, who he continued, need it most.

Defending the cut in the maximum surtax rate from 40 to 20 per cent, he said this schedule, as now framed, equalized the scale and placed the legislation on a permanent peace-time basis, even though it did not cut the rates applying to incomes between $10,000 and $44,000 which benefited from previous slashes.

Inheritance Tax.

Retention of the inheritance tax, with modified rates and increased deductions allowed for payments on state inheritance taxes, he argued, will save this tax and prevent states from engaging in a "suicidal tax war to attract wealth."

Mr. Garner defended the increases in personal exemptions against the attacks by Representative Rainey and Hull, and asserted that the apparent endorsement of the bill by President Coolidge constituted a repudiation of his secretary of the treasury's statement that the president endorsed it.

"This is not Secretary Mellon's bill," he declared. "The provisions of this bill are not his recommendations. How then can the president endorse it? Can we expect then that these rumors are true that the secretary will resign?"

Describing the increased exemption as "the main thing I got in this bill," he said the provision would relieve 2,300,000 taxpayers from federal taxation and was in accordance with the principles outlined by the democratic party platform.

Admits Concession.

Mr. Garner admitted that the 20 per cent surtax was a concession on the part but added "I will stand by on this bill."

The Texas representative and Mr. Greenboth assailed the "powers behind" the tax clubs which appeared before the committee from Texas and Iowa to urge repeal of the inheritance tax.

"I can trace propaganda of that sort," Mr. Garner said, "to one institution in New York. That institution spent thousands of dollars to bring pressure on Green and me."

Democratic members asked Mr. Garner concerning his proposal to extend the period for payment of the national debt over a longer term of years and devote more of the treasury surplus to immediate tax reduction, and he reiterated that he favors such a scheme.

"But the republicans," he said, "would rather keep some back and come along here two years from now when a president is to be elected and tell us that by rigid economy we are now able to cut taxes."

Representative Mills, republican, New York, replied it would cost the government $8,000,000,000 in interest to continue the debt payments over a longer term of years, as proposed.

ACTION POSTPONED
ON POSTAL RATES.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—The brief debate in the senate today was more or less in facious vein with the vehicle a resolution by Chairman Moses, of the postoffice committee, to continue present postal rates until the next session of congress.

Action was postponed, although Mr. Moses served notice that his committee would not be able to report new rates at least until next April.

In the course of the discussion, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, charged that postal rates were increased at the last session because a presidential election was impending, explaining that the advances were approved in order to increase wages of postal employees.

Asking if there had not been a deficit of about $50,000,000 despite the bond.

the rate increase, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, inquired: "Is it not a large amount to use to smooth the way for a political candidate?"

Senator Reed at the time held in his hand a resolution to pay the funeral expenses of the late Senator Seiden P. Spencer, of his state, and Senator Moses said he hoped the senate would not delay action and thus hold back the funeral resolution.

"If this resolution provided for the funeral of the republican party I would be willing to stay here a year," retorted Senator Reed.

Receives Nominations.

Besides receiving the president's message, the senate got from the while house several hundred nominations, ranging from a cabinet officer to postmasters, and sent them all to committees. Hundreds of other nominations, including those of officers given recess appointments, still are to be sent to the senate.

The president also transmitted to both houses the foreign and by funding agreements with Italy, Belgium and four other smaller European governments, negotiated during the recess, and recommended their approval as settlements fair and just alike to this and the debtor nations.

In order to give its committee time to organize and receive the flood of bills and resolutions introduced today, the senate adjourned until Thursday. The house, however, will meet tomorrow at noon to continue general debate on the tax bill.

"DAPPER DAN" COLLINS
POSTS BAIL OF $5,000

Trenton, N. J., December 8.—"Dapper Dan" Collins is out again.

After spending 14 days in the Mercer county jail because of his inability to post $5,000 bail on a charge of violating the Volstead act, the alleged international confidence man was released when the Detroit Fidelity and Security company provided the bond.

his part but added "I will stand by on this bill."

The Texas representative and Mr. Greenboth assailed the "powers behind" the tax clubs which appeared before the committee from Texas and Iowa to urge repeal of the inheritance tax.

"I can trace propaganda of that sort," Mr. Garner said, "to one institution in New York. That institution spent thousands of dollars to bring pressure on Green and me."

Democratic members asked Mr. Garner concerning his proposal to extend the period for payment of the national debt over a longer term of years and devote more of the treasury surplus to immediate tax reduction, and he reiterated that he favors such a scheme.

"But the republicans," he said, "would rather keep some back and come along here two years from now when a president is to be elected and tell us that by rigid economy we are now able to cut taxes."

Representative Mills, republican, New York, replied it would cost the government $8,000,000,000 in interest to continue the debt payments over a longer term of years, as proposed.

ACTION POSTPONED
ON POSTAL RATES.

Washington, December 8.—(AP)—The brief debate in the senate today was more or less in facious vein with the vehicle a resolution by Chairman Moses, of the postoffice committee, to continue present postal rates until the next session of congress.

Action was postponed, although Mr. Moses served notice that his committee would not be able to report new rates at least until next April.

In the course of the discussion, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, charged that postal rates were increased at the last session because a presidential election was impending, explaining that the advances were approved in order to increase wages of postal employees.

Asking if there had not been a deficit of about $50,000,000 despite the bond.

the rate increase, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, inquired: "Is it not a large amount to use to smooth the way for a political candidate?"

Senator Reed at the time held in his hand a resolution to pay the funeral expenses of the late Senator Seiden P. Spencer, of his state, and Senator Moses said he hoped the senate would not delay action and thus hold back the funeral resolution.

"If this resolution provided for the funeral of the republican party I would be willing to stay here a year," retorted Senator Reed.

Receives Nominations.

Besides receiving the president's message, the senate got from the while house several hundred nominations, ranging from a cabinet officer to postmasters, and sent them all to committees. Hundreds of other nominations, including those of officers given recess appointments, still are to be sent to the senate.

The president also transmitted to both houses the foreign and by funding agreements with Italy, Belgium and four other smaller European governments, negotiated during the recess, and recommended their approval as settlements fair and just alike to this and the debtor nations.

In order to give its committee time to organize and receive the flood of bills and resolutions introduced today, the senate adjourned until Thursday. The house, however, will meet tomorrow at noon to continue general debate on the tax bill.

"DAPPER DAN" COLLINS
POSTS BAIL OF $5,000

Trenton, N. J., December 8.—"Dapper Dan" Collins is out again.

After spending 14 days in the Mercer county jail because of his inability to post $5,000 bail on a charge of violating the Volstead act, the alleged international confidence man was released when the Detroit Fidelity and Security company provided the bond.

"Dad's" Christmas present—a Hart Schaffner & Marx
Fine Overcoat
$35

AND $40 $45 $50 $60 to $90
Here's a gift that will make his eyes sparkle on Christmas day. When he sees the Hart Schaffner & Marx label you'll realize how very much you've pleased him.

Useful Suggestions for "Him"

Silk hose	Gloves	Knickers
Shirts	Evening clothes	Muffler
Sweater	Fancy wool hose	Neckwear
Tuxedo jewelry	Golf hose	Overcoat
Umbrella	Golf suit	Pajamas
Walking stick	Handkerchiefs	Raincoat

At prices you want to pay
Daniel Bros. Company
"His" Gift Store 45-49 Peachtree

Taylor's BROMO-ASPIRIN

The game of life cannot be played with vim and vigor when colds and headaches are handicaps. The surest, safest way to obtain quick relief is a trip to your druggist for Taylor's Bromo-Aspirin.

Eases away neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, and other similar pains almost immediately.

The kind that does not depress the heart

CONVENIENT BOX OF 15 TABLETS FOR 25¢

Buy on Carder's
Christmas Club Plan

Pay Only $10 Now—
Have a Piano in Your Home Christmas Morning!

NOT Every prospective piano buyer, by any means, finds his way to Carder's—but those who have, derived two satisfactions: They bought a Better piano than they expected and Paid Less than they intended. This reputation for giving "quality at a price" has made Carder's the dominant figure in the piano business of Atlanta.

The Christmas Club "Midget"
This is the famous "wurlitzer Baby Upright" now in such great demand everywhere. Just the thing for small homes and apartments. Cases of dull or polished mahogany. Splendid. At our special Christmas Club price of $290, it is $70 under the price of any other piano of the "midget type" on today's market. $290

The Christmas Club Player
Hunt all over the city—all over the state or all over the country—and you'll find no better Players than these inside of $600. They are incomparable values. The supply is limited, so make your reservation early to avoid disappointment. A handsome liberal supply of music rolls are included free. $390

The Christmas Club Grand
The graceful charm of its case design will create an atmosphere of quiet luxury in any home; and, with its wide variety of tone color—rich, warm and arpa-thetic—it appeals instantly to the lover of good music. We have priced them to our Christmas Club buyers at $490, despite the fact that the all-year price is more than $100 higher. $490

The Hardman
The Baldwin
The Kurtzmann
Hallet & Davis
Conway, Milton
The Wurlitzer
Bauer Bros.
The Ellington
The Angelus

An Unequalled Selection of
The World's Finest Pianos

Nowhere else in Atlanta can you secure in a new instrument any one of the famous makes of pianos listed to the left. Nowhere else in Atlanta can you secure the same measure of value that is represented in these instruments at Carder's prices!

Carder Piano Company
Next to the Chamber of Commerce 61 N. Pryor Next to the Chamber of Commerce

DIVORCE SUIT

Continued From First Page.

action against his wife for a decree of separation. His purpose is to establish that he has been abandoned by his wife without justification and that he is entitled to the custody of his infant son. The device of those controlling the actions of his wife to separate and to keep him separated from her and his child will be fully set forth.

"Upon his arrival here Count Salm telegraphed his wife demanding that she return to New York and bring their child with her, reminding her that she was fully aware of his coming before she departed for Palm Beach and that he regarded her conduct as heartless. Her reply was in effect that she could see no reason for disturbing her winter plans and suggested that he come to Palm Beach where she would make arrangements for him to see his son. After her lawyer visited her in Palm Beach recently she telegraphed again stating that doctors advised another climate for the child.

"As my client believes that the suggestion that he visit Palm Beach was not made in good faith and that he intended thereby only to further embarrass and annoy him and as he knows that his child is in good health, he has decided to seek the protection of the American courts and their decree that he need not depend upon the favor of his wife and her advisers for the privilege of seeing his infant son, and that he is entitled as a matter of right to see and visit his child at times and in places suitable to himself."

The couple was married secretly here in the municipal building on January 8, 1924, after a brief courtship. According to a document Count Salm produced at the time he applied for the marriage license, he had come to this country a year before to marry Mrs. Grace Sands Coffin, a divorcee.

J. A. BELL IS CONVICTED

OF $600,000 THEFT

Pittsburgh, December 8. (AP)—John A. Bell, banker and coal operator, was found guilty today of embezzlement and misapplication of more than $600,000 of the funds of the closed Carnegie Trust company, of which he was president.

Big Apartment-Hotel Sold

THE CARLTON APARTMENTS

LARGE BACHELOR APARTMENT SOLD

Continued From First Page.

architects. The Carlton has 143 rooms with baths; kitchen and dining room on the ground floor, barber shop and valet service in the basement, and all conveniences for residents.

The Bell House, famous Atlanta bachelor club, occupies the two top floors. The building is in a rapidly developing section of Atlanta, being within a block of the site where the Shrine mosque is to be built, the Georgian Terrace hotel and other important buildings.

The lot occupied by The Carlton measures 111 by 145 feet. Construction of the apartment was financed with the aid of a $500,000 first mortgage of the Adair Realty & Trust Co. Cash consideration and assuming of this mortgage figured in the change of ownership announced Tuesday by Mr. Draper.

ECONOMY BLAMED FOR AIR FAILURES

Continued From First Page.

service sharing among those most essential to a proper defense machine. The war college chief was succeeded on the stand by Major General Robert A. Allen, chief of infantry, and M. W. Ireland, surgeon general. The infantry general told the court that his branch suffered much the same as the air service did from the necessity of continuing use of war-time equipment due to lack of funds. General Ireland agreed with him that recommendations for improvements in the medical corps had been disapproved by the general staff, as had infantry and air service recommendations.

Disclaim Bias.

The purpose of this line of questioning by the prosecution council was to show the court that the general staff treated recommendations from the various branches without bias or discrimination, and often rejected recommendations from the branch heads because they called for expenditure of funds which the staff did not have available.

The prosecution counsel brought the economy situation forcibly before the court when he showed through Lieutenant Colonel H. E. Bullis, a general staff reserve officer, that it would cost the government as high as $28,000,000 a year to give the air reserve pilots training for one hour a week described by defense witnesses as a remedy for one of the air service troubles.

PORTABLE SCHOOLS BOUGHT BY CITY

Continued From First Page.

children could go to their homes, eat a warm lunch and return to their classes. The plan also would help to solve the question of supervised study periods because the children in classes during the afternoon would study under supervision of the teacher. Classes could be dismissed by 3:30 o'clock. It would keep the children off the streets and would also eliminate much home-studying.

The board unanimously expressed sentiment favorable to the plan. John T. Hancock, president of the board, who retires as commissioner from the eighth ward January 1, was presented with a handsome silver vase at the meeting Tuesday by the board of visitors and members of the board of education. The presentation was made by Mrs. Edgar Alexander, who praised the painstaking efforts of Mr. Hancock. Mr. Hancock made a brief response expressing thanks for the tribute.

DRY ENFORCEMENT DECLARED IN NEED

Continued From First Page.

and that the civil business had doubled since 1920.

In addition to her recommendation that congress provide more financial assistance for the department of justice, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt asked that the prohibition fines be increased.

"The small penalties provided by the national prohibition act are increasingly deplored by United States attorneys, judges and other officials charged with duties and conversant with conditions relating to law enforcement," Mrs. Willebrandt declared. "They are disproportionate to the penalties imposed for violation of other federal laws, and at least for illegal manufacture, sale, transportation, and importation, acts receiving particular constitutional condemnation, the penalties should be much higher."

Seek New Legislation.

Reviewing the rum smuggling business, Mrs. Willebrandt asked congress to enact legislation which would clarify international treaties now in effect in view of the divergent interpretations which have been handed down and which have handicapped the government in its fight to keep foreign liquor out of the United States.

In addition to the recommendations of his assistant in charge of prohibition enforcement, Sargent made 13 specific requests for legislation aimed at expediting federal prosecutions.

"The federal judicial machinery has reached its peak in the disposition of prohibition cases," Mrs. Willebrandt said.

"If the dockets are to be cleared," she declared, "and the number of pending cases kept at a reasonable figure, it is necessary that additional assistants, both judicial and prosecuting, be given at the points where clogged dockets and a continuous lurch of cases make the speedy administration of justice practically impossible.

Courts Handicapped

"United States attorneys throughout the country are handicapped by insufficient legal and clerical assistance, and in many districts are prevented from promptly disposing of criminal prosecutions by the inability of the courts to give sufficient time to the holding of criminal sessions."

Mrs. Willebrandt's plea for additional assistance in the prosecution of federal cases was echoed by the attorney general.

"I recommend that congress appropriate funds sufficient to enable the attorney general to grant substantial increases to United States attorneys and their assistants," Sargent said. "I feel sure that such increases in compensation would be in the interest of efficiency and greater economy."

Wilkins Considers Becoming Candidate For County Commission

Charles W. Wilkins, of the Down-Wilkins company, prominent business man whose home is on Lakeview avenue, Tuesday announced that he is considering entering his name as a candidate for the county commission in the next primary.

"While I have made no definite decision in this matter and really feel that my business demands my entire attention, I am being urged by hundreds of friends and by various organi-

For all the family

In just a couple of minutes that you'll be glad you gave, one of our experienced salesmen can explain the simplicity of motion picture making with the Ciné-Kodak, Model B.

You'll realize at once what a splendid Christmas gift it makes for all the family to enjoy.

Price but $70.

Demonstrations at your convenience

Eastman Kodak Co.
(Glenn Photo Stock Co.)
183 Peachtree St.

nations to enter the race," Mr. Wilkins said. "If I should decide to make the race I would do so on a platform of strict economy and as the representative of the public interest, without being bound to any clique or faction. I will say flatly that I consider salaries now paid county employees to be absolutely beyond all reason, and if I should make the race and be elected I would do all in my power to bring about a proper adjustment in this matter."

In the last election for members of the county commission, Mr. Wilkins was one of the defeated candidates. "I was in that race only six weeks, and I received over 6,000 votes," he said. "I am firmly convinced that if I should again enter my name, I would win easily."

DEAL IS COMPLETED FOR GOVERNOR'S HOME

Final papers were signed Tuesday in the deal whereby the state purchases the former Ansley home in Ansley park as a permanent governor's mansion. Members of the mansion commission met in Governor Clifford Walker's office and the property was formally turned over to the state. The property was owned by J. N. McEachern.

Purchase of an adjoining piece of land, several acres in extent, was provided for in the authorizing act which passed the legislature, and the cost of the entire property will be $80,000. Deeds for the adjoining tract have not yet been delivered. Members of the mansion commission are Senator Walter A. Rife, Representatives Lindsey (Lester) Cobb, Felix Beards, of Oconee; Sam J. Hale, state auditor, and George M. Napier, attorney general.

MONTEZUMA SCHOOL TO OBSERVE HOLIDAYS

Montezuma, Ga., December 8. (Special).—The Christmas holiday of the Montezuma High school will begin on December 18 and continue two weeks, classes being resumed January 4.

Four months of the school year will be completed before the holidays and next week will be devoted to semi-final examinations.

LOFTIS BROS. & CO. EST'D. 1858

The Store of Worth-While Gifts on Credit
16 S. BROAD ST.—Northeast Cor. Alabama St.
ENTRANCE RIGHT AT THE CORNER

DIAMONDS Watches
CASH OR CREDIT
LOFTIS Gifts Bring Happiness

Gifts For Your Loved Ones

Make your loved one's gifts worth while. They are easier to obtain on our easy credit plan than paying cash for trifles. Our diamonds are blue white, distinctive in brilliancy, and known the world over for their fine quality. Many wonderful bargains!

Use Your Credit!

A Diamond Ring Is the Best Gift of All

"Natalie" Diamond Ring
A rare value in 18-k white gold, ring, elegantly placed and engraved. Octagon top. Set with a blue white Diamond of dazzling radiance.
$37.50
$1.00 a Week

"Colette" Diamond Ring
A triumph of beauty. Graceful design in 18-k white gold. Ring has octagon top and is set with a blue white Diamond of selected quality.
$100
$2.50 a Week

Wedding Rings
The "Elite" solid 18-k white gold $7.50
The "Elite," all platinum, or solid 18-k white gold, set with your choice of 3, 5, 7 or 9 beautiful blue white Diamonds, $22.50 and up.

"Windsor" Diamond Ring
Magnificent ring for man, in 18-k white gold, set with brilliant blue white Diamond. Mounting is handsomely carved.
$50
$1.25 a Week

Rectangular Wrist Watch, 14-k white gold; 16 jewels; special value $18.75
Other styles at $12.50, $15, $22.50, $25, $27.50 and up to $70. Diamond Set Wrist Watches at All Prices.

See Our Store Windows for Special Bargains

Case is high-grade Green Gold filled, warranted to wear 25 years. Fancy dial $34
Fitted with 15-jewel movement, $31
PRK—Beautiful Ribbon Waltham chain, with gold-filled slide, given free with each Watch.

Call or write for Catalog 374. Phone Bell, WALnut 3737 and salesman will call.

OPEN EVERY NIGHT UNTIL CHRISTMAS

More Than "Just a Gift"

"Way down in their hearts people want to give the presents that are truly useful in a worth-while way. And, if such presents are also good to look upon, so much the better.

That says electrical gifts and no mistake. For they are useful and make life more worth living, every one of them. And as for looks! They are "class" itself.

Our salesroom is beautifully suggestive of the holiday spirit. The displays of the latest and newest electrical appliances are extensive and interesting.

We are at your service in the selection of "Something Electrical"

GEORGIA RAILWAY AND POWER CO
A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE
WALnut 6121 75 Marietta

FLORIDA

Pullman DeLuxe Tour

$37.50 Including ALL Expenses

Only a Few Lowers Left
Reservations Close at Noon
Thursday, December 10

WELCOME to the land of the tropics—where Nature in her kindest mood beckons you to friendly palms, brilliant-hued flowers, golf, fishing, boating and swimming in "the City of a Hundred Lakes."

Come as our guest. Not once are you asked to obligate yourself in any way.

Don't miss the greatest opportunity you've ever had to enjoy Florida. Enjoy six glorious days of solid recreation and sightseeing. View for yourself the hundred sapphire lakes in Florida's highlands—250 feet above the sea.

Everything that you could buy for $300 to $350 is included in this special $37.50 offer. Immediately on your arrival a car is placed at your disposal by the Haven Villa Corporation—an organization of the leading business men of Winter Haven. Side trips to other Florida sections, a 50-mile boat cruise through seventeen connected lakes, railroad, Pullman, hotel accommodations and other features are included for this unusually small price.

You simply cannot afford to miss it! To be sure of a lower berth on this special train, make your reservation at once!

For further information inquire at any office listed below

HAVEN VILLA CORPORATION

Ground Floor Hurt Bldg.

WALnut 0661

Atlanta, Ga.

On Branch Offices

MACON, MONTGOMERY, BIRMINGHAM AND ANNISTON

Winter Haven-Florida
The City of a Hundred Lakes

COMMUNITY CHEST WINS IN ROME

Constitution Bureau.
Rome, Ga., December 8.—(Special.) Rome's second community chest has been oversubscribed, thus continuing the precedent set last year when the first community chest was oversubscribed.

The total announced this afternoon by Chairman Owens was $20,037.21 with the probability that several other subscriptions would increase the total $500 or $1,000 more.

This result was sought because of the fact that net collections may not be as much as the total oversubscribed, but the entire amount in the budget will be required to meet the expenses of the nine participating agencies.

The budget this year was set at $18,000.

Expressing his appreciation for the loyalty and energy displayed by the members of the community chest organization, Chairman Owens said that he did not feel capable of saying enough in praise of the men helping with the campaign. He declared that the splendid success of the community chest was an inspiration to undertake other movements for the general welfare.

Masons Elect Officers.
Rome, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—After serving 10 or 12 years as secretary of Royal Arch chapter, No. 20, Paul L. Morris was last night elevated to the position of "high priest" by members of the chapter at its annual election of officers, held at the Masonic temple. Mr. Morris has always done brilliant work in the chapter and commandery, and as a senior officer of the chapter is expected to put new life into the Masonic organization.

Two former high priests were given stations in this year's officers, W. M. McDuffie and Sam Frye. C. A. Robinson, elected king, has held that position once before.

Fred Dale is the retiring priest, and he has made an excellent leader. The officers will be installed by past High Priest W. H. Wilkerson next Friday night.

The following is the list of officers for the coming year: High priest, Paul Morris; king, C. A. Robinson; scribe, W. A. Johnson; treasurer, W. H. Foster; secretary, W. A. Dodson; captain of the host, W. A. McDuffie; principal solumner, Sam Frye; Royal Arch captain, W. B. J. Floyd; master first veil, C. C. Strange; master second veil, R. H. Daniell; master third veil, D. S. Busby.

Girl Wins In Chicago.
Rome, Ga., December 8.—(Special.) Miss Vesta Holder has returned to Rome from Chicago, where with Miss Jessie Burton, former county demonstration agent, she attended the National Livestock and Home Economics exhibition and was winner of second prize in the bread judging contest in which 25 states participated.

Miss Holder is a 4-H club girl and has won county and state prizes in club work. The honor she won in Chicago is one deserving great praise. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Holder, of Coosa county.

LOCAL TRAFFIC CLUB ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

Congress is called upon to pass a law placing interstate motor truck transportation under control of the interstate commerce commission in resolutions adopted by the Atlanta Traffic club at its luncheon meeting this week at the Henry Grady hotel. Resolutions designed to broaden eligibility rules for membership in the traffic club were also adopted and reports of several committees read.

COTTON SPINNERS WILL MEET HERE

The 30th annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association will be brought to Atlanta May 18 and 19, of next year, it was announced Tuesday by Fred H. Houser, secretary of the Atlanta convention bureau. Mr. Houser received word Tuesday from George S. Harry, of Atlanta, president of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' association and member of the board of governors for the national organization, that it was voted to bring the convention to Atlanta next year at the 20th annual convention, now in session at Greenville, S. C.

It was only through exerted effort on the part of the Atlanta representatives that the convention was obtained. This is 10 years from the date when the last American Cotton Manufacturers' association met here. It is a part of the program of the Atlanta convention bureau to bring a number of conventions back to Atlanta next year that have met here before.

The convention will bring to Atlanta 800 delegates from all parts of the country but principally from the south. Plans are already being made to entertain the manufacturers in an elaborate manner.

Officers of the association are W. J. Vereen, of Moultrie, Ga., president; S. F. Patterson, of Roanoke Rapids, N. C., vice president; James P. Gossett, of Williamston, S. C., second vice president; and Winslow D. Adams, of Charlotte, N. C., secretary and treasurer.

PARK AND MATTHEWS HIT EXTRA SESSION

Judge James B. Park, of the Ocmulgee circuit, Tuesday made public a letter in which he expressed opinion that it would be a useless expenditure of the state's money if Governor Clifford Wilkes should call the legislature in extra session.

"The question of issuing bonds for public highways and educational purposes was not favored by the last session of the legislature and it seems that to call the members in session again would be a useless expenditure of the public money," Judge Park states.

Judge Park, in his letter, refers to published reports that he was the author of a resolution introduced at a public meeting held in Greenville, favoring an extra session. He states that the resolution did not favor the extra session, merely calling on the governor to include the question of bond issues for roads and school in the event such a session was called. The resolution, Judge Park also says, was not introduced by him but by J. E. Singleton, cashier of the Georgia State bank.

Representative Walter Matthews, of Harrison county, is opposed to the extra session, according to Representative Herman Milner, of Dodge county, who has been the leader of the forces opposing the call. Representative Milner Tuesday stated that he had heard from Representative Matthews to this effect.

Distinguished Men Will Visit Atlanta For Medical Session

Many distinguished American physicians will attend the national convention of the Alpha Kappa Kappa Medical Fraternity, December 28 and 29, at the Biltmore hotel. Delegates will be guests of the Emory university active chapter, with a program that will include a barbecue at Emory, a trip to Stone Mountain, a reception, dance and banquet at the Biltmore.

Among prominent members who will be in attendance are: Dr. Charles Mayo, of Rochester, N. Y., president of the American College of Surgeons; Dr. William D. Haggard, of Nashville, president of the American Medical association; Dr. Edward L. Bentz, of Chicago; Dr. John P. Sprague, of Evansville, Ind.; William Englebach, of St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. Albert B. Landrum, of Columbus, Ohio, director of state and provincial activities, the American College of Surgeons; Dr. Malcolm T. McEachern, of Chicago, director of hospital activities, the American College of Surgeons; Dr. John Witherspoon, former president of the American Medical association, and Dr. Jacob C. Kroft, president of the Illinois State Medical association.

DR. ROLAN STOKER ELECTED BY LODGE

Dr. Rolan R. Stoker, young Atlanta dentist, was chosen noble grand of Central lodge, No. 28, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at the semi-annual meeting Monday night at Odd Fellows hall, Alabama and Broad streets. Bernard L. Chappie is retiring noble grand. Other new officers elected are W. F. Burns, vice grand; Rufus J. Finley, recording secretary; E. L. LaFontaine, financial secretary and hall committeeman; Fletcher W. Laird, treasurer; A. W. Warner, trustee; W. E. Baker, general relief committee and Francis P. Launkin, director of the degree staff. Installation will be held the first Monday night in January. It was announced that the lodge will be held the night of December 14 when a large number of candidates will receive the first degree.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR DR. B. H. WAGNON

Funeral services for Dr. Bertram H. Wagon, 43, of 259 East Tenth street, well-known Atlanta surgeon who died at a private hospital Monday, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from Wesley Memorial church. The Rev. Marvin Williams, assisted by the Rev. B. F. Fraser and Dean T. H. Johnston, will officiate. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Dr. Wagon had been prominent in medical circles of Atlanta for many years and was last year admitted to the American College of Surgeons. He was also well-known in church work, being chairman of the board of stewards of the Wesley Memorial church.

SERVES TWO DAYS, THEN BOLTS PRISON

Choosing to run the risk of an additional sentence if caught rather than serve 10 more days of a 12-day stockade sentence for drunkenness, Ernest Wright, alias Ernest Reage, 18, took French leave Tuesday and is being sought by city police.

Wright was sentenced Monday to the stockade on his failure to pay a $6 fine. He was made a trusty, and while at the city garage Tuesday with a city truck, he made a break for liberty and escaped. He is said to be from Douglasville.

McLean To Speak.
Francis H. McLean, director of the American Association for Organizing Family Social Work, will speak Thursday at the noon luncheon of the Social Workers club at the Peacecock cafe. Mr. McLean is nationally known authority in this work and his address is expected to be of unusual interest.

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES CO.

AFFILIATED WITH R. H. Macy & Co. NEW YORK CITY.

Planning Christmas for a Man!

It is considered the hardest job in the world!

And yet it is really very simple. For gift selection for any man narrows down to things practical and useful—things to wear, mostly.

Ties, handkerchiefs, hose, belts, mufflers, umbrellas and toilet requisites—that offers a very fine selection.

You'll find them all here—at prices consistently as low as the lowest anywhere in the city!

Ties for Gifts

600 beautiful all-silk ties! Ready for eager Christmas shoppers! You'll have an easy time finding what you want in this excellent selection. We have a wide assortment of stripes and lovely designs. Flamboyant colorings for the young collegiate. Conservative styles for dad or grandfather. In Christmas boxes that are most attractive. $1.00.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Mufflers for Gifts

What choice is mufflers! Men's Swiss silk mufflers, knit in a beautiful assortment of brilliant stripes, at only $6.95. Swiss knit Rayon and silk mufflers, at $4.00—in black and white, black and gray, beige and blue or gray and blue. The imported wool cashmere mufflers for a college boy—smart plaids and bright shades. And priced only $2.74 each!

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Hose for Gifts

Men's silk and wool half hose—the gift that all men appreciate so much! Partly because a man can't have too many pairs, and partly because these silk and wool socks are the softest and most comfortable to be had. Now, while our assortment is complete, is the time to make your selection. We have every wanted color and size. Price $1.00.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Belts for Gifts

Leather belts for men—there are all kinds. Some ready boxed in special Christmas boxes, range in price from 94c to $1.50 each. These are black, tan or gray—strong and good looking. There are others with silver buckles, handsomely boxed, and in either tan or gray. Price $2.50. There are several smart styles. And all the prices so reasonable!

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Umbrellas for Gifts

An umbrella for a man. He's probably lost the only one he had at the office. And he'll need one for the winds and rains of February and March. Silk and linen umbrellas are only $5.49, while the Gloria and linen are $3.95 and $4.50. Then, there are all-silk taffeta umbrellas from $6.00 to $15.00. All sturdy, handsome, practical.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Toilet Requisites for Gifts

Everything the well groomed man likes and considers necessary to his well being! Military set, consisting of hair brushes, clothes brush and comb — from $4.45 to $14.45. The Traveling Sets, with Gillette Razor and ten blades, shaving brush, soap case—priced from $5.75 to $9.45. There's the shaving brush in ivory case at $2.49 to $9.94, and any number of other interesting, useful and appropriate toilet requisites for men.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Kid Gloves for Gifts

Dressy gloves for men, of real kid. Smart and practical and serviceable, too! Some are black, some brown, tan — there is wide choice. For Christmas gifts there are few other things a man would prefer than gloves. You'll find the prices right, too, ranging from $2.50 to $4.00 a pair. Or he may prefer driving gloves, fleece-lined, priced from $2.95 to $12.95 a pair.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

Bath Robes for Gifts

Heavy, handsome blanket bath robes—the kind men like so much. The kind that are so convenient to slip into on a cold morning when he simply hates to get up! These are good-looking, with the popular color combinations. Several styles, too. Some have ombre stripes, others plaid and check designs. Their price range is from $3.95 to $6.49.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co.—Street Floor

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES CO.

AFFILIATED WITH R. H. Macy & Co. NEW YORK CITY

A Factory Sale!

760 Pairs of

Patrician Shoes

$3.95

Usually From $8.50
to $13.50

Special permission from the factory enables us to offer such remarkable values in Patrician Shoes for Wednesday and Thursday selling! Two of the many lovely styles in the sale are pictured above.

Patent Leathers—Suedes—Calfskins—Kidskins

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co., Street Floor

THE SOUTHERN SERVES THE SOUTH

What every business man knows

Every business man knows the danger of using too much borrowed capital in financing the growth of a business.

But the promise of the ultimate success of an undertaking often justifies the accumulation of debt against the day when established earning power will attract new partnership capital.

Such has been the record of the Southern Railway Company. For thirty years it has been compelled to finance itself by borrowing and the reinvestment of earnings.

But the Southern should now take its rightful place among the enterprises of the South whose solid worth merits the confidence of investors and attracts partners rather than creditors.

SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

Telephone WA. 6665.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

Daily and 1 Mo. 1 Mo. 3 Mo. 6 Mo. 1 Yr.

Daily 20c 50c 1.00 2.00 4.00 7.00

Single Copies—Daily, 5c Sunday, 10c

By Mail Only

Sunday 10c 45c 1.25 2.50 5.00

ATLANTA, GA., DEC. 9, 1925.

J. R. HOLLIDAY, Constitution Building, sole advertising manager for all territory outside of Atlanta.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York City by 2 p. m. the day after issue.

It can be had: Hottel's News Stand, Broadway and Forty-third street (Times building corner); Schulte News Agency, 41 Bryant Park, and Grand Central Depot.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments not in accordance with published rates are not authorized; the newspaper is not responsible for subscription payments until received at office of publication.

Member of the Associated Press.

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise news published herein.

HEAR THE WORD—O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord, Jeremiah 22:29.

PRAYER—Our Father, give us the ear to hear and the understanding heart that we may daily know and do Thy holy will.

THE MESSAGE.

The president's message renews all the recommendations made in former messages, none of which except tax reductions, were favorably acted upon in the 68th congress.

They are, in brief, further tax reductions, in line with the committee bill submitted on the opening day of congress; adherence to the world court; expansion of aviation without radical changes in the organizations of the separate services; the government's merchant fleet to be under the control of a single executive, thereby automatically curtailing the authority of the shipping board; encouragement of cooperative marketing; increased executive authority in dealing with labor disputes, referring specifically to the coal situation; railroad consolidation; inland waterway developments; reorganization of government departments; sale of Muscle Shoals to the highest bidder with reservations; more strict enforcement of prohibition, etc.

In all of these recommendations his views have not changed from those expressed in his last message except that on some of the more pressing issues he expands his views with greater emphasis.

Aside from his unanswerable argument in favor of American participation in the world court, reconciling the misinformed as to such entry meaning official involvement, or participation into the deliberations of the League of Nations, the president's discussion of the merchant marine, prohibition enforcement and aviation are of outstanding interest and importance.

On the whole the message is conservative and constructively sound, but his views on the aviation status and the merchant marine status will be roundly challenged throughout the country without regard to party lines.

To illustrate, he advocates that the war, navy and commerce departments each be provided with an additional assistant secretary "to give special attention to air navigation."

That is to say, instead of unifying the system so as to obviate the jealousies of competition in the different arms of national defense, and in order to force that cooperation and coordination, the lack of which has already produced scandals, in order that greater efficiency may be obtained; he would further divide the responsibility in the development of air navigation into three instead of two parts.

This is in line with the views of the war and navy heads, but it is not—as proven by bitter experience—in line with the best interests of a service—the importance of which in war cannot be underestimated—and which is yet in its infancy. It can be efficiently developed to its full measure of service only through absolute harmony in thought and action. No other government has spent so much on the development of its air service, or finds it in such a deplorable situation seven years after the first war in which the air service played such a conspicuous and important part.

The president has undoubtedly taken the wrong view, although naturally—as in all pioneering involving great undertakings—there are two schools of thought, leaving it a controversial issue which can best be solved by putting the entire defense arms of the government under one head, army, navy and aviation.

The president very wisely takes a position as to the conduct of the merchant marine that is entirely contrary to that involving the air issue. He earnestly advocates the concentration of the control of the merchant fleet under one executive. This is basically sound, provided, however, that the spirit and the letter of the merchant marine act is adhered to as to proper-functioning regional direction. Ever section of the coast should have, by law, a voice in the shipping board, and if that board is to have its wings so clipped that it can have no voice in the allocation and administration of the shipping interests per se, then the only permissible alternative is to provide a regional board of directors to serve with the single executive of the emergency fleet corporation, with the same voice that any corporation board has in the administration, through a single executive, of its affairs. The president does not make this clear, although he says: "I do not advocate the elimination of regional considerations, but," etc. They can be eliminated unless the present law is amended to that end. In that event a bad situation will become worse.

As to prohibition, the president makes no definite suggestions further than an appeal for state aids in enforcement. This will arouse controversies in those states that licensed the sale of liquors until the Volstead act became effective. Large elements in such states will continue to say that it is a federal law and it is distinctly the function of the government to at least show primal effort at enforcement. The lack of specific recommendations in this respect is disappointing.

The president continues his plea for governmental economies, and is particularly strong in his recommendations for departmental reorganizations so as to cut out overlapping and wastes.

On the whole, the message lacks that punch and force so evident in Mr. Coolidge's previous messages, and particularly in the first message after he had been chosen by the people to an office to which he first succeeded through the death of a predecessor.

There is not the usual Coolidge directness and militancy seen in former messages. It is evident he feels the embarrassment of having to renege on his recommendations of a new salient recommendations that an unsympathetic congress failed to heed.

ATLANTA THE CENTER.

The announcement that Sears-Roebuck company, great Chicago mail order house, will build a $3,000,000 manufacturing and merchandising plant in Atlanta is another concrete example of Atlanta's industrial and economic growth.

Another emphatic illustration, too, of Atlanta's strategic position, with her network of railroads and her unexcelled postal facilities, as a distributing center for the entire southeastern territory.

The industrial movement to the south is no longer a matter of argument or speculation. The trek—for that is what it is—is as definite today as a law of physics.

There is no occasion to explain why. The fact that great institutions are bringing their factories, and their great distributing warehouses, into the south emphasize the economic wisdom in doing so, else they would not come.

In the instance of this great Chicago mail order house coming to Atlanta, with a plant that will employ thousands of people, the move is explained primarily in advantages of distribution, especially in parcel post deliveries under the postal zoning system.

This system increases the rate as distance-units, or zones, from the point of posting increase.

From Atlanta the enormous territory from the Potomac to the gulf and from the Atlantic to the Mississippi river, can be easily reached, not only overnight in any direction, but at first zone rates to the advantage of the consumers.

The move made by Sears-Roebuck company will undoubtedly be followed by others. It is not a matter of competition. It is a matter of business—of distribution.

Nothing can prevent Atlanta from being the merchandising and financial center of the southeast.

What it means to Atlanta, to Georgia, to every state from Virginia to Florida and west to Louisiana, is inestimable.

"UNCLE REMUS" DAY.

This is a birthday anniversary that is near to the heart of every child, not only in Georgia, his native state, but in every state and land in which the stories of Uncle Remus, have been read—for Joel Chandler Harris, who was born on December 9, 1848, and died on July 3, 1908, did more to carry the sunlight into the nurseries of the world than any author before or since his day.

The Black Knight of the old southern plantation was immortalized by him through his quaint mode of dialect, for in his Uncle Remus folkloric stories he also embodied the genial humor and the splendid loyalty of the ante-bellum darky as no other author has.

As Frank L. Stanton once wrote of him, in substance, he took the fires from the lowly cabins of the southland "and lighted the windows" of the universe.

He sweetened every home and hearthstone with the music of his tender melodies, and made the quaint colloquies of the cotton patch classics fitted to the libraries of scholars.

His old home on Gordon street, in Atlanta, has become a national shrine. It will be the scene today of fitting ceremonies in honor of his memory.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

The Same Old

Old Man Santa

He is just the

He knows the little

And calls 'em all

And lots of 'em believe in him—

they say, and

And still hang up their stockings

in a way.

They listen—they listen

For the reindeer on the night

And the tinkle of the sleigh bells

O'er the housetops, snowy-white.

Old Man Santa Claus—

He's the friend of old,

Knows just every firebird

Where Christmas tales are told.

Still his little children

Dream of Christmas Day—

They know he'll fill their stockings

In the old, sweet way.

Near and far they listen,

With visions of delight

For the running of the reindeer

O'er the housetops, snowy-white.

Dear to the hearts of the world's children and lovingly remembered them as the days and years go by,

Joel Chandler Harris seems as near to them now as when the home streets and pathways led to his earthly dwelling place.

For he was, to them, the childhood's dream, who told the tales that made the evening shadows wistful for, when "Uncle Remus" would stir his cabin fire, and call the "creeturs" from the folk-lore lands at the bottom of his expectant gaze—the eager, listening "Little Boy."

So with the birthday anniversary of Joel Chandler Harris, loved of all the children, we send here at home and elsewhere, where the little folks who made a pathway to his door, still strong to pay heart-tribute to his memory.

For the home where he lived, and dreamed his wonderful dream, is their home, as well as a memorial shrine for the world.

The children are all "at home"

there!

And the fireside fancies of their friend and kindly philosopher have become as realities to them; and there, where his mockingbirds still sing in the sunlight, or become the sweet musics of the Dark, they love to gather as in days when he was with them, and met and welcomed them to his heart and home.

He has been long "away," but still he seems to sit at their firesides—friend and companion, he still is time-interpretor of their sweetest dreams.

The Good Times Train.

When Christmas morning comes in view

And brings the Good Times Train,

I hope 'twill make my dreams come true

So I can dream again.

So I can dream again,

And never dream in vain—

I hope 'twill make my dreams

come true

So I can dream again.

So I can dream again,

And never dream in vain—

I know 'twill make my dreams

come true

So I can dream again!

The Aurora Advertiser man has been "possum hunting lately," says the Atlanta

view, "and he's been hunting for 'em."

"You may laugh at the 'possum and his ways, but his skin is worth $100

at the moment," says the Aurora

view, "and he's been hunting for 'em."

They tempt some of our wives if our skin had such a value—in fact, they would skin us off our feet, they say.

Maybe it is as well that things are as they are.

"If prices would only fall with the autumn leaves," says the Atlanta view, "we might be able to get by with a little longer, but they're so high, they fear they'd be smashed all to pieces if they took a sudden tumble—

Lord help us!"

Brother Williams.

Quit lookin' fer de gold of de rainbow, an' dis fer de like de devil fer day right here at home.

WALTHAM SEES

RISE IN VALUES

OF LOCAL REALTY

Real estate values in Atlanta are due to rise and more building projects are expected, according to W.

Walsh, of the Georgia Real Estate

Trust company, who addressed the Atlanta Real Estate board at a luncheon Monday. Mr. Walsh advocated more drastic and lasting laws, particularly one that would make it illegal to build flimsy apartments. He urged that Courtland street be widened and that Willis street be widened and the Nunnally subdivision north of the Southern railroad.

"Many of our streets," said Mr.

Walsh, "are totally inadequate for the traffic they are called upon to bear."

The great number of buildings recently constructed, said Mr. Walsh, is a graduate of Girls' High. The book will be autographed by the young writer and will be placed in a special position in the school library.

Little Boy: "It's no use waiting for mother to return." Collector: "Why not?" Boy: "She hasn't gone out."

Boston Transcript.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New York, December 8.—Taxicab drivers in New York have a black list of four or five hundred names of people, who are notorious "gyppers."

Under some pretext or excuse these

"gyppers" have managed to establish a reputation for getting away without paying. I was shown the list, and

I was astonished to recognize some names that are a by-word in social and financial circles.

There was one prominent broker, of whom I was told that he has a habit of calling a cab to his home in the morning, driving to his office and leaving the driver to call for him. Several of the fellows have had the experience that when they called he had gone for the day.

On the list was one consul general of a European nation; a newspaper owner, a prominent clubman, three theatrical producers of international repute, and one leading lady at a popular revue.

Against the black list there is the unwritten record of "decent guys."

For instance, David Belasco is a good customer. He tips at least 50 per cent. Flo Ziegfeld has also a good reputation with the drivers, but the best of all is a Presbyterian clergyman, who drives daily from his home to his church office on Fifth avenue. The ride costs him 30 cents, but he never tips less than a dollar.

"Suicides?" echoed a driver when I talked of them. "Oh, we have lots of them. A man will hire a taxi and shortly afterwards you hear an explosion. The fellow you're driving has driven himself. Why they want to be driving in a taxi when they commit suicide, heaven only knows." One driver told me that he had driven four suicides in the last four years.

"About time for another," he re-

3 MEN INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

Columbus, Ga., December 8.—(AP)—The three persons who were injured early this afternoon when a Seaboard Air Line passenger train derailed as it approached a trestle eight miles from Columbus, are at the City hospital, where it was stated that their condition is not considered serious.

Robert Shepherd, American, Ga., the fireman, was scalded and injured about the back and legs; A. J. Gray, Albany, Ga., baggage master, was bruised on the body and Charles Cole, Columbus, negro porter, was hurt on his right jaw. It is believed that the three men will soon be able to leave the hospital.

The locomotive plunged down an embankment at Upatoi creek. The baggage car continued on the trestle, ripping the structure. Gray and the porter were in this car and were thrown out. Gravel on the track was said to have been the cause of the derailment.

LEATHER COMPANY TO GIVE PRESENTS FOR YOUNGSTERS

The Crescent Leather Goods company, of 70 Edgewood avenue, is making a unique present to the girls and boys' orphanages of Atlanta.

This firm, of which W. H. Goldstein is president and Bob Hornik sales manager, is now making boys and girls belts for those who are in these orphanages. They will be presented in time for Christmas with the compliments of the company.

Sales Manager Hornik said Tuesday: "We would like to have from any wholesale house three or four gross of toy watches to append to the boys' belts and for the girls' belts any contribution in the nature of handkerchiefs, toy watches, or any other things that will be appropriate for attaching to girls' belts."

"All we ask is that such attachments be sent to us and we will be glad to put them on and make presentation of them in behalf of the donors of such articles."

For several years this well-known firm has donated each Christmas something of intrinsic value to the orphanages of Atlanta.

COLQUITT TICK CASE BEFORE COURT TODAY

Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, is scheduled to hear a mandamus proceeding today against Dr. Peter F. Bohnsen, state veterinarian, to compel the official to exterminate ticks in Colquitt county. Colquitt commissioners filed the bill asking the court to force Dr. Bohnsen to fight the tick in that county after it had been declared tick-free. They claim since he was wiped out by activities of state officials, they have recurred and that the county has been unable to get the state to help fight the pest.

The hearing will begin today, according to the court calendar, but a decision is not expected to be handed down until some time later.

METHODISTS PLAN SOCIAL SERVICE UNIT

A great social service center combining work of the Methodist city mission board, good will industries and extension work of the Epworth League will be planned Tuesday by Methodist ministers of Atlanta at their regular weekly meeting in Wesley Memorial church. H. O. Williams, in charge of the good will industries, recently established Methodist social center, reported that 1,500 "good will" boys have already been placed, 543 days work given to the unemployed and $2,514 paid for maintenance.

Bishop Dickey was a visitor at the meeting and addressed the assembled ministers.

ASKS BIG DAMAGES FOR AUTO INJURIES

John F. Mims Tuesday filed suit in the city court of Atlanta asking $25,000 damages of W. C. Johnson for injuries alleged to have been sustained December 4, when he said he was struck by an automobile driven by Johnson.

According to the petition, Mims was walking on Hunnicutt street at the intersection of that street with Marietta street, when the car driven by Johnson, swept around a truck which was running on Marietta. The petitioner was struck before he could get out of the way, he charges.

THREE SCOUTS GIVEN MEDALS FOR BRAVERY

Stewart McGinty, of 109 Juniper street; Monroe Butler, of 905 Ponce de Leon avenue; and William Stovall, of Waycross, were awarded the Louis H. Beck medals for meritorious service as Boy Scouts at a meeting of the court of honor of the Atlanta council this week. Each of the three scouts received the medal, which is the gift of Louis H. Beck, of Atlanta, for having saved a person from drowning. Dr. W. Perrin Nicolson, Jr., was elected president of the court to succeed Dr. Floyd McKee.

MORE MILD WEATHER DUE, IS PREDICTION

A continuance of the mild, fair weather felt in Atlanta Tuesday is in store for the state today, according to C. V. von Herzmann, chief of the Atlanta weather bureau. There will be no rain in any part of the state and the pleasing temperatures of Tuesday will be felt today, he said.

The thermometer will not go below the mark set Tuesday, which was 44 and the highest will also be about the same as the previous day, which was 50. There is no indication of cold weather at present.

SIBLEY WILL ADDRESS ROTARY CLUB TUESDAY

Judge Samuel H. Sibley, of the United States district court, will be principal speaker next Tuesday at the meeting of the Rotary club at the Capital City club. The meeting Tuesday at the club was devoted to entertainment of announcers attending the local radio exposition.

SCHOOL HEADS GET CITIZENS' REPORT

The report of the citizens commission appointed last January by John T. Hancock, president of the board of education, to study questions of operation and needs of the Atlanta public schools and to make recommendations that may tend to improve present conditions, was formally tendered the board Tuesday afternoon by Joel Hunter, chairman.

The commission was extended a vote of thanks by the board, and on motion of Commissioner Oscar Mills, President Hancock was authorized to appoint a committee of three to study the report and offer recommendations to the board at the earliest time practicable. The committee named was composed of Commissioner Mills, Dr. R. M. Eubanks and L. M. Threlkell.

Chief Recommendations. Chief among recommendations, which were published several months ago, was one urging a bond issue of $8,400,000 to build necessary school houses to afford a seat for every child. The first issue of these proposed bonds should be for 30 per cent of the total amount.

The commission also recommended that the board give consideration to the question of consolidating Tech High and Boys' High schools with the boys' department of Commercial High school, and Girls' High with the girls' department of Commercial High school.

Another recommendation was that the board of education be composed of nine members, each to be elected by the city-at-large instead of 12 members, one from each of the city's 12 wards.

Control of Schools. While recommending that the board have independent control of the schools, the commission suggests that the mayor be given power of veto over financial expenditures. The commission also suggested that the board be allowed to levy taxes or to certify to a separate tax to be levied for school purposes.

The commission likewise recommended elimination of portable school buildings, declaring they were unsatisfactory because of their short life, and constitute a heavy fire hazard.

The report bore the signatures of Mr. Hunter, George B. Hinman and J. B. Bachman.

AUTO AND BAGGAGE STOLEN ON STREET FROM NEWCOMER

Andrew Auten is a native of the middle west, but when he visited Atlanta about six months ago he was so captivated by the beauty of the city and its fine climate that he determined to leave the west and come here to make his home. He is a landscape engineer and believed this section offered a field of activity for him unexcelled in the nation.

Mr. Auten motored back, attended to details of closing up his business in his home city, and then prepared to come to Atlanta. He did not have a great amount of packing to do, he said, but he did have a great amount of blue prints, tools, and various things of the same description which were of the utmost value to him in the conduct of his business. These he packed into his automobile and drove to Atlanta.

Monday Mr. Auten arrived in this city. He did not come to the business section immediately, for there was no place to park his car. He stopped on Ivy street and walked to his destination. Early in the afternoon he decided he would find a garage and put his belongings away, but when he arrived at the garage he found it and all his belongings were gone.

"Your best people welcomed me because of my reputation," Mr. Auten wrote The Constitution in telling of his loss. "But some thief must have been glad to see me, too, for he made away with my most precious personal effects, business papers, clothes, records, expensive tools for my profession, etc. The work of the thief is of it all impels me to write with the hope that some reader may see my name and report finding such articles."

FIREMAN AWARDED DAMAGES BY JURY IN CITY COURT

Roy H. Stallings, Sr., 45, former railroad fireman, was awarded $26,171.20 Tuesday by a jury in Judge H. M. Reid's division of the city court of Atlanta against the Louisville & Nashville and the Western & Atlantic railroads for injuries alleged to have been sustained by the petitioner in a train crash on August 10, 1923.

Stallings charged that Engineer Hetzel of the engine on which he was a fireman, was in charge of the train which figured in a crash with a Louisville & Nashville train under Engineer Edwards, near Bolinas, near Bolinas, near Bolinas.

The complainant claimed that his knee, ankle and leg were injured when he jumped from the cab as the trains came together. Hetzel & Dennis represented the plaintiff.

Attorneys for the railroad have filed notice of an appeal.

Christmas Pardons Not To Be Issued By Governor Walker

There will be no special consideration for convicts in Georgia prisons, in the way of pardons and paroles for Christmas this year, according to statements Tuesday by Governor Clifford Walker and members of the state prison commission.

The governor said he had no intention of issuing a batch of pardons as Christmas gifts to convicts. He will, however, consider carefully any recommendations sent him by the prison commission, he said.

The commission is holding hearings this week on applications for parole or pardon. It is the custom to hold these hearings the first week in each month. There is an unusually long list to be heard this month, caused by the desire of many prisoners to spend Christmas at home.

A member of the commission said Tuesday, however, that the period of the year would not enter into the action on any application. He took the attitude that if a man is not entitled to clemency in November, he is not entitled to it in December and said the commission would try always to weigh each case by its merits.

MOTHER SAVES BOY AS CLOTHING BURNS

James Currie, 4, son of Mrs. J. M. Currie, of 340 Capitol avenue, was seriously burned about the feet and legs Tuesday when his clothes caught fire from a pile of newspapers he had fired in the back yard. He was rescued by his mother who rushed from the house and smothered the flames when she heard his screams.

The child had found a box of matches in the kitchen and took them into the yard and set fire to the papers while standing on them. He was rushed to Grady hospital and given first aid.

Fulton Wedding License Total Shows Decline

Applications for marriage licenses in Fulton county for the first eleven months of 1923 showed a slump of about 100 over 1924, it was announced Tuesday by the clerk of the ordinary's office—the total being 2,817.

While this decline in the number asking wedding licenses was being heralded, Fulton county superior court clerk declared that there has been a gain of about 50 legal separations during the same period over 1924.

The figures for this year are approximately 800 against 750 for 1924. The decline is believed to be due to the fact that the Georgia law requires that persons wishing to be married must post applications in the ordinary's office at least five days before the ceremony takes place. A small percentage of couples leave the state to be wedded, and for this reason it is not believed there have been fewer marriages this year.

The Christmas rush in filing of applications continued Tuesday 12 being placed on record—among which were four white couples.

These were: Jable Jackson Dorsey, 25, and Miss Irene Bearden, 22; Wilbur E. Malone, 36, and Mrs. Palestine Hand, 35; Ben A. Stamos, 26, and Miss Aline Kendrick, 19; Julius C. Mitchell, 21, and Miss Annie Kelly, 19.

MASONIC CLUB HOST TO RADIO ANNOUNCERS

Announcers attending the radio exposition at the auditorium will be guests of the Masonic club this afternoon at the Peacock cafe. Jamudin Kay, Atlanta announcer, will have charge of the program. Graham McNamee, New Yorker, and George Dewey Hay, of Nashville, will appear on the program. Dr. Claude N. Hughes is president of the club.

Vacant Houses Watched.

Special orders to Atlanta policemen were issued Tuesday by Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jeff to watch out for pilfering from vacant houses. Reports had been made of numerous robberies of plumbing fixtures from vacant houses within the past few days. Valuable plumbing fixtures were stolen Tuesday from vacant houses at 47 and 49 Brotherton street, it was reported.

HAY TO ANNOUNCE FROM EXPO TODAY

George Dewey Hay, chief announcer for WSM, Nashville, will arrive in Atlanta this morning to announce programs broadcast today and tomorrow from the auditorium as a part of Atlanta's first radio exposition. Thousands of persons visited the exposition on Monday and Tuesday.

"The Solemn Old Judge," as Mr. Hay is known, is the second nationally famous announcer to preside at the microphone in the auditorium studio. Graham McNamee, of WEAF, New York, recently voted champion announcer of America, was in charge Monday and Tuesday.

From 2 to 11 p. m. each day this week, the exposition will be in progress with houses containing the most modern equipment open at all times and with continuous programs being broadcast from the crystal studio on the auditorium stage. A large audience was present on Monday, the opening day, and an even larger crowd visited the exposition Tuesday. An elaborate and varied program has been arranged for today and Atlanta radio dealers who are sponsoring the exposition expect the crowd to surpass even that of Tuesday.

The biggest event of the exposition will come Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock when Reinold Verwerburgh, baritone and concert star, will sing for an hour from the crystal studio. This will be his first radio concert from any station outside of New York city.

Holiday Liquor Supply Suffers; Officers Active

Contraband Christmas "joy" Tuesday suffered another setback when federal agents working out of the office of William T. Day, regional prohibition enforcement agent, reported that within the past two days approximately 250 gallons of liquor and three automobiles have been confiscated and three men have been arrested.

C. C. West, driver of a Dahlenberg bus, and Fred Jones, owner of the bus fleet, Tuesday made bonds of $1,000 each to appear in court after waiving preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner J. S. Lebetter. West is alleged to have carrying 13 quarts of rum in a suitcase in the bus when federal officers raided his car on the Atlanta-Dawsonville road about a mile south of Dawsonville.

Both West and Jones declared they did not know what the suitcase contained when they were asked to deliver it to an Atlanta hotel. Jones said he did not even know the suitcase was on the bus.

Lewis Gamblin, driver of a machine on the Hog Mountain road in Gwinnett county, was taken into cus-today, and his machine and 115 quarts of liquor were confiscated late Monday, officers reported.

Ernest Boone was taken a few minutes later on the same road with a car and 120 quarts of the contraband, it was reported. Both Boone and Gamblin will appear before the commissioner in Gwinnett county.

Federal Prohibition Agents W. A. Weaver, Frank C. Crowe and J. B. Wallace and Deputy Sheriff Griwall, of Gwinnett county, were officers in the raids.

To Cure a Cold in One Day
Take Laxative BRUMBY'S GUMMIES. The Safe and Proven Remedy. (The First and Original Cold and Grip Tablets.) Signature of E. W. Grove on the box. 50c—(adv.)

FRIENDS OF FVLTON

AUGUSTUS BRYN

"He came in just the other day to take from his safe-deposit box the deeds to six Atlanta lots."

"Got those six bungalows sold," he said, "I'll be able to take up my notes ahead of time."

THE Bryn-Built Bungalows are beginning to be famous. They are so universally charming. Women always take to them because of their plentiful closets and sensible floor plans.

Augustus Bryn was a carpenter. He studied the buildings on which he worked, and had a habit of watching how they sold afterward.

With his savings he quietly invested in a number of well-located lots in good residential sections, and kept right on working until he was ready to go ahead.

With our advice he financed and built a small house. It sold promptly, giving him some capital. Working with us, talking over each move, he expanded until today he is able to swing six or eight houses at a time. And so well are they planned and built that he has no trouble selling them as fast as they are completed.

He calls the Fulton National his "silent partner"—but really he has just had from us the normal service that we like to extend to all our friends.

FVLTON NATIONAL BANK

MARIETTA STREET—Just a Few Steps From FIVE POINTS

"Square 'round, let us closer be,
We'll warm our wintry spirit,
The good we each in others see
The more that we sit near it."

The best home in the world is but a dreary, cheerless place unless it can be comfortably heated. That's true, isn't it? Then think what it means to have a heating source that is independent of the furnace—and available at an instant's notice.

That's the Humphrey Radiantfire
The ideal gift for the family.

All models sold on our usual easy terms.

GEORGIA RAILWAY AND POWER CO.

A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE

WALnut 6121

Sales Dept.

75 Marietta

TO-NIGHT Tomorrow Night

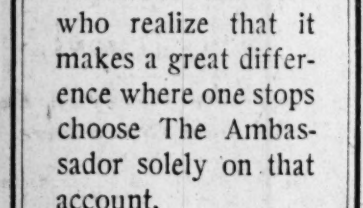

KEEPING WELL—An NR Tablet (a vegetable aperient) taken at night will help keep you well, by forcing and strengthening your digestion and elimination.

Used for over 30 years
Get a 25¢ Box
NR
Chips off the Old Block
NR JUNIORS—Little NRs
One-third the regular size. Made of the same ingredients, then candy coated. For children and adults.
SOLD BY YOUR DRUGGIST

Visitors to New York who realize that it makes a great difference where one stops choose The Ambassador solely on that account.

Write or wire
For Reservations
The Ambassador
Park Avenue at 51st Street.
NEW YORK

Diamond-Platinum Jewelry
—for the More Important
Christmas Gift

You have probably promised your wife a piece of diamond-platinum jewelry . . . a diamond brooch . . . a ring . . . a bracelet and this is a splendid time for you to make this gift.

We are showing many distinctive diamond-platinum rings, watches, bar pins, brooches and bracelets. A wide price range.

Those who may wish to purchase their diamonds out of income rather than capital may avail themselves of our partial payment plan. One-fifth cash and the balance in ten equal monthly payments.

MAIER & BERKELE, Inc.
31 Whitehall St. Established 38 Years

PRESIDENT URGES SALE AND LEASE OF MUSCLE SHOALS

Farm Problem Seen as Chief Trouble Maker for Coolidge After Reaction on Message

Significant Note of Disagreement Expressed on Agriculture Question by Regular G.O.P. Leaders

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 8.—The farm problem is indicated as the real trouble spot for President Coolidge by the reactions to his message to congress and the utterance of nearly equal significance before the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago.

As was to be expected, democrats and insurgents found fault with the message. But the significant note of disagreement is that from some of the regular republicans on the farm problem.

In his two pronouncements, the president limited himself in his discussion of the farm question to a rhetorical pat on the back. The most he could say for that everything will be all right at the end and that meantime government experts will advise the farmers how to organize cooperative marketing associations.

G. O. P. Dissatisfied
Mr. Coolidge is not satisfied with the president's treatment of the farm problem, explained a regular republican as Senator Cummins, of Iowa, president pro tem of the senate and regarded as one of the administration leaders.

"We have got to go farther than giving advice. I expect to introduce a measure shortly which will embody the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill. It will deal with the disposition of surplus crops but will not be the same as the McNary-Haugen bill in details."

Cummins comes from the corn belt where the dissatisfaction is keenest, owing to the low price the bumper corn crop is bringing. Corn has slid down from $1.35 a bushel to less than a dollar. Most Iowa farmers want the government to help the price by taking up the surplus and subsidizing it in some way.

Sentiment of farm organizations as expressed at Chicago following the president's speech Monday was somewhat critical of the administration's limited program.

Impatient at Restraint.
Senator Norris, of Nebraska, chairman of the senate agriculture committee; Senator Capper, leader of the farm bloc, and many members of the houses coming from agricultural sections are impatient at the president's restraint in discussing the situation of the farmers.

But no matter how strong the criticism becomes in congress as election time draws nearer, all indications are that Coolidge and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine will resist price fixing schemes with all of their strength.

Democrats, noting this crack in the administration's front wall, may be expected to drive their wedge into it as the session develops.

Although the new North Dakota insurgent, Nye, has not been given a senate seat, he lost no time in making his views known.

Nye Raps Message.
"Anything done to aid cooperative enterprises must be done with the fact in mind that they have been subjected to so much ill will in the north-west that the farmers themselves do not feel safe in launching extensively into this effort without assurance that the influence against them (big grain exchanges) will be either eliminated or made harmless."

Typical democratic comment is that of Garrett, of Tennessee, minority house leader.

"The message seems to me to be shot through with too much political opportunism for it to rank as anything but a very mediocre state paper. There is, of course, much of good moral homily in it. It is regrettable that the president does not better understand the Muscle Shoals project."

Senator Borah opposed the president's world court argument, of course, but liked the discussion of the coal situation and expects to introduce a bill shortly embodying the recommendations.

Avoids Dry Question.

"I notice the president did not spend any too much time in his reference to prohibition enforcement," said Gallivan, of Massachusetts, democrat.

Most of the senators and congressmen in their comments followed the usual practice of approving or disapproving according to their party affiliations and of picking out for comment some paragraph involving issues of interest at home.

The bulk of the comment ran like this:

Senator Heflin, Ala., democrat: "It abounds in the main in glittering generalities."

Representative Bachrach, N. J., republican: "It was a good conservative message."

Impressive Message.

Senator Cameron, of Arizona, republican: "The president has delivered a very impressive message to congress and given us a beneficial program of legislation. I am glad to

Important Points in Message Sent Congress by President

BY UNITED PRESS.

Washington, December 8.—Important points in President Coolidge's message include:

ECONOMY—Wants new obligations postponed unless they are reproductive capital investments or absolutely necessary; war debt should be retired as soon as possible to end annual interest item of $820,000,000.

BUDGET—Says congress ought to resist every effort to break down authority of budget director or comptroller general.

TAXATION—Commends non-partisan spirit in framing new tax bill and approves major provisions.

FOREIGN RELATIONS—Believes Locarno agreements represent success of administration policy of allowing Europe to mend itself; advocates such agreements last July; urges Europe to restrict armies; then United States would participate in any naval limitation conference that holds promise of success.

WORLD COURT—Emphatically urges entry and believes nation's rights will be fully protected; believes proposal of opponents to organize new court impracticable.

FOREIGN DEBTS—Promises every reasonable effort to fund remaining foreign debts; believes money sacrifices made in settlement already completed will be more than amply returned in better friendship and economic stability.

IMMIGRATION—Restriction should be modified wherever found to be working to deprive residents of close family ties; registration of aliens may be necessary if found many being smuggled in defiance of quota restrictions.

NATIONAL DEFENSE—Urges selective service act for mobilization of "both persons and material" in time of peril; approves recommendation of president's air board for assistant secretaries for aviation in war, navy and commerce departments; denies country is behind in art of aviation.

AGRICULTURE—Farmers do not wish government to meddle or establish price-fixing; encouragement of cooperative marketing, and better crop and price information urged.

MUSCLE SHOALS—Problem has assumed a place out of all proportion to importance. "It probably does not represent in market value much more than a first-class battleship, yet it has been discussed in congress over a period of years and for months at a time."

Favors sale to highest bidder who will agree to produce nitrates primarily and power incidentally. "If anything were needed to demonstrate the almost utter incapacity of the national government to deal directly with an industrial and commercial problem, it has been provided by our experience with this property."

PROHIBITION—Says duty of all is to observe the spirit of the prohibition act; energetic cooperation of states needed.

RAILROADS—Wants congress authorize consolidations under supervision of interstate commerce commission; urges labor relations legislation on basis of agreement between roads and employees.

always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Only one of these great items can be ultimately extinguished. That is the item of our war debt. Already this has been reduced by about $8,000,000,000, which means an annual saving in interest of close to $250,000,000. The present interest charge is about $820,000,000 yearly. It would seem to be obvious that the sooner this debt can be retired the more the taxpayers will save in interest and the more the government will be able to devote to the prosecution of the war.

Retire Debts.
It has always been our policy to retire our debts. That of the revolutionary war period, notwithstanding the additions made in 1812, was paid by 1855, and the civil war debt within 23 years. Of the amount already paid, over $1,000,000,000 is a reduction in cash balances. That source is exhausted. Over one and two-thirds billions of dollars was derived from excess receipts. Tax reduction eliminated. The sale of surplus war materials has been another element of our income. That is practically finished. With these eliminated, the reduction of the debt has been only about $500,000,000 each year, not an excessive sum on so large a debt.

Proposals have been made to extend the payment over a period of 62 years. If $1,000,000,000 is paid at the end of 20 years, the cost to the taxpayers is the principal and, if the interest is 4.12 per cent, a total of $1,850,000,000, or almost double. Here is another consideration: Compared with its purchasing power in 1913, the dollar we borrowed represented but 52 cents. As the value of our dollar increases due to the falling prices of commodities, the burden of our debt increases. It has now risen to 63.12 cents. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be.

Deflation of government after a war period is slower than deflation of business, where fulfillment is either prompt and effective or disaster follows. There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done. The expenditures of 1918, the last pre-war year, were $742,000,000, and in 1925 over $3,500,000,000, or nearly five times as great. If we subtract expenditures for debt retirements and interest, veterans' relief, increase of pensions and other special outlays, consisting of refunds, trust investments, and like charges, we find that the general expenses of the government in 1925 were slightly more than twice as large as in 1918.

As prices in 1925 were approximately 40 per cent higher than in 1918, the cost of the same government must also have increased. But the government is not the same. It is more expensive to collect the much greater revenue necessary and to administer our great debt. We have given enlarged and improved services to agriculture and commerce. Above all, America has grown in population and wealth. Government expenditures must always share in this growth. Taking into account the fact that I believe the government has present federal expenses are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation.

This does not mean that further economies will not come. As we reduce our debt our interest charges decline. There are many details yet to correct. The real improvement, however, must come not from additional curtailment of expenses, but by a more intelligent and judicious spending. Our economy must be constructive. While we should avoid as far as possible increases in permanent current expenditures, oftentimes a capital outlay with internal improvements will result in actual constructive saving. This is economy in its best sense. It is an avoidance of waste that there may be the means for an outlay today which will bring larger returns tomorrow. We should always a question of policy. When the country is "prosperous and free from debt," the rate of taxation is low, opportunity exists for assuming new burdens and undertaking new enterprises. Such a condition now prevails only to a limited extent. All proposals for assuming new obligations ought to be postponed, unless they are reproductive capital investments or are such as are absolutely necessary at this time. We still have an enormous debt of over $20,000,000,000, on which the interest and sinking fund requirements are $1,200,000,000. Our appropriations for the pension office and the veterans' bureau are $600,000,000. The war and navy departments call for $642,000,000. Other requirements, exclusive of the postoffice, which is virtually self-sustaining, brought the appropriations for the current year up to almost $3,100,000,000. This shows an expenditure of close to $30 for every inhabitant of our country. For the average family of five it means a tax, directly or indirectly, of about $150 for national purposes alone. The local tax adds much more. These enormous expenditures ought not to be continued, but through every possible effort they ought to be reduced.

Shan has ever existed at any previous time.

The example of this attitude has not been without its influence upon other countries. It has been the adjustment made of the difficult problem of reparations. This was the second step toward peace in Europe. It paved the way for the agreement which was drawn up at the Locarno conference. When ratified, these will represent the third step toward peace. While they do not of themselves provide an economic rehabilitation, which is necessary for the progress of Europe, by strengthening the guarantees of peace they diminish the need for great armaments. If the energy which now goes into military effort is transferred to productive endeavor, it will greatly assist economic progress.

The Locarno agreements were directly interested without any formal intervention of America, although on July 1 I publicly advocated such agreements in an address made in Massachusetts. We have consistently refrained from intervening except when our help has been sought, and we have felt it could be effectively given in the settlement of the Locarno and the London conference. These recent Locarno agreements represent the success of this policy which we have been following. It is a policy of having European countries settle their own political problems without involving this country. This beginning seems to demonstrate that this policy is sound. It is exceedingly gratifying to observe this progress, which both in its method and in its result promises much that is beneficial to the world.

When these agreements are finally adjusted, they will provide guarantees of peace that will be the basis of reliance upon force in some parts of Europe very much less necessary. The natural consequence of this is that there will be further international contacts for the limitation of armaments. This work was successfully begun at the Locarno conference. Nothing was done at that time concerning land forces because of European objection. Our standing army has been reduced to about 115,000 men. We are not proposing to increase it, nor is it possible that any foreign country could with the slightest misapprehension upon our land forces. They do not menace anybody. They are rather a protection to demonstrate that our land is as peaceful as the rest of the world at the present time. We shall look with great satisfaction upon that effort, and give our approbation and encouragement.

It seems clear that it is the reduction of armaments that is the basis of the first important step in the world at the present time. We shall look with great satisfaction upon that effort, and give our approbation and encouragement.

It does not seem that the authority to give advisory opinions interferes with the independence of the court. Advisory opinions in and of themselves are not harmful. They are such a way as to be very beneficial because they undertake to prevent injury rather than merely afford a remedy after the fact. It is a principle that only implies that the court shall function when proper application is made. It does not question the authority of the court for an advisory opinion does not differ materially from deciding the limitation of armaments upon such conditions that it would hold a fair promise of being effective. The general policy of our country is for disarmament and good will. We hesitate to adopt any practical plan that might reasonably be expected to succeed. But it would not care to attend a conference which would be a ratification or constitution would in all probability prove futile.

In the further pursuit of strengthening the bonds of peace and goodwill, we have joined with other nations in an international conference held at Geneva and signed an agreement which will be held before the Senate for ratification providing suitable measures for control and for public in international trade in arms, ammunition, and implements of war, and also executed a protocol providing for a prohibition of the use of poison gas in war. In these efforts we are being made toward the codification of international law, and looking with sympathy on the investigation being conducted under philanthropic auspices of the proposal to make agreements outlawing war. In accordance with promises made at the Washington conference, we have represented at the Chinese customs conference and on the occasion of the call of the Chinese customs conference and on the occasion of the call of the Chinese customs conference.

Court of Justice.

Pending before the Senate for nearly three years is the proposal to adhere to the protocol establishing the permanent court of international justice. A well-established line of precedents mark America's effort to effect the establishment of a court of this nature. We took a leading part in laying the foundation on which it rests in the establishment of The Hague court of Arbitration. It is that tri-

Back at work three days after simple home treatment

"Give me relief! Stop this agony!"—that's all you can think of when you're suffering with any acute pain.

And you can get relief—quickly and completely—with a very simple home treatment.

"I was in bed with lumbago," writes C. L. Normandy of St. Paul, Minn. "A friend told me about Sloan's Liniment, and after using it one day, I was able to walk around the house. After three days I was able to go to work, and now I am as well as ever."

The reason that Sloan's Liniment gives such remarkable relief is that it gets right at the cause of the pain. It stimulates the circulation throughout the place where the pain is, and clears out the germs that are causing it.

Right away you feel relief. The pain stops, and you are on your feet as ever. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

GETS QUICK HELP FOR LUMBAGO

Back at work three days after simple home treatment

"Give me relief! Stop this agony!"—that's all you can think of when you're suffering with any acute pain.

And you can get relief—quickly and completely—with a very simple home treatment.

"I was in bed with lumbago," writes C. L. Normandy of St. Paul, Minn. "A friend told me about Sloan's Liniment, and after using it one day, I was able to walk around the house. After three days I was able to go to work, and now I am as well as ever."

The reason that Sloan's Liniment gives such remarkable relief is that it gets right at the cause of the pain. It stimulates the circulation throughout the place where the pain is, and clears out the germs that are causing it.

Right away you feel relief. The pain stops, and you are on your feet as ever. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

Sloan's Liniment

Have Good Hair and Clean Scalp

Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Work Wonders

Gradually, settlements have been made which provide for the liquidation of debts due to our government from foreign governments. Those made with Great Britain, Finland, Hungary, Poland, and Rumania have already been approved by the Congress. Since the adjustment, further agreements have been entered into with Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, and Estonia and Italy. These two nations, which have already made settlements, represent $9,383,411,000 of the principal of the loans. The remaining principal of the loans is $3,240,000,000; Greece, $16,000,000; Yugoslavia, $21,000,000; Rumania, $28,000,000; Latvia, $28,000,000; and Austria, $24,000,000, on which by act of Congress a moratorium of 20 years has been granted. The only remaining sum is $12,000,000, due from Armenia, which has now ceased to exist as an independent nation.

In accordance with the settlements made the amount of principal and interest which is to be paid to the United States under these settlements aggregates $15,078,181,903.88. It is obvious that the remaining settlements, which will bring this sum up to an amount which will more than equal the principal due on our present loans, will bring this sum up to an amount which will more than equal the principal due on our present loans. It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

It is believed that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate, it has been felt that the terms granted have been very large in the aggregate.

anyone will recall the discussion that went on for four or five years prior to 1914 concerning the high cost of living. This history is apparently being repeated. There is every reason to suppose that a new era in agricultural prosperity lies just before us, which will probably be unprecedented.

While I am a thorough believer in national defense and entirely committed to the policy of adequate preparation, I am just as thoroughly opposed to investigating or participating in a policy of competitive armaments. Nor does preparation mean a policy of armaments. Our people and our industries are solicitous for the cause of our country, and have great respect for the army and navy and for the uniformed by the men who stand ready at all times for our protection to encounter the dangers and perils necessary to military service, but all of our activities are taken in the name of peace, and in the name of peace, and in the name of peace.

It is necessary to remember that the current budget calls for an expenditure of about $650,000,000 for the army and navy. This is a large sum, but it is a small part of the total cost of the national government, exclusive of the post office, before we entered the last war. At the two previous sessions of Congress legislation affecting veterans' relief was enacted and the law liberalized. This legislation brought to the attention of the public the needs of our veterans, as well as afford the necessary authority to perfect the administration of their claims.

Experience with the new legislation so far has clearly demonstrated its constructive nature. It has increased the number of veterans who are eligible for benefits many thousands. Direct disbursements to the veteran or his dependents exceeding $21,000,000 have been made, which otherwise would not have been made. The degree of utilization of our hospitals has increased through making facilities for the treatment of veterans, which have resulted in improved conditions. About one-third of the projects is in good financial condition, another third can probably be made profitable while the other third is under unfavorable conditions. The Congress has already provided for a survey which will soon be embodied in legislation. It is a method of relief which will make unnecessary further appeals to the Congress. This can be considerably retarded. With the greatly increased cost of construction and operation, it has become necessary to make the project more self-sufficient, subject to the approval of the Federal Government.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

The national government is committed to a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve. This is a policy of reclamation and irrigation which it desires to establish on a sound basis and continue to improve.

capable at all times of a current in the system.

The railroad throughout the country are in a fair state of prosperity. Their service is good and their supply of cars is abundant. Their condition would be improved, and the public better served by a system of consolidation. I recommend that the Congress authorize such consolidation under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission, with power to approve or disapprove when proposed parts are excluded or new parts added. I am informed that the railroad managers and their employees have reached a substantial agreement as to what legislation is necessary to regulate and improve their relationship. Whenever they bring forward such proposals, which seem sufficient also to protect the interests of the public, they should be enacted into law.

It is gratifying to report that both the railroad managers and railroad employees are providing a service in harmony with the principles of conference, conciliation, and arbitration. The solution of their problems ought to be reached by all concerned in the industry. Those who ask the protection of civilization should be ready to use the methods of civilization. It is a basic one, it reduces the necessary economic surplus and, increasing the cost of living, it increases the economic welfare of the whole people. It tends to embitter and divide the community, and it tends to weaken the unity and power of our national life.

Labor can make no permanent gains at the cost of the general welfare. All the victories won by organized labor in the past generation have been won by the use of the principles of conference, conciliation, and arbitration. The manifest inclination of the managers and employees of the railroads to adopt a policy of conciliation and arbitration marks a new epoch in our industrial life.

Outlying Possessions.

The time has come for careful investigation of the expenditures and the mutual adjustment of the whole. A very large amount of money is being expended for administration of our outlying possessions. It is important to make a study of the expenditures and the mutual adjustment of the whole. A very large amount of money is being expended for administration of our outlying possessions. It is important to make a study of the expenditures and the mutual adjustment of the whole.

Retirement of Judges.

The act of March 3, 1917, might be amended so that the term of years of service of judges of any court of the United States requisite for retirement with pay shall be computed to include not only continuous but aggregate service.

Mothers' Aid.

The government ought always to be alert on the side of the humanities. It ought to encourage provisions for economic justice for the defenseless. It ought to encourage provisions for economic justice for the defenseless. It ought to encourage provisions for economic justice for the defenseless.

Water Power.

Along with the development of navigation should go every possible encouragement for the development of our water power. Water power is a dominant part, this is more and more becoming an era of electricity. Once installed, the cost is moderate, and has not tended greatly to increase, and is entirely free from the unavoidable dirt and disagreeable features attendant upon the burning of coal. Every facility should be extended for the connection of the various units into a superpower plant.

Shipping.

The maintenance of a merchant marine is the utmost importance for national defense and the service of our commerce. We have a large number of ships engaged in that service, but they are a very small part of the total tonnage of the world. It is imperative that we should have a fleet of ships of our own, capable of supplying its needs for hundreds of years, inability to manage a fleet of ships of our own, capable of supplying its needs for hundreds of years, inability to manage a fleet of ships of our own.

Perennial conflict in the coal industry is still going on to the detriment of the wage earners, the consumers, and the public. With deposits of coal in this country capable of supplying its needs for hundreds of years, inability to manage a fleet of ships of our own, capable of supplying its needs for hundreds of years, inability to manage a fleet of ships of our own.

At Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 26, 1925.

Radium Ore Revigator Co., Southeastern Division, 60 N. Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

Gentlemen:

I have suffered off and on during the past twenty years with chronic malaria, rheumatism and neuritis.

After a week's use of the Revigator some relief from said ailments began to appear; and now, after using same almost three months, I am fully convinced of its curative effects in my case.

Sincerely,
(Signed) H. W. JONES,
240 St. Charles Ave.

Or mail this for free booklet.

60 N. Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

RADIUM ORE REVIGATOR CO.
Southeastern Division
60 N. Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

Please send me, without obligation on my part, additional information relative to radio-active water.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

REVIGATOR
The Perpetual Health Spring at Home
(Copyright, 1925)
Radium Ore Revigator Company
Southeastern Division
60 North Forsyth St., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold on a 30-day money-back approval basis.

REVIGATOR
The Perpetual Health Spring at Home
(Copyright, 1925)
Radium Ore Revigator Company
Southeastern Division
60 North Forsyth St., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold on a 30-day money-back approval basis.

Mediterranean Cruise . . .

You will wonder at the low fares, including shore excursions, and the wonderful service, when you learn that the Canadian Pacific Cruise is sailing from

NEW YORK
Feb. 9

Empress of France
64 days—334 days ashore.
One master, ship and shore.
13,820 miles of travel.
Send for planning literature today. Ask local agent, or write to Canadian Pacific Cruise, 49 St. George St., Montreal, Canada.

World's Greatest Travel System

Representative Wanted By One of the Largest Domestic Oil Burner Mfgs.

For either the state of Georgia or city of Atlanta. Now is the time to get started with one of the oldest companies, while the oil burner industry grows larger every year. For full particulars—apply immediately.

Address: W-763, care Constitution

A Health Secret Ages Old which is bringing thousands new vigor and vitality

"What Owner Says" Centuries before any scientist could explain why, certain springs were known to have unusual health value. People by the thousands congregated at those centers to benefit by these secret properties.

Now we know that those springs are healthful because they are radio-active. Hot Springs, Arkansas, is a famous example. And the same principles have been developed farther. For the Radium Ore Revigator is, in truth, a health spring in the home. It provides the same radio-active water that you find in world-famous health centers.

Thousands of people now attest the benefits of radio-active water. It means better health, higher efficiency and greater enjoyment of life. But test it for yourself. We ask it as a favor. Try radio-active water for 10 days FREE. Bring a gallon container to our shop every day for 10 days. Fill it with radio-active water from the Revigator and drink it at home. Start today.

60 N. Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

RADIUM ORE REVIGATOR CO.
Southeastern Division
60 N. Forsyth St., Atlanta, Ga.

Please send me, without obligation on my part, additional information relative to radio-active water.

Name _____
Address _____
City _____ State _____

REVIGATOR
The Perpetual Health Spring at Home
(Copyright, 1925)
Radium Ore Revigator Company
Southeastern Division
60 North Forsyth St., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold on a 30-day money-back approval basis.

REVIGATOR
The Perpetual Health Spring at Home
(Copyright, 1925)
Radium Ore Revigator Company
Southeastern Division
60 North Forsyth St., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold on a 30-day money-back approval basis.

Cotton Closes Steady Despite Bearish Government Report

RANGE IN NEW YORK COTTON.

Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Dec. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Jan. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Feb. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Mar. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Apr. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
May 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
June 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
July 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Aug. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Sept. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Oct. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Nov. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Dec. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75

RANGE IN NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Dec. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Jan. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Feb. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Mar. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Apr. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
May 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
June 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
July 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Aug. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Sept. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Oct. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Nov. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75
Dec. 1	19.00	18.75	18.75

New York, December 8.—(AP)—The cotton market today was steady despite a bearish government report. The market opened steady at a decline of 9 points to an advance of 3 points developed considerable steadiness before the crop figures were published. There was no particular feature to account for the improvement but an idea seemed to prevail that the market was speculative short and shorts took the initiative in the final evening of accounts. As a result of the covering, December sold up to 20.25 and March to 19.70, making net advances of 10 to 25 points on the active positions just before the official crop statement was published.

There was heavy liquidation of commission house long accounts and considerable southern selling when the market reopened after the 20-minute interval. December advanced to 19.90 and March to 19.05. As prices approached the 10-cent level for January and March and 15 cents for October, buyers' orders increased, and there were substantial recoveries later in the day on covering by recent sellers with a renewal of commission house buying which was regarded by local brokers as including some investment demand.

Trade interests also were buyers on the rally and October contracts touched the highest prices of the day in the late trading. Part of the demand late in the afternoon was attributed to sales of the futures by question had been pretty well disposed of and that an element of uncertainty had been removed which was likely to be followed by an increased volume of business in the goods market.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.
New York, December 8.—(AP)—Cotton, spot steady; middling, 20.80.

NEW ORLEANS PRICES.
New Orleans, December 8.—(AP)—The cotton market was extremely active today due to the publication of the government report making the estimate of the crop 15,000,000 bales of 500-pounds and the ginning to December 15,877,616 bales. Prices which had advanced 20 to 42 points above the close of yesterday before the report was received due to related shorts covering promptly declined 77 to 103 points after the official totals were issued. Later the market rallied 48 to 60 points on a false rumor that the ginning totals had been revised downward to the extent of 200,000 bales, but eased off again when the rumor was found to be unfounded, to 35 points of the lows of the day. The market again rallied in the afternoon on trade buying and price fixing reaching practically the levels of the previous day. The market then showed a net gain of 6 points on December and losses of 1 to 12 points on later positions.

After a further decline of 4 to 6 points the market soon advanced on related shorts covering until just before the bureau report was issued. December advanced to 19.90 and March to 19.05, or 20 to 42 points above yesterday's close. At the lowest right after the bureau report, December advanced to 19.90 and March to 19.05, or 20 to 42 points above yesterday's close. At the lowest right after the bureau report, December advanced to 19.90 and March to 19.05, or 20 to 42 points above yesterday's close.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS.
New Orleans, December 8.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady 10 points above yesterday's close. Middling 19.75; middling 19.25; good middling 20.25; receipts 20,073; stock 424,683.

$570.376 or $1.202 per square foot.
The A. G. S. and C. N. O. & T. P. Railroad companies did not complete their testimony but will probably do so in an hour's time Wednesday morning. After this the jury will hear testimony from private property owners concerning the value of their property. The testimony will no doubt be completed at Wednesday's session after which the board will probably spend some time in private session, going over the evidence that has been presented and in making a personal inspection of the property.

Wheeler, former local Southern railway terminal superintendent, testified as to the damage done by cutting through the yards. He testified that the damage to the yards was especially valuable to the railroads. Mr. Wheeler testified that the yards in question are used for storing cars and for the extension of Broad street by the use of these yards would be depreciated 21 per cent.

H. H. Carter, one of the chief witnesses last week for the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway company, was called back to the stand Tuesday morning by the court. He was examined concerning the testimony offered by W. D. Brown, expert witness who testified last week that the yards of the trains backing into the yard would extend out far enough to block Broad street as extended. Therefore, the extension of Broad street by the extension of the yard would be depreciated 21 per cent. Mr. Carter testified that he had measured the distance of the train yard block from Broad street and that practically all of the trains would block Broad street when extended. He also testified that the effect of the Dixie Flyer from Nashville, which carries twelve coaches, would have in blocking the proposed extension of Broad street to the same scale as was the large Broad street map offered as exhibit A to his testimony. Mr. Carter testified that the Dixie Flyer would be broken into two parts. Mr. Carter said this condition did exist in Atlanta and it was very undesirable.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS TWO ALBANY CITIZENS
Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday named R. E. L. Spencer, Jr., of Albany, as one of the two members of the jury. The appointment is for the unexpired term of R. H. Ferrell, resigned, who it is understood, has resigned the office of the county clerk. Cruger Westbrook, member of the house of representatives from Dougherty county, also an Albany citizen, was named as the other member of the jury. In completing his testimony the city continued the examination of Claude Brown, prominent local real estate man, which was started on Friday before the jury was called for the week-end. Mr. Brown was cross-examined by attorneys for the railroads and the state of Georgia, including R. L. Frier and Frank Spurlock. During the course of the cross-examination Mr. Spurlock endeavored to establish that if the value of property in the city of Albany was increased by the extension of the railroad track had exceptionally high values the railroad property should be valued on the same basis. While this was being argued, Mr. Brown testified that he would be worth $100,000, but at the same time took the position that property on the south side of Ninth street now leased by the Nashville road was worth but $8,000 on an acreage basis. Following Mr. Brown, E. M. Prigmore, another local real estate man, was called by the railroads and the state. He testified that the value of the land would be worth

Stole Auto, Charge.
Otis Blanton, negro is being held under $1,000 bond at Fulton tower on charges of larceny, speeding and reckless driving. He was arrested by Chief of Police R. H. Brown, of the city. He is charged with stealing an automobile from M. E. Stephens, of East Point.

Live Stock.
Chicago, December 8.—Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality. Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality. Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality.

Cottonseed Oil.
New Orleans, December 8.—The cottonseed oil futures market was rather depressed today on the government report showing a large estimated surplus of big quantities to December 1, pointing to a liberal supply of seed. Offerings were absorbed, however. Late in the day higher bids were lower. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10.

Liverpool Cotton.
Liverpool, December 8.—Cotton spot fair demand, steady. American strictly middling 10.75; American strictly good middling 10.50; American strictly good 10.25; American strictly fair 10.00; American strictly poor 9.75; American strictly very poor 9.50; American strictly off 9.25; American strictly off 9.00; American strictly off 8.75; American strictly off 8.50; American strictly off 8.25; American strictly off 8.00; American strictly off 7.75; American strictly off 7.50; American strictly off 7.25; American strictly off 7.00; American strictly off 6.75; American strictly off 6.50; American strictly off 6.25; American strictly off 6.00; American strictly off 5.75; American strictly off 5.50; American strictly off 5.25; American strictly off 5.00; American strictly off 4.75; American strictly off 4.50; American strictly off 4.25; American strictly off 4.00; American strictly off 3.75; American strictly off 3.50; American strictly off 3.25; American strictly off 3.00; American strictly off 2.75; American strictly off 2.50; American strictly off 2.25; American strictly off 2.00; American strictly off 1.75; American strictly off 1.50; American strictly off 1.25; American strictly off 1.00; American strictly off 0.75; American strictly off 0.50; American strictly off 0.25; American strictly off 0.00.

RAISES HARTFORD

The Nashville Banner in commenting on the election for the fifth time of Captain W. H. Hartford, as director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta stated as follows:

The election of Captain W. H. Hartford for the fifth time to the directorship of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, was a full and complete endorsement of his efficient service. Mr. Hartford has been chosen to the directorship of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta for the fifth time, and has made a record of notable achievement in the position. The circumstances that attend his election are of great importance to the public. The election of Mr. Hartford is a reflection of the confidence of the public in his ability and integrity. The election of Mr. Hartford is a reflection of the confidence of the public in his ability and integrity. The election of Mr. Hartford is a reflection of the confidence of the public in his ability and integrity.

Behind the Scenes In the Business World

BY JOHN T. FLYNN

New York, December 8.—The bond market goes merrily on holding its position, of course, untouched by some of the influences which have affected the stock market. Actual trading in bonds has not been very heavy, but prices hold well after a little preliminary scare from the advanced red count rates in several reserve districts.

However the prospect of a reduction in the maximum surplus to 20 per cent has helped to hold bonds up in spite of a threat of an increase in interest rates.

This proposed reduction will have a very substantial effect on bond yields particularly in the hands of large holders. For instance, if a 20 per cent bond in the hands of an owner with a $50,000 income now yields a net of about 4.50 per cent. Under the new rates if they are adopted such a bond would yield a net of about 4.00 per cent. Under the new rates if they are adopted such a bond would yield a net of about 4.00 per cent.

At the beginning of last year bonds—taking an average of 40 leading issues—have increased in listed price from 78.75 to 84.75, a net advance for the 23 months of $6.00. The greater part of this net advance was scored last year—in fact all but 50 cents of it. The actual net gain this year is just 50 cents. At one time bonds had soared to 85.25. But they could not hold that level. Experts believe they will hold their present price for a while.

In the meantime new issues are being put out at a livelier rate. There is a brief lull. But in November investment bankers got under way again. In that month total financing amounted to $251,381,000, or course the Italian loan accounted for $100,000,000. This was the largest loan this year. But also the settlement with Italy opened the way for a renewal of foreign offerings and the 000,000 in private Italian bonds on the market yesterday morning.

COTTON STATEMENT
Port Movement.
New Orleans: Middling, 19.25; receipts, 20,073; stock, 424,683.
Middling, 19.25; receipts, 20,073; stock, 424,683.
Middling, 19.25; receipts, 20,073; stock, 424,683.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS TWO ALBANY CITIZENS
Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday named R. E. L. Spencer, Jr., of Albany, as one of the two members of the jury. The appointment is for the unexpired term of R. H. Ferrell, resigned, who it is understood, has resigned the office of the county clerk. Cruger Westbrook, member of the house of representatives from Dougherty county, also an Albany citizen, was named as the other member of the jury. In completing his testimony the city continued the examination of Claude Brown, prominent local real estate man, which was started on Friday before the jury was called for the week-end. Mr. Brown was cross-examined by attorneys for the railroads and the state of Georgia, including R. L. Frier and Frank Spurlock. During the course of the cross-examination Mr. Spurlock endeavored to establish that if the value of property in the city of Albany was increased by the extension of the railroad track had exceptionally high values the railroad property should be valued on the same basis. While this was being argued, Mr. Brown testified that he would be worth $100,000, but at the same time took the position that property on the south side of Ninth street now leased by the Nashville road was worth but $8,000 on an acreage basis. Following Mr. Brown, E. M. Prigmore, another local real estate man, was called by the railroads and the state. He testified that the value of the land would be worth

Stole Auto, Charge.
Otis Blanton, negro is being held under $1,000 bond at Fulton tower on charges of larceny, speeding and reckless driving. He was arrested by Chief of Police R. H. Brown, of the city. He is charged with stealing an automobile from M. E. Stephens, of East Point.

Live Stock.
Chicago, December 8.—Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality. Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality. Cattle: Receipts, 14,000; fed steers steady to 25 cents lower. Mostly steady; only desirable quality.

Cottonseed Oil.
New Orleans, December 8.—The cottonseed oil futures market was rather depressed today on the government report showing a large estimated surplus of big quantities to December 1, pointing to a liberal supply of seed. Offerings were absorbed, however. Late in the day higher bids were lower. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10. Prime summer seed closed at 10.00; winter seed at 10.10.

Liverpool Cotton.
Liverpool, December 8.—Cotton spot fair demand, steady. American strictly middling 10.75; American strictly good middling 10.50; American strictly good 10.25; American strictly fair 10.00; American strictly poor 9.75; American strictly very poor 9.50; American strictly off 9.25; American strictly off 9.00; American strictly off 8.75; American strictly off 8.50; American strictly off 8.25; American strictly off 8.00; American strictly off 7.75; American strictly off 7.50; American strictly off 7.25; American strictly off 7.00; American strictly off 6.75; American strictly off 6.50; American strictly off 6.25; American strictly off 6.00; American strictly off 5.75; American strictly off 5.50; American strictly off 5.25; American strictly off 5.00; American strictly off 4.75; American strictly off 4.50; American strictly off 4.25; American strictly off 4.00; American strictly off 3.75; American strictly off 3.50; American strictly off 3.25; American strictly off 3.00; American strictly off 2.75; American strictly off 2.50; American strictly off 2.25; American strictly off 2.00; American strictly off 1.75; American strictly off 1.50; American strictly off 1.25; American strictly off 1.00; American strictly off 0.75; American strictly off 0.50; American strictly off 0.25; American strictly off 0.00.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, December 8.—American Brakehoe increased its annual dividend today from $5 to $6. National Licores declared an extra $5. The Bank of New York declared today its regular quarterly $5 and $2 extra dividend for the third quarter.

Wall Street feels that the Coolidge message to congress promises much for the constructive side. The market was active, but profit taking on the president's message fairly balanced the new buying.

Wall Street feels that the Coolidge message to congress promises much for the constructive side. The market was active, but profit taking on the president's message fairly balanced the new buying. Wall Street feels that the Coolidge message to congress promises much for the constructive side. The market was active, but profit taking on the president's message fairly balanced the new buying.

There was something discouraging, too, in the day's news that the United States circuit court had handed down a decision favoring the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad in the suit brought against the interstate commerce commission. The decision was a blow to the interstate commerce commission.

After having made a new high for the year, the price of the United States circuit court had handed down a decision favoring the Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad in the suit brought against the interstate commerce commission.

Georgia's cotton crop is thus far greater than any previous crop since 1920, it was reported today by the United States bureau of agricultural economics, upon issuance of the December 1 figures. A crop estimate to December 1 shows a production for the state this year of 1,150,000 bales (500 pound gross) compared with the final census report of 1,003,770 for 1920.

In 1920 Georgia's production of cotton totaled 1,415,000 bales. The 1921 crop was estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1922 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1923 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1924 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1925 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1926 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1927 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1928 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1929 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1930 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1931 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1932 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1933 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1934 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1935 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1936 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1937 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1938 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1939 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1940 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1941 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1942 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1943 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1944 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1945 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1946 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1947 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1948 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1949 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1950 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1951 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1952 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1953 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1954 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1955 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1956 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1957 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1958 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1959 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1960 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1961 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1962 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1963 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1964 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1965 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1966 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1967 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1968 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1969 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1970 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1971 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1972 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1973 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1974 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1975 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1976 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1977 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1978 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1979 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1980 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1981 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1982 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1983 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1984 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1985 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1986 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1987 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1988 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1989 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1990 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1991 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1992 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1993 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1994 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1995 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1996 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1997 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1998 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 1999 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2000 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2001 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2002 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2003 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2004 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2005 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2006 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2007 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2008 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2009 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2010 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2011 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2012 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2013 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2014 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2015 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2016 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2017 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2018 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2019 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2020 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2021 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2022 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2023 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2024 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2025 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2026 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2027 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2028 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2029 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2030 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2031 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2032 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2033 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2034 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2035 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2036 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2037 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2038 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2039 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2040 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2041 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2042 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2043 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2044 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2045 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2046 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2047 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2048 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2049 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2050 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2051 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2052 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2053 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2054 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2055 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2056 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2057 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2058 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2059 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2060 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2061 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2062 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2063 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2064 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2065 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2066 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2067 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2068 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2069 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2070 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2071 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2072 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2073 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2074 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2075 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2076 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2077 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2078 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2079 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2080 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2081 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2082 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2083 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2084 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2085 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2086 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2087 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2088 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2089 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2090 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2091 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2092 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2093 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2094 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2095 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2096 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2097 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2098 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2099 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2100 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2101 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2102 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2103 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2104 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2105 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2106 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2107 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2108 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2109 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2110 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2111 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2112 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2113 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2114 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2115 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2116 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2117 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2118 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2119 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2120 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2121 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2122 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2123 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2124 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2125 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 bales. The 2126 crop is estimated at 1,150,000 b

Closing Reports
Only Complete

BOND MARKET

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table with bond prices and yields. Columns include bond name, price, and yield. Includes entries like 'New York, December 1.—Following are today's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange...' and 'U. S. Bonds'.

STOCK MARKET

PRICE RAILROADS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table with stock prices for various railroads. Columns include railroad name, price, and change. Includes entries like 'New York, December 1.—Following are the closing prices of the railroads in the New York Stock Exchange...'.

STOCK MARKET

PRICE RAILROADS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table with stock prices for various railroads. Columns include railroad name, price, and change. Includes entries like 'New York, December 1.—Following are the closing prices of the railroads in the New York Stock Exchange...'.

STOCK MARKET

PRICE RAILROADS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table with stock prices for various railroads. Columns include railroad name, price, and change. Includes entries like 'New York, December 1.—Following are the closing prices of the railroads in the New York Stock Exchange...'.

STOCK MARKET

PRICE RAILROADS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Table with stock prices for various railroads. Columns include railroad name, price, and change. Includes entries like 'New York, December 1.—Following are the closing prices of the railroads in the New York Stock Exchange...'.

News, Views
And Reviews

Stock Letters

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.
FENNER & BEANE.
New York, December 1.—The stock market today was quite irregular, following the trend of the closing on the preceding day. The market was characterized by a general decline in prices, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing at 228.14, down from 229.14 on Monday.

News, Views
And Reviews

Stock Letters

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.
FENNER & BEANE.
New York, December 1.—The stock market today was quite irregular, following the trend of the closing on the preceding day. The market was characterized by a general decline in prices, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing at 228.14, down from 229.14 on Monday.

News, Views
And Reviews

Stock Letters

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.
FENNER & BEANE.
New York, December 1.—The stock market today was quite irregular, following the trend of the closing on the preceding day. The market was characterized by a general decline in prices, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing at 228.14, down from 229.14 on Monday.

News, Views
And Reviews

Stock Letters

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.
FENNER & BEANE.
New York, December 1.—The stock market today was quite irregular, following the trend of the closing on the preceding day. The market was characterized by a general decline in prices, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing at 228.14, down from 229.14 on Monday.

News, Views
And Reviews

Stock Letters

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.
FENNER & BEANE.
New York, December 1.—The stock market today was quite irregular, following the trend of the closing on the preceding day. The market was characterized by a general decline in prices, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average closing at 228.14, down from 229.14 on Monday.

Merchants, Attention!

Special close-outs in Sweaters, Hosiery, Woollen Goods, Silks, Rayon Novelties, Overalls, Furnishings and Notions. Entire Stock at Greatly Reduced Prices Now Being Offered.

Take advantage of this opportunity to buy goods under-priced and increase your December sales!

HOSCH BROS. CO.
FORMERLY
RAGAN-MALONE CO.
32-34 So. Pryor Street
ATLANTA, GA.

Merchants, Attention!

Special close-outs in Sweaters, Hosiery, Woollen Goods, Silks, Rayon Novelties, Overalls, Furnishings and Notions. Entire Stock at Greatly Reduced Prices Now Being Offered.

Take advantage of this opportunity to buy goods under-priced and increase your December sales!

HOSCH BROS. CO.
FORMERLY
RAGAN-MALONE CO.
32-34 So. Pryor Street
ATLANTA, GA.

Merchants, Attention!

Special close-outs in Sweaters, Hosiery, Woollen Goods, Silks, Rayon Novelties, Overalls, Furnishings and Notions. Entire Stock at Greatly Reduced Prices Now Being Offered.

Take advantage of this opportunity to buy goods under-priced and increase your December sales!

HOSCH BROS. CO.
FORMERLY
RAGAN-MALONE CO.
32-34 So. Pryor Street
ATLANTA, GA.

Merchants, Attention!

Special close-outs in Sweaters, Hosiery, Woollen Goods, Silks, Rayon Novelties, Overalls, Furnishings and Notions. Entire Stock at Greatly Reduced Prices Now Being Offered.

Take advantage of this opportunity to buy goods under-priced and increase your December sales!

HOSCH BROS. CO.
FORMERLY
RAGAN-MALONE CO.
32-34 So. Pryor Street
ATLANTA, GA.

Merchants, Attention!

Special close-outs in Sweaters, Hosiery, Woollen Goods, Silks, Rayon Novelties, Overalls, Furnishings and Notions. Entire Stock at Greatly Reduced Prices Now Being Offered.

Take advantage of this opportunity to buy goods under-priced and increase your December sales!

HOSCH BROS. CO.
FORMERLY
RAGAN-MALONE CO.
32-34 So. Pryor Street
ATLANTA, GA.

H. & B. BEER

Established 1872
New Orleans, La.
Members of principal exchanges, including New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, Direct private wires to New York, Chicago and principal points in the Cotton Belt. For further information see our advertisement in the Cotton Belt.

H. & B. BEER

Established 1872
New Orleans, La.
Members of principal exchanges, including New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, Direct private wires to New York, Chicago and principal points in the Cotton Belt. For further information see our advertisement in the Cotton Belt.

H. & B. BEER

Established 1872
New Orleans, La.
Members of principal exchanges, including New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, Direct private wires to New York, Chicago and principal points in the Cotton Belt. For further information see our advertisement in the Cotton Belt.

H. & B. BEER

Established 1872
New Orleans, La.
Members of principal exchanges, including New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, Direct private wires to New York, Chicago and principal points in the Cotton Belt. For further information see our advertisement in the Cotton Belt.

H. & B. BEER

Established 1872
New Orleans, La.
Members of principal exchanges, including New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, New York Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, Direct private wires to New York, Chicago and principal points in the Cotton Belt. For further information see our advertisement in the Cotton Belt.

Hubbard Bros. & Co. Cotton Merchants

Hanover Square, New York
Members New York Cotton Exchange, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, associate members Liverpool Cotton Association. Orders solicited for the purchase and sale of cotton and cotton seed oil for future delivery. Special attention and liberal terms given for consignments of spot cotton for delivery. Correspondence invited.

Hubbard Bros. & Co. Cotton Merchants

Hanover Square, New York
Members New York Cotton Exchange, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, associate members Liverpool Cotton Association. Orders solicited for the purchase and sale of cotton and cotton seed oil for future delivery. Special attention and liberal terms given for consignments of spot cotton for delivery. Correspondence invited.

Hubbard Bros. & Co. Cotton Merchants

Hanover Square, New York
Members New York Cotton Exchange, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, associate members Liverpool Cotton Association. Orders solicited for the purchase and sale of cotton and cotton seed oil for future delivery. Special attention and liberal terms given for consignments of spot cotton for delivery. Correspondence invited.

Hubbard Bros. & Co. Cotton Merchants

Hanover Square, New York
Members New York Cotton Exchange, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, associate members Liverpool Cotton Association. Orders solicited for the purchase and sale of cotton and cotton seed oil for future delivery. Special attention and liberal terms given for consignments of spot cotton for delivery. Correspondence invited.

Hubbard Bros. & Co. Cotton Merchants

Hanover Square, New York
Members New York Cotton Exchange, New Orleans Cotton Exchange, New York Produce Exchange, associate members Liverpool Cotton Association. Orders solicited for the purchase and sale of cotton and cotton seed oil for future delivery. Special attention and liberal terms given for consignments of spot cotton for delivery. Correspondence invited.

ATLANTA'S COLLEGES

FACTS ABOUT ATLANTA

The Georgia School of Technology, established in 1888, is regarded as the second greatest technological school in the United States. It ranks with Massachusetts Tech, Purdue, Cornell and other world-famous institutions of engineering. There are 2,209 students at Tech. The state appropriates $125,000 to the support of the institution. The wonderful work which Georgia Tech is doing is the more remarkable when it is remembered that other engineering schools in the country get such appropriations as: Cornell, $1,082,441; Iowa A. & M., $1,538,176; Texas A. & M., $1,182,915. Tech's graduates are the South's builders. Tech men are filling the highest places of leadership in the business world today. A roll-call of such men as George Crawford, president of the Tennessee Coal and Iron works; Percy Brooks, president of Fairbanks-Morse Company; Floyd Furlow, late president of Otis Elevator Company; J. B. McCrary, E. R. Whitney, L. W. Robert, Frank H. Hardin, W. H. Glenn, Robert Gregg, Paul Norcross, and many others, proves the preminence of this great school of engineering.

Emory University, established in 1837, at Oxford, removed to Atlanta in 1919, is today one of the great universities of the South. There are 1,915 students at Emory with more than 200 men on the faculty of the several colleges comprising the university. There are 70,000 volumes in the library. A great museum furnishes first-hand material for research. The campus and buildings are perhaps the finest in the South, being situated in the heart of the beautiful Druid Hills section of Atlanta. The Candler family has made gifts totaling seven millions of dollars to Emory. The great Emory School of Medicine is featured by its clinical work done at Grady Hospital and Wesley Memorial Hospital. The Emory Unit, Base Hospital 43, was one of the greatest units in the World War.

Agnes Scott College, established in 1890, is limited to a student body of 500 and is distinguished because of its high standards. It ranks among the foremost colleges for women in the United States. There are 64 professors and assistants on the faculty. The college owns 32 buildings.

Oglethorpe University was established in 1835 at Midway Hill, near Milledgeville. Its early student bodies had such men as James LeConte, James Woodrow, Samuel Talmadge, and Sidney Lanier. The Civil War closed Oglethorpe and it was not until 1916 that the institution was reopened. The vision of Dr. Thornwell Jacobs has been realized in the rehabilitation of the institution and in the marvelous development now so well known throughout the nation. There are 33 professors and assistants and a student body of more than 400. High educational standards with emphasis upon thoroughness is the ideal of Oglethorpe.

There are twelve business colleges in Atlanta. Eight schools of pharmacy. Seven military schools and other private and business colleges.

ATLANTA is the premier college center of the South. More than ten thousand choice young men and women attend the twenty various colleges located in the city. These college students come from every state in the United States and from nineteen different foreign countries. They spend annually five millions of dollars in the city, thus adding materially to the business life of Atlanta. Their larger contribution is in their presence—in the atmosphere which they create. Gathered about the learned faculties of these institutions this army of young people is daily lifting the horizon and breaking through the mists that darken the vision of the South.

Atlanta has been wise to build schools and colleges along with its factories and janks. Intellectual and spiritual values are appraised as primal in the building of a permanent civilization. The towers of Tech and of Agnes Scott, of Emory and of Oglethorpe are tokens of a city's implicit belief in the abiding worth of education. Far-seeing leaders have given their money and their thought to the upbuilding here in Atlanta of the South's finest colleges for men and women. The greatest school of engineering in the South is the Georgia School of Technology. Second to none in the country is the Emory School of Medicine, the Emory School of Theology and the Emory School of Law. The name of Agnes Scott has been emblazoned among the foremost colleges for women in the nation. Its standards are everywhere recognized and accredited. Oglethorpe University has recovered from the reversal of the Civil War to a place of coveted standing among the colleges for men in the South. Atlanta believes in these four great institutions and gladly puts money into their endowments and into their current needs.

The annual graduating classes of Atlanta's many colleges go forth to tell the world of Atlanta's many advantages. They live here one, two, three and four years, as the case may be, until they come to feel a sense of oneness with the city. They absorb something of its spirit and they lend their touch of clear understanding of life. A beautiful fellowship develops between Atlanta and her college students. And adown the ages this fellowship will broaden and widen till from the portals of these institutions of light shall go forth the sons and daughters of a Renaissance which will lead the city and the state and the nation to that high plane of civilization which is the true end of all progress.

The cost of this series of pages about Atlanta is being underwritten by the Atlanta men and firms whose names appear below

Adair Realty & Trust Company
A. S. Adams-Cates Company
J. P. Allen & Company
Atlanta Biltmore Hotel
Atlanta Laundrymen's Association
Atlanta & Lowry National Bank
Atlanta Trust Company
Austin Bros. Bridge Company
Avondale Estates
Carlton Shoe & Clothing Company
Carolina-Portland Cement Company
Cathcart Van & Storage Company
Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company
Citizens & Southern Bank
Continental Trust Company
Draughon's Business College

Druid Hills
Edgar Dunlap Insurance Agency
Franklin & Cox, Inc.
Georgia Railway & Power Company
P. L. Gomez & Company
The Great Atlantic & Pacific Company
J. M. High Company
Hirsch Bros., Inc.
C. J. Kamper Grocery Company
Latham & Atkinson
F. E. Maffett, Inc.
G. L. Miller Company
Miller Lumber Company

George Muse Clothing Company
Reed Oil Corporation
M. Rich & Bros. Company
Robinson-Humphrey Company
L. W. Rogers Company
The L. W. Rogers Realty & Trust Co.
Ruralist Press (Inc.)
J. R. Smith & M. S. Rankin
Southeastern Compress and Warehouse Company Southeastern Express Company
Southern Kleen Heat Company
Willingham-Tift Lumber Company
John J. Woodside Storage Company
Yancey Bros., Road Machinery Distributors

Atlanta

A good place to visit ... A BETTER PLACE TO LIVE!

Harris-Scruggs Wedding To Be Event of Wednesday Evening

The outstanding event on today's social calendar is the wedding of Miss Allen Harris and Edward DeLeon Scruggs, of Brewton, Ala., which will take place at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris, at 8:30 o'clock at the home on Fourteenth street. Miss Harris has been feted at a round of lovely pre-nuptial parties prior to her marriage, which will be one of the most beautiful pre-holiday events.

Scabbard and Blade Dance.
A delightful affair gathering the members of the younger social set will be the dance at which Truman Allen will be host in honor of the Scabbard and Blade, the military organization at Emory, and in honor of the regimental sponsors, which will be given at the Forrest Hills Golf club.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Tyler will be honored by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lee at a reception this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee on Oxford road in Druid Hills. Mr. Tyler is the new pastor of the Emory University Methodist church and this reception will afford the members of the church an opportunity to meet Mr. and Mrs. Tyler.

Miss Harris Honored By Wedding Day Poem.

Appropos of the Harris-Scruggs marriage this evening, the bride-elect, Miss Allen Harris, is the eldest granddaughter of the late Joel Chandler Harris, who wrote the famous Uncle Remus stories which have delighted children in every language the world over, and whose birthday she sentimentally chose as her wedding day, the following poem was written by Myrtle Lockett Arvey:

TO ALLEEN HARRIS.
(Uncle Remus' granddaughter, Wren's New May Queen, on her wedding day, From Uncle Remus' Creators.)
"Alleen! Alleen! our lovely queen,
Alleen! Alleen! our very queen,
The dearest queen that ever was seen,
Our queen o' May, Alleen!"

BRIDGE SPECIALTIES

TRUMP INDICATORS
PERPETUAL AND DECORATIVE
SOURCES—BRIDGE CARDS
108 PEACHTREE STREET
J. P. STEVENS ENGRAVING CO.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

An Always Welcome Gift

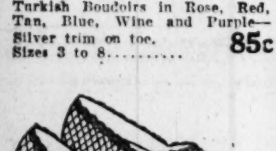

FOR HER

Pelt Comforts in Black, Brown, Blue, Rose, Blue, Lavender, Purple, Oxford or Tan. Sizes 2 1/2 to 8. $75c

Turkish Boudoirs in Rose, Red, Tan, Blue, White and Purple. Silver trim on toe. Sizes 3 to 8. $85c

Quilted Satin D'Orsay in Pink, Purple, Lavender, Rose, Blue or American Beauty. Sizes 3 to 8. $1.00

Leather Boudoirs in Brown with Fawn lining—also in Black with Lavender, Rose or Blue Lining. Sizes 2 1/2 to 8. $1.45

FOR HIM

Felt Comfort Slippers in Brown, Blue, Oxford or Black, padded soles. Sizes 6 to 11. $95c

Brown or Black Leather "Solid Comforts" slippers in Black, Tan Kid. Sizes 8 to 11—$2.95

Brown Kid House Slippers, leather soles and rubber heels. Sizes 6 to 11—$1.85 (also a finer grade Tan Kid). Sizes 8 to 11—$2.95

Prompt Mail Service

Risks
BARGAIN BASEMENT

DAILY CALENDAR OF SOCIAL EVENTS

The marriage of Miss Allen Harris and Edward de Leon Scruggs will take place this evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris on East Fourteenth street.

Truman Allen will entertain at a formal reception at the Druid Hills Golf club in honor of Company L of the Scabbard and Blade Military society of Emory university.

The second of the series of the morning bridge parties given at the West End Woman's club will be held at 10:30 o'clock at the clubhouse.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lee will entertain in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. Z. Tyler this evening at their home on Oxford road in Druid Hills. Mr. Tyler is the new pastor of the Emory University Methodist church.

Miss Louise Pappenhelm will entertain the members of the Woman's University club this afternoon at tea at her home on West Eleventh street.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Miss Nell Sims is at St. Joseph's infirmary, where she will undergo a tonsil operation.

Thomas Barrett, 3d, of Augusta, Ga., is at Wesley Memorial hospital, where he was operated on for appendicitis Sunday night. Mrs. Barrett is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Broyles, at their home on Juniper street.

Dudley Golden, of Wichita Falls, Texas, arrived Monday night to join Mrs. Golden, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rice, at their home on Peachtree road.

Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah is ill at her home, 43 Avery drive, Ansley park.

Mrs. J. F. O'Dowd, of Cincinnati, Ohio, is visiting at the Hotel Georgian terrace.

Weston Hamilton is improving following an operation for a penicillitis at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Mrs. John D. Pope, of Albany, Ga., is a guest at the Georgia Terrace hotel.

Mrs. Stillwell Robinson has returned to her home in Miami, Fla., after being the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Carnes, for several weeks.

The many friends of John Wear, Jr., will be glad to know that he is improving at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Wildman, of Columbus, Ohio, are spending a few days in the city, stopping at the Hotel Georgian terrace.

Mrs. Dana Bolser has returned from a trip to Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheshire Nash and Miss Margaret Nash, of Savannah, are spending this week at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Mrs. Walter P. Andrews returned Monday from a short visit to New York.

An attractive group playing bridge and enjoying an informal luncheon at the meeting of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae club at the home of Mrs. P. D. Cunningham, 414 Euclid avenue.

Mrs. Macon Martin and Miss Willie Calhoun were joint hostesses at the first of a series of informal bridge luncheons Tuesday at their home on Eleventh street.

Mrs. Jettie May Parry, of Huntington, W. Va., is in the city to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Herrington.

Cotillion Club Plans Ball And Elects 23 New Members

The Cotillion club, recently organized by the members of the 1924-25 Debutante club, met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Will Hawkins, treasurer of the club.

A group of popular young Atlanta girls were elected by the Debutante club to membership in the Cotillion club, including Misses Mary Sadler, Edythe Colman, Margaret Nelson, Martha Boynton, Douglas Paine, Catherine Murphy, Elizabeth Whitman, Alice Stearns, Margaret Whitman, Grace Goldsmith, Sarah Schoen, Frances Brown, Virginia Robinson, Katherine Haverly, Margaret Middleton, Anne Stringfellow, Pauline Olive, Jennie Hodgson, Margaret Stovall, Frances Arnold, Virginia Campbell, Isabelle Johnston and Elizabeth Hawkins.

Plans were made for a formal ball to be given Monday, December 28, at the Piedmont Driving club. The officers of the club are Miss Ellen Newell, president; Miss Louise Nelson, vice president; Miss Harriett Shelden, secretary, and Miss Will Hawkins, treasurer.

The next meeting of the club will be held Monday, December 14, at the Piedmont Driving club.

Among the lovely Yuletide social events of interest to the very young set of society will be the dancing party at which Miss Telside Pratt will be hostess in compliment to her brother, Master Logan Pratt. The party will take place on Wednesday evening, December 23, at the home of the hostess and honor guest on Fairview road in Druid Hills.

Miss Pratt will be assisted in receiving the young guests by her aunt, Miss Anna Logan.

Sixty members of the younger social contingent will be invited for the occasion, which will be one of the prettiest Christmas affairs planned among the school set.

Miss Williams Weds Ernest L. White.
Cordial interest over the city is felt in the news of the marriage of Miss Clara Belle Williams and Ernest L. White, both life-long residents of Atlanta. The wedding was a quiet event of Thursday evening, December 3, taking place at the home of the bride's parents, 22 Allene avenue, with only the immediate members of the two families and intimate friends present.

Mrs. White is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Williams and is popular with a wide circle of friends.

Mr. White is a popular young business man, holding a responsible position with one of the large express companies.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Dinner Postponed for Gen. and Mrs. Eltinge.
On account of the illness of Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, the buffet supper at which Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah were to be hosts this evening at their home in compliment to General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be postponed to a later date.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

Miss McAdoo To Visit Misses Darrah.
Miss Sally McAdoo, daughter of William Gibbs McAdoo, will be the guest of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

General and Mrs. Ledy Eltinge, will be the guests of the Misses Darrah and Misses Darrah at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. Thomas W. Darrah, 43 Avery drive, in Ansley Park.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a wedding dinner at their home after which the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, after returning they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Williams.

MUSE'S—"WHERE CHRISTMAS BEGINS"

Give Muse Gifts

—tokens of regard! Give Muse gifts, expressions of affection. Give Muse gifts, they mean so much to him. These are the things he understands, appreciates, admires and wears!

- Muse Silk Scarfs (including Swiss).
- Muse Imported Belt Scarfs.
- Muse Silver Belt Buckles (with Straps).
- Fine Muse Neckwear.
- Muse Handkerchiefs, plain or fancy.
- Muse Silk Pajamas.
- Dunhill (London) Pipes.
- Cigarette Holders.
- Cigarette Cases.
- Cigar Cases.
- Leather Pocket Books.
- Leather Cases for Checks.
- Leather Wallets.
- Leather Bill Folds.
- Leather Match Cases.
- Leather Case to carry full pack of cigarettes.
- Leather Case for soft collars.
- Leather Case for starched collars.
- Leather Case for handkerchiefs.
- Imported Cigarette Lighters for desks.
- Imported Woolen Hosiery.
- Imported Memo Books.
- Cigar Cases (including Pull-Over).
- Shirts (plain and fancy), collar attached.
- Tech Sweater Coats.
- Hand Bags and Suit Cases and Kits.
- Muse Cuff Links.
- Clothes Brushes in carved animal stands.
- Muse Evening Vests.
- Muse Evening Shirts.
- Muse Belt Slides.
- Dress and Dinner Sets.
- Umbrellas.
- Muse Golf Caps.
- Knit-Grip Golf Knickers.
- Golf Shirts, Flannel, etc.
- Featherweight Golf Raincoats.
- Muse Golf Hose.
- Golf Umbrellas (in canvas case to strap on back).
- Set of Coat Hangers in leather case.
- Complete Clothes Brush and Coat Hanger in leather case.
- Fitted Toilet Cases.
- Wool-Lined Gloves.
- Pur-Lined Gloves.
- Chamois Sweater Coats.
- Plumey Sweater Vests.
- Wool Bath Robes.
- Silk Bath Robes.
- Wool Smoking Jackets.
- Silk Smoking Jackets.
- Hair Brushes.
- Steamer Rugs.
- Flasks.
- Mark Cross Leather Goods.
- Men's Fitted Toilet Cases.
- Silver Drinking Cups in leather holders.
- Featherweight Raincoats.
- Golf Suits.
- Sports Suits.
- Muse Topcoats.
- Muse Suits.
- Military Brushes in animal head holders.
- Flasks in leather cases.
- Pocket Tool Kits in leather case.
- Muse Suits, Topcoats, Tuxedos, Hats and Shoes.

His Footwear

Muse House Slippers—Felt, leathers, and moccasins.

Bath Slippers.

Golf Shoes.

Winter Shoes (high or low).

Dress Pumps.

Spats.

Hunting Boots.

MUSE GIFTS FOR "HER"

Clever handkerchiefs—exquisite Muse hosiery—Muse lingerie, gowns, and negligees from Paris—Muse necklaces, doris and trinkets; Muse bedroom slippers, d'orsays; Gary millinery; Gary flowers for the coat; Gary dolls; perfumes—and all things dear to "her." (Laura Mays gifts for little girls.) See these Christmas treasures on the first floor, the fourth and the fifth (and in Muse's Ladies' Shop in the Henry Grady.)

JUST A LITTLE WHILE TILL XMAS!

MUSE'S
"The Style Center of the South"
Peachtree :: Walton :: Broad

J. P. ALLEN & CO.

Embroidered Towels

The Appreciated Gift

These hand-embroidered Towels have proved to be one of the most popular gifts of the year. They are hard to get.

We have just received another lot of those wonderful Hand-Embroidered Linen Towels—Over fifty beautiful designs to select from. Just the thing for your Christmas.

Guest Size 75c
Regular Size $1.00

J. P. Allen & Co.

Andirons Fire Sets Fenders Wood-Holders Coal Hods Wood-Boxes Fireplace Ornaments

We invite you to see the best selected stock in the southeast.

QUEEN MANTEL & TILE CO.
56 W. Mitchell St.

Mrs. Johnston Is Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. Richard Johnston who has recently returned from a year's travel in Europe was honor guest at the lovely luncheon at which Mrs. John W. Grant was hostess Tuesday at "Cratellachie," her home on Pace's Ferry road.

Invited to meet Mrs. Johnston was a group of ten intimate friends.

Christian Church Bazar Today.

West End Christian church will give a bazar at 7 Plaza Way beginning today to last through December 12.

A nice assortment of gifts, cakes and candies at reasonable prices, and hand-made Christmas gifts will be on sale.

Second in Series of Bridge Parties.

Second of the series of Wednesday morning bridge parties given at the West End Woman's club will be held

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Company

Quality Gifts Make a Merry Christmas!

And surely quality is never more important than in the gift for friend or one's own family! Here, where quality is the first consideration, the choosing of gifts becomes an occasion of unalloyed delight. First, because of the endless and delightful variety of beautiful gift things, so many new and quite unusual. Then as one takes time to look, the pleasant surprise of quality gifts at such modest prices. Every section, every floor, reveals new loveliness.

Art Needlework

Exquisite Feminine Gifts

Velour pillows, round, assorted. . . $1.50
Lafayette pillows, oblong and square, beautiful shades. . . $3.50
Lace pillows, very dainty, petit point and lace patch work, linen and cut work—heart and oblong. . . $8.00 to $12.50
Georgette pillows, exquisite with French flowers and ribbons. . . $8.95
"Flapper Dolls" for the boudoir, very quaint and fascinating. . . $5.00

Street Floor—Rear

Neckwear In Gift Boxes

Most attractive, at very little prices these new sets, collars, jabots, in cream, ecru, gold, gold with lace. . . 95c and $1.50
Real lace neckwear and sets, combinations of nets and lace, boxed. . . $3.50
Sport silk ties, new designs. . . $1.00
Scarf and Hat—new sets for the school girl or miss, bright plaids. . . $6.50
Wool Scarfs in beautiful assortment of imported fabrics and patterns. . . $2.95

Street Floor—Front

Fine Gloves For Quality Gifts

Novelty cuff gloves in new modes for street wear, very smart, at $3.95
Imported kid gloves with novelty turn-over cuffs—white and red, white and tan, black and champagne. . . $5.95
Washable fabric gloves with turn-over and flare cuffs, $1.50, $1.75 and $2.50
Driving gloves for women, fur tops. . . $5.95
Fleece-lined kid gloves for driving and cold weather wear. . . $3.50

Street Floor—Center

Novelties And Perfumes

Christmas cards, box. . . 50c to $1.00
Christmas postcards, dozen. . . 10c
Seals, cards, tags, package. . . 10c
Tissue, red, green, white. . . 15c and 20c
Children's stationery. . . 25c to 79c
Desk sets, metal, brocade. . . $5.49 to $60.00
Children's perfume sets, box. . . 25c
Perfume sets, boxes, cases. . . $1.75 to $50.00
Bath salts and powder sets. . . $2.25
Imported perfumes. $1.00 to $24.50

Street Floor—Center

Kerchiefs, Gloves, For Little Folks

Bead bag with two kerchiefs. . . 50c
Cunning basket with two kerchiefs. . . 50c
Violin holding two kerchiefs. . . 59c
Circus figures with 2 kerchiefs. . . 29c
Boys' rayon kerchiefs, all colors. . . 25c
Quaint dolls, all dressed in pretty colored kerchiefs. . . $1.00 and $1.25
Kid gloves, fleece lined. . . $1.50
Kid gloves with fur tops. . . $2.25
Novelty cuff French fabric gloves. . . $1.50

Street Floor—Center

Turkey Dinner Every Wednesday

For real old-time "good eatings" like we used to get at home—our famous turkey dinners—every Wednesday.

Tea Room—Top Floor

Special Offering Children's Coats

At $5.75, Regular $8.75

1, 2, 3-year coats—quite attractive little models in tan and blue novelty coatings and chinchilla cloth.

At $8.75, Regular $12.95

1 to 6 years—very smart little coats in broadcloth; polaire and novelties. Collars of nutria in varied colors. Tan, blue, rust, cocoa, mahogany.

At $14.75, Regular $19.75

6 to 14-year sizes of bolivia, polaire, checks, novelties, with collars of nutria, mandel and coney. Rust, moss, mulberry, French blue, tan.

Juvenile Section—Second Floor

Give Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Furniture for Christmas

Spread the Yuletide Spirit Over the Coming Years

The gift that stands preeminent is Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose furniture. Its distinctive beauty and enduring charm will win the warm appreciation of the recipient. It will grow dearer through years of association, a constant reminder of the thoughtfulness of the giver.

More and more the idea of giving worthwhile gifts, such as furniture, is growing in favor. Sometimes it is an entire suite—a gift from all the family to all the family—a particularly happy thought. Again, some special piece, long desired, filling a real need, is chosen. Gifts such as these are the most acceptable of all.

The Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Furniture Section is replete with suggestions for Christmas giving. You can find something suitable for every one on your list, and prices are decidedly reasonable, too.

Radio Cabinets with built-in horn. . . $50.00 up
Console Tables, priced up from. . . $12.50
Console Mirrors, prices begin at. . . $19.00
Hand-decorated Secretary, up from. . . $135.00
Love Seats in Satin. . . $80.00 up
Imported Teakwood Stands. . . $35.00 up
Cedar Chests, priced up from. . . $14.00

Spinet Desks, priced up from. . . $20.00
Secretaries, prices begin at. . . $80.00
Smoking Stands, priced up from. . . $2.50
Tilt-top Tables, prices begin at. . . $20.00
Humidors, are priced up from. . . $15.00
Wall Tapestries, prices begin at. . . $45.00
Hand-painted Room Screens, up from. . . $45.00

Grandfather Clocks, priced up from. . . $150.00
Grandfather Clocks, chime movements. . . $210.00 up
Bridge Lamps and Shades. . . $22.50 up
Junior Lamps and Shades. . . $22.50 up
Room Screens, prices begin at. . . $15.00
Overstuffed Chairs, priced up from. . . $35.00

Living Room Tables, prices begin at. . . $25.00
Davenport Tables, priced up from. . . $30.00
Foot Stools, priced up from. . . $4.95
Chaise Longues, prices begin at. . . $75.00
Occasional Tables. . . $25.00 up Decorated Child's High Chair. . . $12.50 up
Baby Carriages, priced up from. . . $18.50

Gateleg Tables, priced up from. . . $25.00
Windsor Chairs and Rockers. . . $13.50
Venetian Mirrors, prices begin at. . . $22.50
Polychrome Mirrors. . . $15.00 up
Mahogany and Walnut Mirrors. . . $20.00 up
Card Tables, prices begin at. . . $2.75
Nest of Tables, priced up from. . . $30.00

Occasional Tables, priced up from. . . $12.00
Japanese decorated Secretaries. . . $135.00 up
Japanese Lacquered End Tables. . . $16.00 up
Japanese Lacquered Tilt-Top Tables. . . $25.00 up
Japanese Lacquered Nest of Tables. . . $42.00 up
Japanese Lacquered decorated Gateleg Tables. . . $22.50 up Japanese decorated Coffee Tables. . . $25.00 up

Royal Easy Overstuffed Chairs

Back reclines and foot rest slides under chair, out of the way, covered in a very fine grade taupe and rose velour at—

$78

Other Royal Easy Chairs; one of these will make an ideal gift for "him." Priced from

$110

See These Exceptional Values in Complete Suites

Give "Her" a new Bedroom Suite. Here is an exceptional value. A beautiful 3-piece Jade Green Bedroom Suite, consisting of a Princess Vanity, a very beautiful spool bed and a handsome chest of drawers. This is one of the latest arrivals in the Furniture Sections, and is an extraordinary value at. . . $97

A splendid 10-piece Huguenot Walnut Dining Room Suite, mahogany lined and dustproof partitions, consisting of a 66-inch Sideboard, Oblong Extension Table, Semi-Closed China Cabinet, Console Serving Table, five Side Chairs and one Armchair, tapestry seated, and the price is. . . $169

Two-piece wood frame overstuffed Living Room Suite; mohair inside and cushions with the reverse in a fine tinsel tapestry, outside and backs in plain velour to match. This suite is equipped with the famous Nachmann springs and is a splendid value at. . . $185

Beautiful three-piece Fiber Suite, consisting of a six-foot Settee with Chair and Rocker to match, full loose spring cushions over the spring foundation, covered in a very attractive cretonne; choice of several new colors. See this attractive suite today. It is a real special at the price of. . . $59.50

Console Table and Mirror

As pictured above, the Console Table is 42 inches wide, 16 inches deep in antique brown combination mahogany. This is another exclusive design.

$54

The mirror is 34 inches high and 22 inches wide; the frame is antique brown combination mahogany. The price is $39

Spinet Desks

As shown, in brown mahogany finish, 37 inches wide, 19 inches deep, drawers are mahogany lined and priced now at—

$25

Other Spinet Desks are priced up to $125.00

Occasional Chairs

As pictured, an exclusive Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose design, very deep-seated with comfortable back; extremely soft and luxurious; 27 inches wide, 34 inches deep; 38 inches high. Can be furnished in six different colored tapestries; moss edging.

$67

Other occasional chairs priced from $15.00 to $175.00.

Colonial Highboy

As pictured, an exclusive design, 34 inches wide, 77 inches high, in brown mahogany, all drawer linings in mahogany with dust-proof partitions between drawers. Priced at—

$160

Other Highboys are priced up to $275.00.

Governor Winthrop Secretary

As pictured above, in antique brown mahogany, 35 inches wide; the drawer bottom linings are mahogany lined. This is an exclusive Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. design. Priced now at—

$93

Other Secretaries are priced up to $356.00.

Gateleg Table

As shown, in Chinese Lacquer, Black and Red Decorated, 36x48-inch top. An exclusive Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose design. Priced at—

$50

Other Gateleg Tables in mahogany hand-decorated range in price from $22.50 up.

Hall Clock

As illustrated, 84 inches high, 16 inches wide, antique solid mahogany, 8-day movement, strikes on the hour and half-hour. Priced at—

$150

Chime movement Clocks in stock, ranging in price from $210.00 to $300.00.

Convenient Terms of Payment Can Be Arranged on Any Furniture Purchased

Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.

Furniture Department—Fourth Floor

AM'S AM'S

AND

By Louise Dooly

WHAT does the future offer men? That was the text a clever woman suggested to us recently, and we like it so well that we invited her to furnish likewise the next-out.

But she shrank, for the same reason we'd like to.

She said she hadn't done her Christmas shopping.

IT'S a subject, this problem about men, that would take deep thought, exhaustive research, to find any worthwhile solution.

Exclusive opportunities for men are dwindling so fast that we foresee the time not far distant when they will have to organize to fight for equality with the women—equal pay for equal work, and such like.

It is some comfort to those of us women who see the situation with a genuine sympathy, that there will always be a few exclusive vocations in business, in industry, for the man who years for economic independence.

FOR A FEW OPENINGS.

Indeed, some hundreds of us have just seen an all-male show, which, in the approved eloquence of the boards today, was a wow.

Not a girl in it, yet Will Rogers and the de Reszke singers kept a houseful of people after 11 o'clock crying for more.

But how many Will Rogerses are there? and how many de Reszke quartets?

Did you notice this, though? The humorist picked mostly on his own sex to get his laughs? His weakest quip was Ma Ferguson.

The inferiority complex of the male thus shows itself in a certain sort of pride. If "we men must stand back for the women's march of progress" is the male attitude, then we are not going to appear in the enemy's camp with the conquering hosts by including the women in our idea of what is funny.

AN EXTREME CONSERVATIVE.

OR, maybe, it isn't all as deep as that. Maybe it is just that Will Rogers is what you'd have to call a hopeless reactionary. He admitted that after living two years—as it were—in Hollywood and working in the movies, he came out married to the same wife he took in with him. He dates with Omar Khayyam, after exhausting the counsel of the doctors and wise men, "came out by that same door where I went."

SERENADES TO EFFICIENCY?

TRUE, the singers—possibly you observed that, too—did mighty little "singing to their lady's eyebrow." But the men have got to put the face they can on the rapid subjugation of their sex.

Anyway, what man, what male quartet can so convincingly sing of moonlight and the scent of mimosa to female efficiency?

Personally we are rather glad of the change in the average repertoire of a quartet. It's all right and convincing when four men together sing a sea chanty, or a negro spiritual. It's all right, and can be convincing when one man sings a love song. But not when four men together sing a love song. It's too promiscuous.

"OFFICER" HATTIE OR JANE.

THE job of policeman, of motor-man, and so on, no longer implies a male monopoly. Everywhere now there are policewomen and women are no novelty driving a "tram."

When you are sick and call in "Dr. Smith" or "Dr. Jones" you have no assurance as to the gender of the stranger and recommended by a friend, that your new physician's first name will not be Edith, or even Editha.

Female readers can generally get more free publicity for a ten-thousand-dollar deal than a man in the same business can achieve when his is a hundred-thousand-dollar proposition. The reason is that the women, as plausible, as keen, and mayhap as unscrupulous as some of the sex much longer in trade and have enough of a sense of theater to cling still to the trappings, the scenery which have so far been an asset as often as a drawback; that is, the "novelty," the publicity point of femininity in business.

THE BELL-BY-FUTURE.

THE profession of bell-boy will, of course, always be a male monopoly, unless the name is changed.

But with the increasing number of women who are living on their own in hotels, and traveling alone or with other women, the bell-boy profession to increase its profits in proportion to the increase in this type of clientele, will have to do a lot of educational work.

Women, with all their progress, have not learned how to tip. There is no particularly top-lift motive in their reluctance. It is not that they spurn thus to lower their standard of democracy in offering bribes to get better and quicker service than their neighbors.

It isn't that they stop to think that they are contributing to a system which nullifies what ought to be the dignity of labor.

It's just a pugnacious stand against what they consider paying a second time for the service they imply is included also in the bill.

An indication that it is with them not the loftier motive lies in the fact that when they travel much and want

From "The Shop of Beautiful Gifts"

Select Your Christmas Gifts

Bar Pins $3.50 to $300.00
Scarf Pins 1.00 to 100.00
Bracelets 5.00 to 300.00
Umbrellas 8.50 to 40.00
Mesh Bags 5.00 to 75.00
Cigarette Cases 3.50 to 25.00

Prompt and courteous attention assured you at our little shop.

E. A. MORGAN

Established 1905

10-12 East Hunter Street

"There's economy in a few steps around the corner"

DO YOU SUFFER FROM PILES?

If you know the torture of bleeding, itching, blind, or protruding piles, then you owe it to yourself TO-DAY to send for a FREE TRIAL of our Pile-Suppositories. They have brought relief to thousands of sufferers. They are soothing, healing, pure, and safe. Avoid needless expense and suffering. Treat yourself privately at home.

COOPERS

Hammors Medical Co., Dept. F-24 South Bend, Ind.

Send without obligation to see a FREE TRIAL of our Pile-Suppositories with each box.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

State _____

Zip _____

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Founding of Pennsylvania. by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

IN 1680, AFTER THE DEATH OF HIS FATHER, WILLIAM PENN WENT TO KING CHARLES TO COLLECT A DEBT OF SIXTEEN THOUSAND POUNDS WHICH THE KING HAD OWED TO ADMIRAL PENN.

PENN ASKED FOR A TRACT OF LAND IN AMERICA IN PAYMENT OF THE DEBT AND THE KING, DELIGHTED TO GET OFF SO CHEAPLY, GLADLY GAVE HIM A CHARTER.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

THE REGION GRANTED TO PENN LAY NORTH OF MARYLAND AND WEST OF THE DELAWARE RIVER. SEVERAL QUAKER SETTLEMENTS HAD ALREADY BEEN FOUNDED IN WHAT IS NOW NEW JERSEY, AND IT WAS PENN'S IDEA TO PLANT A COLONY, WHERE ALL QUAKERS COULD LIVE IN PEACE AND FREEDOM.

TRAINING RECEIVED THE POWER FROM THE KING TO DEVISE A GOVERNMENT FOR HIS COLONY, PENN. WAS GRANTED LIBERAL CONCESSIONS TO THE DUTCH AND SWEDISH SETTLERS ALREADY ESTABLISHED IN THE REGION AND OFFERED ATTRACTIVE INDUCEMENTS TO QUAKERS EVERYWHERE TO COME TO PENN-SYLVANIA TO SETTLE.

NEARLY THREE THOUSAND PERSONS, MOSTLY QUAKERS, EMIGRATED TO THE NEW COLONY.

PENN HIMSELF CAME TO AMERICA IN 1682 AND WAS CORDIALLY WELCOMED BY THE SETTLERS. THAT SAME YEAR HE HAD RECEIVED ANOTHER GRANT FROM THE DUKE OF YORK, TO WHAT IS NOW DELAWARE AND HIS FIRST STOP WAS MADE AT THE NEWCASTLE SETTLEMENT.

TOMORROW - EARLY DAYS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Uncle Ray's Cornor

Ancient Traveling

The subject of old-time traveling is brought up by this letter:

"Dear Uncle Ray: I saw that we boys and girls could ask any questions on our studies. Therefore I will ask you to tell me something on 'Ancient Transportation.' Your reader, John C. Stelgerwald, age 14."

Yes, I am glad to have questions, and the subject you suggest makes a good one for an entire story. The people of ancient Egypt traveled chiefly upon the waters of the Nile and its branches. They had rowboats and sailboats. The latter were fitted with oars as well as with sails.

When they traveled over land, Egyptians walked, rode in chariots, or sat on the back of donkeys. The last method of going anywhere was not used by the richest class who thought it beneath their rank. Carriages of cattle, sheep and grain were sometimes carried along the Nile in the larger vessels.

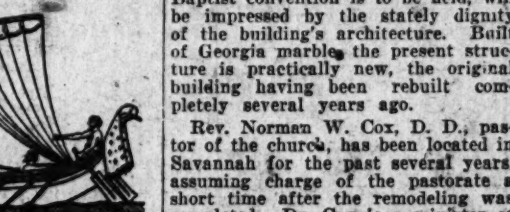

The Babylonians and Assyrians used much the same methods of travel; but they mastered the art of riding horses. In Babylon, land travel was more common than in Egypt. Goods were carried by slaves, donkeys, rafts and boats.

Among the Greeks, ships were very important. Their vessels traveled far and wide over the Mediterranean. The Greek, Pythias, even visited the shore of Great Britain. He called the natives "Pretians," meaning "Painted People." Yet the main part of Greek water travel took place in the eastern end of the sea.

Trading vessels passed from Greece to Crete, Phoenicia and Egypt. More than one Greek has left us an account of a personal visit to Egypt. Indeed, Greeks made up much of the population of Alexandria, in northern Egypt, after that city was settled by order of the emperor, Alexander.

When traveling by land, Greeks often rode horseback or donkey back. Donkeys were used when mountains needed to be crossed. It appears that the hoofs of horses were not shod, and that kept those animals from use for long, hard journeys. Messages were often carried by fleet runners, who sped from one city to another. Two wheeled carts and four-wheeled wagons were used in Greece. These were sometimes pulled by horses, sometimes by oxen. Donkeys carrying packs were to be seen now and then on the rude, rough roads of the country.

A Greek vessel, as pictured on a vase of about 240 years ago. The hero, Odysseus, is shown tied to a mast, lest he should come to doom through the stress.

Drivers usually walked alongside beasts burdened in this manner. Romans used the same methods of travel as the Greeks, but they used much better roads and bridges. Greek bridges were flimsy affairs, which were often washed away by a rising stream. Roman bridges were solidly built, and several have lasted down to this day. Remains of Roman roads are to be found in different parts of Europe.

Tomorrow—The Origin of the Alphabet.

(Uncle Ray will be glad to receive letters from readers of the Cornor. Boys and girls should tell name, age, address, and school. Address your letter to Uncle Ray in care of this newspaper.)

(Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

Q. Did the Indians in the olden days raise fruit trees?—Dulaney Nunn, age 12.

A. Indians of many tribes ate the nuts and fruit of trees growing wild, but I have no record of their planting or caring for fruit trees before the white man came. After bananas were brought in by the Spaniards, Indians in South America quickly took to the raising of that fruit.

The Constitution's Patterns

A GOOD DRESS FOR A SCHOOL DRESS.

5289. Wool crepe, plaid or novelty suitings are good for this design. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size requires 2-5/8 yards of figured material and 2-5/8 yards of plain material 40 inches wide if made as illustrated. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A SET OF TWO PRACTICAL GARMENTS FOR INFANTS.

4659. A dainty yoke dress and a comfortable "barrie" or petticoat is here depicted.

The dress could be of lawn, batiste or fine nainsook. The barrie coat of flannel or cambric.

The pattern includes both designs. It is cut on one size, and requires 11-1/2 yards for the dress and 1 yard for the barrie coat. To make the waist portions of the "barrie" of cambric will require 1-1/4 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Dance or Party Frock.

5283. This pretty model may be developed in voile, crepe, taffeta or chiffon.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. A 4-year size will require 2-5/8 yards of 40-inch material. Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our Up-to-date Fall and Winter 1925-1926 Book of Fashions.

In ordering patterns write name and address plainly on a sheet of paper. Order by number and include price in silver or stamps. Do not mail letter to The Constitution building in Atlanta, but address as follows: Fashion Department, The Constitution, 11-13 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Woman of 75 says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN cleansed system of constipation's poison

Don't let constipation drag you down. Cleanse your system of its poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Relief guaranteed or money refunded. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. See the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Michigan. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

On my seventy-fifth birthday I take great pleasure in letting you know that it is due to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN that I am now enjoying good health. I was compelled to take an enema or cathartic every night. Since May, 1924, when a friend recommended Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, the golden in my system has been eliminated without the aid of purgatives. I heartily recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to everyone afflicted with intestinal trouble.

Yours gratefully,
Mrs. Pauline Levy,
121 W. 11th St., New York, N. Y.

Georgia Baptist Convention Opens in Savannah Today

BY BEN COOPER.

Savannah, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—Visitors to the First Baptist church in Savannah, where the state Baptist convention is to be held, will be impressed by the stately dignity of the building and the architecture. Built of Georgia marble, the present structure is practically new, the original building having been rebuilt completely several years ago.

Rev. Norman W. Cox, D. D., pastor of the church, has been located in Savannah for the past several years, assuming charge of the pastorate a short time after the remodeling was completed. Dr. Cox is a minister of great personal charm, and has attracted many new members into the church.

Dr. Cox in addition to being a popular preacher is active in civic and social circles in Savannah. He is one of the leaders in the Kiwanis club, and takes an active part in all drives and civic campaigns looking toward the city's betterment. That he is a real human preacher is demonstrated by his love of fishing, as he goes after the finny tribe with the same zeal that he makes converts to the church.

A feature of the new church is the new organ donated by the family of the late George W. Armstrong, who was a power in the church. The church is located on Bull street in the heart of the city, is easily accessible by street car, and is only a few blocks from the city auditorium. Across a narrow street in the rear of the church, there is located the Sunday school building, with a modern gymnasium and supper rooms for the classes.

The basement of the church building is a large auditorium where meetings and suppers are held. It has a complete kitchen equipment. The acoustics of the church auditorium and the basement meeting hall are excellent, while white walls with ample window space and a wonderful system of indirect lighting give a good light in every nook and corner.

MINISTERS ARRIVE FOR CONFERENCE.

Savannah, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—The conference of ministers and laymen at the First Baptist church here today, marked the preliminary service to the opening of the Georgia Baptist board of the Southern Baptist convention located at Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Smith is alive and interested in all the work of the convention and is rendering a service to his section of the state and denomination at Montezuma.

GEORGIA REALTORS CONVENE HERE TODAY

Faced with a state-wide era of real estate activity never before equaled, realtors from a number of cities will open the annual state convention of the Georgia Real Estate board today at the Ansley hotel with prosperity as a key-note.

Over 200 members of the real estate profession are expected to gather this morning at the fall of the year of Joseph Flournoy, of Columbus, state president.

Prominent speakers will address the two-day convention, among these being Mayor Walter A. Sims, Albert S. Adams, president of the Atlanta Real Estate board; James R. League, of Augusta; Robert H. Olin, of Atlanta; Robert L. Cooper, president of the Savannah board; Clyde Nelson, of Birmingham; W. T. Anderson, editor of The Macon Telegraph; Robert R. Troutman, of Atlanta; A. O. Blackmar, Jr., of Columbus; Ward Wight, of Atlanta; and Meyer Eisenman, of New Orleans.

The realtors will be entertained tonight at a banquet at the Capital City club. Election of officers and selection of the next convention city will take place Thursday afternoon.

BARBECUE AT G. M. A. FOR FULTON CONVICTS

College Park, Ga., December 8.—(Special.)—At the Georgia Military academy here this afternoon a barbecue was given for the Fulton county convicts by the citizens of College Park, who also had as their guest Judge John D. Humphreys, of Atlanta, other officials of Fulton county, the mayor and council of College Park, and the faculty and cadet officers of G. M. A.

The food was prepared in the school kitchen and was served at tables in the yard and in the dining hall. Immediately following the barbecue the G. M. A. battalion and cadet band formed on the drill field for a dress parade which was viewed by the visitors.

If Your Feet

At the end of the day feel tired and sore—don't give up. Try a pair of the Drew Arch Rest shoes. You'll delight with the comfort received from this wonderful shoe. The Arch Rest equalizes your weight—renders grace to your step—and every step will be with comfort.

Ask to see the "Carmen"

It is shown in Black Satin with 3-strap at $10

Fifteen other styles
Drew Arch Rest—the keynote of comfort

STEWART
25 Whitehall St.

There Is No Railroad Monopoly

RAILROADS are not monopolies. They face competition of the keenest sort, not only from other railroads but from common carriers using the free public highways and waterways.

There is hardly a pound of freight that moves over THE NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS RAILWAY which could not be transported some other way. That this railway handles a good share of all the business moving in its territory is due not only to tracks and equipment of a high standard, but also to its reputation for good service and fair dealing; to its tradition of courtesy and dependability; to its friendly touch with the communities it serves—in short, to a good will built up through the past seventy-eight years by a "home folks" railroad.

To continue to enjoy a good patronage this railroad must provide good transportation at the lowest possible rates. Average freight rates today are so low that a ton of freight is carried nearly two miles for the price of a two-cent postage stamp. These rates, in spite of much loose talk about "high freight rates," average but 52 per cent above the rates in force before the war, and are actually 12 per cent lower than they were in 1921. There are few commodities or services in the United States relatively so cheap as railroad freight service.

It is so cheap, in fact, that for example:

A pair of shoes made in Boston, or a suit of clothes made in New York, is shipped to N., C. & St. L. stations for less than a dime freight.

Enough cotton goods to make a woman's dress, shipped from New York; a pound of coffee shipped from New Orleans; a pound of fresh meat, shipped from St. Louis under refrigeration; an Oregon apple, shipped more than 2,000 miles—all these things and many more like them pay not more than one cent freight to N., C. & St. L. points.

Cotton is shipped to distant New England at rates that range below $6.50 for each 500 pound bale. To Southern ports and mill points the rates are correspondingly lower.

Corn is handled from shipping points to distant markets at from 6 to 20 cents a bushel.

Live stock moves to Northern markets, 500 miles away, at rates of about one-half cent a pound.

Permanent reductions in these rates can come only when the cost of transporting goods is reduced. Railroads are working constantly to reduce these costs by better operating methods, but to succeed in any large way they must be allowed to earn enough to attract the capital needed to make money-saving improvements in their lines and equipment. If this is done the users of the railroads will benefit through better service or lower rates, or both.

The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway
W. R. COLE, President

THE GUMPS—THE BUSY SHOPPER

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

CHAPTER XLVIII.

Still dubious about this sudden hush, more to expose him to possible identification by the makers in the club house Antoine descended from the car and stumbled along behind the other man. Joanna climbed into the seat he had vacated. When their two forms disappeared across the veranda, found it, kicked it, and in another moment was guiding the gray car toward the gate. When she was safely through the gate she disappeared into the mist. The curious chauffeurs who had watched her maneuver heard the echo of her horn until it, too, was absorbed by the thick, opaque atmosphere. "That's the one they call the Golden Girl," one of the drivers explained to his companions. "She is it, to see a young thing like her clear gone to the devil!"

Antoine, led at his request through the kitchen and scullery, was brought to the closed door on the balcony. The guardian waiter opened the door for him. Brandon's eyelids were beginning to quiver. The excitable waiter would have lunged out of the room with a cry of alarm, but Antoine clutched him by the throat and smothered the sounds in a muffled sob. "Friend, quietly," he grumbled. "There's something to hide, here, not to advertise. Bring the proprietor, or his assistant—quietly."

At the end of an hour's patient ministrations behind the locked door Brandon, stretched in a divan, held his eyes open and gazed around him. His first feeble utterance was: "Where's the girl? The madame?"

"The clubhouse director would have silenced Antoine's complaint that she had stolen his car, but the Monegasque would not be restrained. Through the bandages matted about Brandon's head something of a fleeting smile escaped. "It is just as well," he murmured. "He of cheer, my good Antoine! I failed, but I fancy you and your men will be paid double for your little practice tonight."

"But she will give the alarm below!" the other exclaimed. "Before morning!" After dawn it would be futile; we contemplated an alarm by dawn when the men get down. But not before! You did not get her here—till dawn, as you agreed!"

Again Brandon smiled, and indicated the bandages. "She is to blame for that. But I do not think she will give an alarm. That will wait the men you left in the barn. The police will not be concerned much, when you have returned to them the plunder you collected. When you have sent them that, you will be as I said—paid double."

The expression on the face of the clubhouse official who had heard the cryptic conversation began to show a gleam of understanding—a curious understanding of the holding up, which had sent the group of half hysterical women back to his hospitalities. Antoine noted and shifted, uneasily. Brandon, too, alert despite his pain, saw. He called the man to the couch:

"Do not be concerned by the little drama in the next tonight," he said between his labored breathings. "Your patrons who were robbed will receive their valuables. I have reason to believe. They may be none worse for their experience. They may not know of it, of course, but they played their parts tonight in a great adventure."

Meanwhile Joanna, her wrap unfastened again, her slim hands gripped to the wheel of the car, fought her way along the narrow road. When she rounded a turn just above the Village of La Turbie little pin points of light shone up. For down, out over the sea, the lighthouse at the base of Cap Martin glowed like a faraway eye of the night. The mist was lifting before the threat of dawn. Beyond La Turbie the country, although chaotic, was visible. The lamps along the sea boulevard were discernible.

The thought of Kenilworth, still captive with the other men in the hidden barn of the bandits, bothered her for a moment. An impulse came to turn around, and with the road partially clear, now, feel her way back to the hut she was certain she would recognize. She could, she considered, pick up someone at La Turbie to help her awaken the countryside. She decided against this plan, however, settled back behind her wheel, and shot into high speed.

The grounds of Villa Amette were vapored by the thin, dampness of the dissipating mist. A solitary light, near the entrance gate, gleamed timidly. As she guided the car along the winding road to the house among the vague, gray shapes of the arbors and pergolas and pavilions which, in another few hours, were to be a blazing, fantastic background for her brilliant and lavish fete—the fete of the Golden Girl and, also, her Swan Song! For Brandon had said, "I am the one!" and he had said, too: "What ever you have is to be taken from you. There shall be no more money!"

When she drew up in front of a side entrance to the villa she saw that the house itself was also dark. She considered whether or not to summon a servant with her horn, and decided to leave the car in the road, and go in quietly. She ached for the loneliness of her room—the room which thronged the great golden bed.

At the ponderous villa doors she was troubled by the thought that she had never found it necessary to carry any sort of key. Servants always awaited her return, but they had to be summoned by the bell. She tried the door, however, and found that it was unfastened. She closed it softly behind her and felt her way across a tiny reception room to a draped arch that opened into a seldom-used drawing room. Across this room would be the grand hall, on which a staircase led to the upper floors. When she was almost up to the heavy, double drapes which hung in the archway door that opened into the bigger room she stopped, suddenly. Between the curtains a line of light shone. He heard the murmur of voices. Concealed that it would be servants, waiting her return, she pushed the curtains aside and stepped into the room. Then she stood, fascinated.

The voices swelled as the curtains parted. One of them she recognized as Yvonne's; the other, John's. And at the far end of the room she saw them, before the gentle glow in the fireplace, the only illumination in the room. Yvonne, gorgeous and Circassian, her sinuous body wrapped in the sense destroying hues of rich, red Burgundy, her only ornaments dazzling diamonds that glistened like a myriad of consuming fires in the gentle firelight glow, leaned forward in a cushioned, gilded chair. And at her feet—at "satin slippers never worn by Joanna's feet," as Brandon had taunted her—was John!

For one brief instant the thing before her muddled, and assumed a contorted shape. Then the smoulder in the fireplace burst into a flame of hell, and died again into something that flared as a grotesque mockery. Joanna's wrap fell from her shoulders. Her little hands dug into her breasts, but gave the senseless body no pain. The little figure in black stood, then, utterly lost to every thought but of what she saw—and heard.

"I have never known love until now! All else has been just a chimera. It is you who have shown what love's glory is! Please, my wonderful friend, will you take me in—and comfort me?"

John's voice, that was; John! Passion and pleading and humility, in it. All those nuances of adoration, submission, hope and prayer and yearning, which Joanna had never heard in it, it came to her now, as if it were a caress, infinitely sweet, and—infinitely by soothing:

"A love content—will you be content—to accept from me the love that is the only kind that I may give you? The love that has blossomed and withered so many times? Mine can never be a pure love, my friend. And I may never promise its constancy. It is the crown that you must wear while you can defend and keep it. That is what is said of me, and my love, my dear, and I must not say to you that what I said is untrue. If we love, you and I, and if I give to you the portion I may spare you, you must be content. It can never be a holy love—there must always be something wanting in it. It must be the kind we take and put aside. Will that, then, satisfy you?"

He crept closer to her. She put her hands about his face, warm, mesmeric hands. Her rich, soft, round lips—lips that were a sign of all love, madness since the world began—went down to his. Then it was John's voice, again:

"There can be no other love as wonderful as you can give. In any way that I may have it, if it be pure or defiled, I want it!"

A scream, a torrent of tears, a frenzy of them, surged to Joanna's lips—and halted there. It was Yvonne who rose, slowly, sinuously. Peacefully, Joanna saw, as if it were some strange, fantastic symbol taking form at the rim of a distant horizon, a smile, a faintly lined, queer, and fitting smile, at Yvonne's lips. And John saw, and got to his feet, sense-lazed and marveling. Again that low, soft, silvery cadence of Yvonne:

"What a poor, damnable thing you are, my friend! Go preach, my dear! Preach to Joanna; preach to the heart and the soul and the wonders of her! Preach—but do it on your knees and take your text from the lesson I've taken the trouble to give you. Tell her you're learned, at last that you're only make-believe—and all your kind. Tell her that if she'll have you, you'll try to learn from her the sort of thing her kind can teach."

John's voice, then, but Joanna didn't hear. She stumbled blindly back through the curtains.

Puppets and mannequins—puppets in conventional evening black that uniforms eager and blasé men alike, and the mannequins of their joyous levels the cheap and the superb; Pierrots and Columbinas, eyes shining with the thrill of youth that crossed every threshold with merry speculation—endless stream they drove from every reach of the Riviera to the gates of Villa Amette.

Beyond the gates the gardens and terraces, miniature lakes and fairy-like structures in delicately pink stucco, were bathed in a dull silver flood of artificial moonlight. On the lake tiny gondolas floated lazily, through waters rippled by dimly illuminated fountains that spouted faint perfumes. Hidden somewhere in a bower of orange trees an orchestra played its insouciant and its ecstasies of summer night passion. Tall palms, feathery tops, black and fantastic, made bowers around benches and tables; great stretches of the lawns had been carpeted with crush-blossoms—purple lilies, rhododendrons, hyacinths and clematis. Now and then, from the branches of a pepper or fig or pine tree, some fascinated bird of semitropical plumage, too curious to seek its nest, gazed down upon the scene with gen-bright, inquisitive eyes.

During the day the gates had been closed to all visitors. Only the workmen, caterers, electricians, and the herded troops of dancers and more nondescript performers, had been allowed to enter the grounds. There had been frantic efforts in many quarters to break through the barrier so finally guarded by watchmen, but none had been successful. Even the telephone, except the line which reached the offices of the servants, had been shut off. So it was that even the intimates of Villa Amette, those who had watched the preparations from day to day, were utterly amazed at the splendor, the lavishness, the consummate artistry of the spectacle into which they strode.

Teddy Donister, who had been one of those whose call during the day had been futile, stood amazed when, with his sister, Betty Weymouth at his side, he turned about, on the highest terrace, to look over the sloping lawns. Betty exclaimed:

"That's an appropriate whim for a Golden Girl!"

"Daring, brilliant, extravagant!" Lord Teddy murmured. "But just the sort of thing we might expect—from her! It's not barbaric; there is nothing flaunting. It is a splash of count- less money and magnificence, but a mellow splash. Somehow I can see a note of wisdom in it all."

(Continued Tomorrow.)

(Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

JUST NUTS

Aunt Het

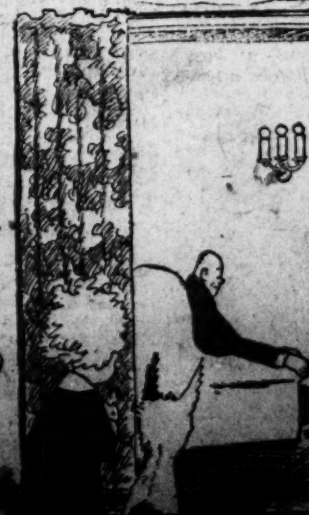

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

What
To Do?

EVER SINCE WE CAME BACK AND FOUND THAT MRS. WARBUCKS HAD GONE—HE'S BEEN THIS WAY—YOU SEE HE LOVED HER, SANDY, SPITE OF EVERYTHING, AN' HE'S HURT AWFUL, HE IS.

IF WE COULD ONLY BRING HER BACK TO HIM, SANDY! COURSE SHE WAS MEAN TO US BUT MAYBE SHE DIDN'T MEAN TO BE—ANYHOW THAT 'DADDY' COULD LOVE LIKE THAT MUSTA HAD SOME GOOD IN 'EM—GEE, IF WE COULD ONLY DO SOMETHING—OR THINK OF SOMETHING—

SOMEBODY'S STENOG—Trouble Afoot

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER

Mike Prints
His Stuff

GASOLINE ALLEY—AN EXCHANGE OF PROMISES

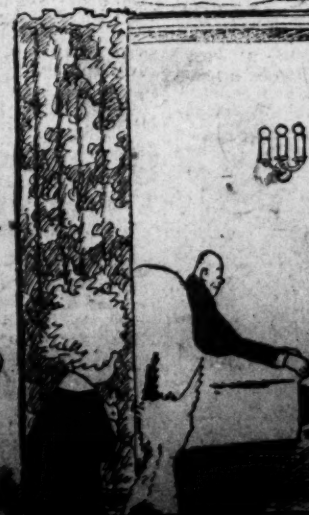

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

What
To Do?

EVER SINCE WE CAME BACK AND FOUND THAT MRS. WARBUCKS HAD GONE—HE'S BEEN THIS WAY—YOU SEE HE LOVED HER, SANDY, SPITE OF EVERYTHING, AN' HE'S HURT AWFUL, HE IS.

IF WE COULD ONLY BRING HER BACK TO HIM, SANDY! COURSE SHE WAS MEAN TO US BUT MAYBE SHE DIDN'T MEAN TO BE—ANYHOW THAT 'DADDY' COULD LOVE LIKE THAT MUSTA HAD SOME GOOD IN 'EM—GEE, IF WE COULD ONLY DO SOMETHING—OR THINK OF SOMETHING—

MOON MULLINS—WHAT COULD BE A GREATER HANDICAP?

By Hayward

PARTIAL VICTORY FOR PLAYER INCREASE IS WON

Jacket Cagesters Almost Ready for Scrimmage

Tiny Hearn Will Report After Brief Rest; Four Vets of Last Year Return

By GEORGE CONGDON.

While football conversation lags a bit these days, Coach Harold Hansen at Georgia Tech is building what appears to be a remarkable basketball machine at the Tech gymnasium. Hard practice daily and plenty of material brightens Tech's basketball outlook for this year far beyond what was accomplished last season.

Hansen's practices from now until Christmas, when the Jackets sail for Cuba and the pre-season series with the University of Havana, are to be long and hard. Tuesday he was sending his material through as hard and thorough a basketball drill as we have ever seen.

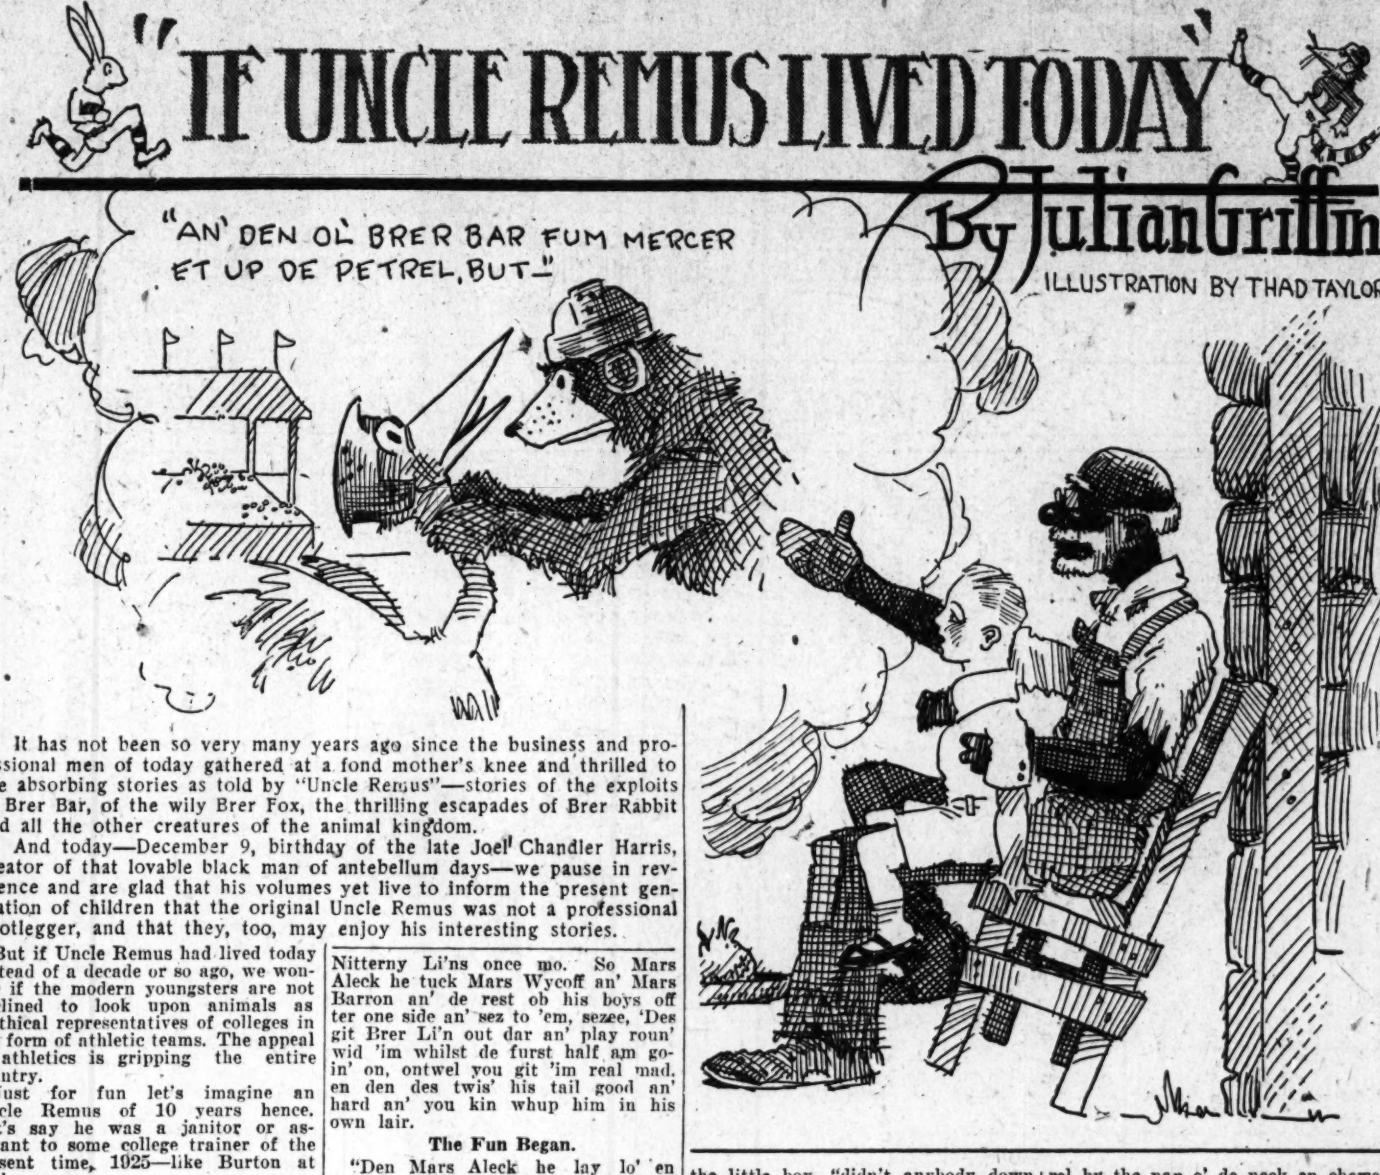

Nearly 35 varsity men are out for basketball this year, a big increase over the number of candidates last season. Besides these men there are at least 50 freshmen shooting the rings and working out generally, conditioning for their work next year as applicants for varsity jobs.

Although basketball practice has been going on less than two weeks, Coach Hansen and his men almost ready for scrimmage. He is finishing off the teaching of the fine techniques of the pivot, the feint, the different passes and dribbling.

Four Vets Return. Coach Hansen has few men back from last year's varsity quintet. There are Captain George Wilde, first stringer, Dynamite Wilder and Bob Moreland. Doug Wyoff is among those missing, for he is resting up after a strenuous football campaign and getting ready for baseball in the spring. That will constitute his last part in Georgia Tech athletics.

Showing fine stuff along with Wilde, Barron, Wilder and Moreland is Nick George, an crafty and quick-witted basketball player as we ever saw. He came up to Coach Hansen's attention from last year's freshman squad.

When Coach Hansen puts his team on the floor in Havana, it should be as fast an outfit as has ever been sent Tech. Hansen is driving into his men the finest points of pivoting in such a way that they won't

"AN DEN OL' BRER BAR FUM MERCER ET UP DE PETREL, BUT."

It has not been so very many years ago since the business and professional men of today gathered at a fond mother's knee and thrilled to the absorbing stories as told by "Uncle Remus"—stories of the exploits of Brer Rabbit, of the wily Brer Fox, the thrilling escapades of Brer Rabbit and all the other creatures of the animal kingdom.

And today—December 9, birthday of the late Joel Chandler Harris, creator of that lovable black man of antebellum days—we pause in reverence and are glad that his volumes yet live to inform the present generation of children that the original Uncle Remus was not a professional bootlegger, and that they, too, may enjoy his interesting stories.

Nitty Nitty Lins once more. So Mars Aleck he tuck Mars Wyoff an' Mars Barron an' de rest ob his boys off ter one side an' sez to 'em, sezee, 'Des git Brer Lin out dar an' play round wid 'im whilst de fust half am goin' on, ontwel you git 'im real good an den des twis his tail good an' den an' you kin whup him in his own hair."

Just for fun let's imagine an Uncle Remus of 10 years hence. Let's say he was a janitor or assistant to some college trainer of the present time, 1925—like Burton at Tech.

Just close your eyes—no peeping, now—and see Miss Sally's little boy as he slips down from the supper table and runs down the stairs to the cabin where Uncle Remus lives.

Mars Aleck Revenged! The old man fishes a live coal from the fire to light his pipe, takes the little boy on his knee and begins his night story.

"Hit wuz back in 1925, honey an' Mars Aleck had dun raise hisself a powful hive o' Yaller Jackets w'at cuss 'git de best o' m'ud jukety in de yer neighborhood, but w'en dey went up no'th den Nitty Nitty Lins o' Pin State, er de Panthers o' Pittsburgh wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leetle mo'n I'd demember all 'bout 'em. De Petrels wuz de onliest birds w'at could fly in de face o' eny wind dat mout blow. Dey ruled de roost de yer befo' en start out to do de same thing one mo'."

"Den Brer Lin he sail inter de Yaller Jackets right fierce like, en right dar he drap his money purse, kaze de Yaller Jackets wuz cut out fer dat kinder bizness, en dey fairly wipe up de face er de yeth wid 'em. You better bleeve dat when Brer Lin he got a chance to make hisself skase he tuck it."

"En dat Brer Lin ain't got no hair on his head, den dey bled him in de neighborhood ontwel you cum ter bleeve yo'self de boss er de whole jek."

"Den de time wuz come fer to go up no'th an' try dey hans wid de little boy, 'didn't anybody down south ever whip de Yeller Jackets?'"

"Tooby sho', honey, tooby sho' dey did. Dat Crimson Tide fume Alabam cum long en wash 'im all off de face o' de yeth en wuz chumpen o' de conf'renz."

And how about those Stormy Petrels you were going to tell me about, Uncle Remus?"

"Ain't I dun told you 'bout dem. I 'clar ter grashus, a leet

Amusements

At Atlanta Theater.

That highly spectacular and most unusual opera, "The Student Prince," is still the talk of the town. It is nearing the close of the second week of its engagement at the Atlanta theater, where it will be seen nightly at 8:20 o'clock, with matinees today and Saturday at 2:20 o'clock. The last performance will take place on Saturday night. With its practically all-star cast, its marvellous singing chorus of 90 voices, its beautiful scenic investment, its mention of the highly-trained orchestra under the skillful direction of Karl Hahn, it is easily the greatest musical attraction to be sent to Atlanta.

Coming to the Atlanta.

Coming again, to please old and young alike, is the mystifying, mysterious, marvelous Dante, who last year delighted Atlanta theatergoers with his magical art. He will be seen throughout the coming week at the Atlanta theater, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Among the "The Student Prince" and "The Iron Horse," the program at Loew's Grand this week is winning much popularity. In Earl Lindsay's Revue are many attractive dances and songs. Several pretty dancing girls add much to the enjoyment. Lew Cooper, blackface comedian, is a sterling performer and offers a new line of material. Other popular turns are Charles and Grace Keating, and Charles King, Dora Maughan, comedienne and Turner brothers, comedy acrobats.

Loew's Grand.

With such wonderful and gripping production as "The Iron Horse" as the motion picture feature and with an unusually varied vaudeville bill headed by the Earl Lindsay Revue, the program at Loew's Grand this week is winning much popularity. In Earl Lindsay's Revue are many attractive dances and songs. Several pretty dancing girls add much to the enjoyment. Lew Cooper, blackface comedian, is a sterling performer and offers a new line of material. Other popular turns are Charles and Grace Keating, and Charles King, Dora Maughan, comedienne and Turner brothers, comedy acrobats.

The Metropolitan.

The greatest novel ever written of southern California, with the gorgeous backgrounds of mountains and ocean, has been transposed to the screen in

THEATRE ATLANTA
LAST 4 NIGHTS
Mat. Today-Sat.
GREATEST MUSICAL PLAY
OF THE CENTURY
THE STUDENT PRINCE
IN HEIDELBERG
COMPANY OF 100
GLORIOUS SINGERS OF 60
AUGMENTED ORCHESTRA
MATTIN: 2:20-5:00
EVENING: 8:20-11:00
ALL NEXT WEEK
MATTIN: 2:20-5:00
EVENING: 8:20-11:00
THURSTON-KELLAR
HYSTERIES BY DANTE
FAMOUS MAGICAL 50 MYSTERIES 50
NOTE THE PRICES
Nights, 50c, 75c, $1.00
MATTIN: 2:20-5:00
GREATEST SHOW AT
THE PRICES IN THE HISTORY OF THE THEATER.
SEATS THURSDAY

HOWARD
Anniversary Week
NOW SHOWING
ADOLPHE MENJOU
— in —
"THE KING OF MAIN STREET"
The sparkling comedy of the season.
— Also —
RALPH POOLOCK
His Orchestra and Other Artists in
"BITS FROM BROADWAY"
A Miniature Musical Show
NEXT WEEK
D. W. GRIFFITH'S
"That Royle Girl"
The finest picture Griffith has made in years. Melodrama, heart-thrilling, flashy, funny,
pathetic, gripping!

WEST END THEATRE
Lee St. at Gordon St.
TODAY
"THE DIXIE HANDICAP"
Thurs. & Fri., "The Signal Tower" BRET HART'S
Great Western Romance
"The Golden Princess"
A PARAMOUNT PICTURE
with BETTY BRONSON
CHARLIE CHAPLIN
— in —
"A Dog's Life"
11:12-12:30-2:45-4:40-7:30-9:30
RALTO
AUDITORIUM
Friday, December 18, 8:30 P. M.
ROLAND HAYES
Celebrated Negro Tenor
Ticket Sale opens Monday morning, December 14, at Phillips & Crew and Fiske & Milton Pharmacies.
PRICES: $1.10, $1.35, $2.50, $5.75 and Boxes $3.50
Mail orders should be addressed to Southern Musical Bureau
1221 Wynne-Claughton Bldg.

NOT A Moving Picture
Return Engagement of the Marvelous Drama
"The Dawn of Light"
At the Auditorium
The Great Religious Play—
Depicting the building of Solomon's Temple, and many interesting scenes in the life of Christ.
Written by W. H. Pool
Directed by Lewis J. Morton
Presented by a trained cast
of experienced actors, augmented by an additional cast of 150, who take part in ballet and other scenes. Also a mammoth choir of 75 trained choristers.
Shown a few weeks ago at the Atlanta theatre—and acclaimed because of a big demand for its reappearance.
Don't fail to see it this time at the AUDITORIUM
Monday, Tuesday and
Wednesday Evenings, 8:15
December 14, 15, and 16
ADMISSION: $1.50, $1.00,
75c, 50c

GENE STRATTON PORTER'S
Greatest Novel
THE KEEPER OF THE BEES
STAGE PRESENTATION
ROME AND DUNE
HARMONY AS YOU LIKE IT
11:00-12:30-2:15-4:00-5:45-7:30-9:15

Inspiration of Rubini's Bow

To Arrive in Atlanta Today

The "Keeper of the Bees" Gene Stratton-Porter's most recent work which appeared serially in McCall's Magazine, is now being presented in this picture. They are late of Earl Carroll's "Vanities" and their songs and chatter proves it takes a good man to star with "Vanities." Rice's Sport-light show sports of yesterday, compared with today. Leide and his orchestra complete the program.

At the Howard.

"The King on Main Street," the feature picture now showing at the Howard, in which Adolphe Menjou appears in the title role, is a real comedy with plenty of laughs in it. The part that Menjou has could not have suited him better had it been written especially for him. The supporting cast is excellent, including Greta Nissen and Bessie Love. In addition, "Bits From Broadway," a stage presentation, offers some fine dances, songs and musical numbers. Ralph Pollock's orchestra and the McGraw-Jack and Jill premier dancers, are featured, while eight dancing girls take part in several catchy dancing and singing numbers. Next week Mr. Pollock plans to have his orchestra play request numbers and all such requests should be sent in writing to the Howard not later than Thursday of this week.

Tudor Theater.

The last chance to witness "Dracula with a Million," the charming screen version of Elizabeth Cooper's novel of the same name, comes today at the Tudor. The picture is a different, photoplay will delight large audiences by its smooth combination of pathos and comedy. Mary Carr, the screen's greatest mother, never been even more appealing role. A story of young love and of a golden old heart sweeps up to a mighty dramatic climax.

The Rialto Theater.

Betty Bronson, newest star created by Paramount, is said to reach her greatest heights as an actress this week at the Rialto theater, where she is the featured player in "The Golden Princess," the screen version of Bret Harte's famous story of the gold rush to California of 1849. She is supported by Neil Hamilton, Rockwell Fellers, Phyllis Haver and other fine actors. Charlie Chaplin's famous comedy, "A Dog's Life," is the comedy.

The West End Theater.

Frank Keenan has another of his well-loved southern roles in "The Dixie Handicap," Reginald Barker's latest production, at the West End theater today. He was the star of the Howard and "The Warren of Virginia." A new combination of screen lovers in the persons of Claire Windsor and Lloyd Hughes was formed for this beautiful southern picture. The scenes taken at Latonia show up very well, and the idea of having the actors there during the international race helps to make the picture convincing. "The Signal Tower" is Thursday and Friday's attraction.

"Is the pen really mightier than the sword?" The fir service people say they form the imperial arm.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

LOEW'S GRAND THEATRE
CONTINUOUS 11 TO 11 P. M.
ON THE SCREEN
AT 1:15-4:15-7:15-9:15 P. M.
AMERICA'S MIGHTIEST DRAMA
"THE IRON HORSE"
BLAZING THE TRAIL
OF LOVE AND CIVILIZATION
ON THE STAGE
AT 8:10-11:10 P. M.
Earl Lindsay's Revue
— AND —
4 FOUR OTHER 4
AFRS. 15c-50c NIGHTS. 15c-50c-30c

KEITH'S FORSTIN
3 DAYS
MONDAY - TUESDAY - WEDNESDAY
MATT. 2:20-5:00. Nights, 8:00-10:00-11:00
JACK HENRY
With Evelyn Vay and DuWay Farnsworth, Introducing the Gaudier Sisters
John Allen
Mama and Francis Co.
— in —
"THE KING OF MAIN STREET"
— Also —
RALPH POOLOCK
His Orchestra and Other Artists in
"BITS FROM BROADWAY"
A Miniature Musical Show
NEXT WEEK
D. W. GRIFFITH'S
"That Royle Girl"
The finest picture Griffith has made in years. Melodrama, heart-thrilling, flashy, funny,
pathetic, gripping!

NOT A Moving Picture
Return Engagement of the Marvelous Drama
"The Dawn of Light"
At the Auditorium
The Great Religious Play—
Depicting the building of Solomon's Temple, and many interesting scenes in the life of Christ.
Written by W. H. Pool
Directed by Lewis J. Morton
Presented by a trained cast
of experienced actors, augmented by an additional cast of 150, who take part in ballet and other scenes. Also a mammoth choir
of 75 trained choristers.
Shown a few weeks ago at the Atlanta theatre—and acclaimed because of a big demand for its reappearance.
Don't fail to see it this time
at the AUDITORIUM
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings, 8:15
December 14, 15, and 16
ADMISSION: $1.50, $1.00,
75c, 50c

GENE STRATTON PORTER'S
Greatest Novel
THE KEEPER OF THE BEES
STAGE PRESENTATION
ROME AND DUNE
HARMONY AS YOU LIKE IT
11:00-12:30-2:15-4:00-5:45-7:30-9:15

Inspiration of Rubini's Bow
To Arrive in Atlanta Today

Following is the sixth article of a series, entitled "Rounding Third," by Hugh A. Jennings, on his 34 years of major league baseball service. Jennings, discoverer of Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach, and central figure in some of baseball's biggest developments, writes an interesting history of the national game in this series. He also analyzes the greatest figures of baseball during the last 34 years.

BY HUGH A. JENNINGS.

My meeting with John McGraw was fortunate. It gave me an opportunity that I would not have had otherwise. During the winter of 1893-94 McGraw had attended St. Bonaventure college at Allegheny, N. Y., and he arrived in camp in the spring of 1894 exceedingly enthusiastic about the institution. Throughout the season he kept preaching in the subject of the advantages of education, and finally I decided to join him. At the close of the 1894 major league campaign, we packed our grips and went to Allegheny, N. Y., where I began a college career.

We applied ourselves strenuously to our studies and in February we began to coach the baseball team. This work continued until we had to leave for the spring training camp of the Baltimore Orioles. Coaching at St. Bonaventure was extremely pleasant. There is much more fun in teaching college boys than trying to teach the sandlotters. One incident I remember vividly concerned a young student, John Murray by name. He was one of the brightest in college and he decided he wanted to become a ball player. He had never played ball, as I remember, and after McGraw had been broken up after the 1898 season, McGraw, Robinson and a few others remained in Baltimore with McGraw as manager. Hanlon managed Brooklyn. We won the pennant that season in a fine race and McGraw showed splendid managerial talent in this, his first attempt. He piloted Baltimore into third place, which was getting the last ounce of the material under his command.

Unlucky Plunge. I returned to Cornell after the close of the 1899 season. I attended the university, taking up a law degree. I graduated in 1901. I continued coaching baseball at Cornell until I graduated. At that time I made some of the finest friendships I have ever established. I obtained something there which I could not get anywhere else. Some of my classmates have since achieved national and international fame. I do not believe any class at Ithaca ever turned out so many successful men as the one I was a member of. One incident that happened at Ithaca is still fresh in memory and always will be. One afternoon, following practice, I took a shower bath. Completing the shower I stepped through the swinging door to the swimming pool. It was dark and not another soul was there. Without waiting to turn on the lights I stepped briskly on the diving board and took a jump. But I did not hit the water. I hit the concrete floor of the swimming tank. Someone had done me dirt, unintentionally. The caretaker had drained the tank during the afternoon to scrub the pool for the next morning. (Copyright, 1925, in the United States and Canada by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

President Grateful. Just before our departure that spring we were given a banquet. The Rev. Dr. Joseph Butler, then president of St. Bonaventure, made a speech. "Last year we had McGraw. This year we had Jennings and McGraw. They are the best of both of them for 10 years more," he said. We both returned for three more years, studying and coaching the baseball team. In 1905 I went back to McGraw and he gave me a letter of introduction to the following February (1905) I accepted a position as coach of the Cornell university team. I remained at Ithaca, coaching the Cor-employment conditions in the federal service. The administration of the act is in the hands of the department, functioning without the necessity of a direct appropriation. It would be inadvisable at this time to place in other hands the administration of this act.

COOLIDGE URGES SALE OF SHOALS

Continued from Page One.

Federal Trade Commission. The proper function of the federal trade commission is to supervise and correct those practices in commerce which are detrimental to fair competition. In this it performs a useful function and should be maintained and supported. It was designed also to be a help to honest business. In my message to the sixty-eighth congress I recommended that the commission be reauthorized for the next session. Since then the commission by its own action has reformed its rules, giving greater speed and more economy in its cases and full opportunity for those accused to be heard. These changes are improvements and, if necessary, provision should be made for their permanency.

Reorganization. No final action has yet been taken on the measure providing for the reorganization of the various departments. I therefore suggest that this measure, which will be of great benefit to the efficient and economical administration of the business of the government, be brought forward and passed.

The Negro. Nearly one-tenth of our population consists of the negro race. The progress which they have made in all the arts of civilization in the last 60 years is almost beyond belief. Our country has no more loyal citizens. But they do still need sympathy, kindness, and helpfulness. They need reassurance that the requirements of the government and society to deal with them even-handed justice will be met. They should be protected from all violence and supported in the peaceable enjoyment of the fruits of their labor. Those who do violence to them should be punished for their crimes. No other course of action is worthy of the American people.

Our country has many elements in its population, many different modes of thinking and living, all of which are striving in their own way to be loyal to the high ideals worthy of the crown of American citizenship. It is fundamental to our institutions that they seek to guarantee to all our citizens the right of free expression of opinion. It is the growth and improvement of the material and spiritual life of the nation. We shall not be able to gain these ends merely by our own action. If they come at all, it will be because we have been willing to work in harmony with the abiding purpose of a Divine Providence.

—CALVIN COOLIDGE.

N. D., NEBRASKA QUIT PLAYING
South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8.—(AP) Athletic relations between Notre Dame and Nebraska were broken off at a conference between the officials of the two schools today, it was announced tonight by the Rev. Matthew Walsh, president of Notre Dame.

No further statement was forthcoming.

A hostile spirit has existed between the universities for several years. It is said to have been fanned before and after the 1925 game by treatment accorded Notre Dame football players by Lincoln, Neb., townspeople.

—Detroit Free Press.

Jud Tunkins says he's glad Tut was only 18 years old. In spite of his wealth he was too young to pose as a self-made man.—Washington Star.

"I met a wonderful opportunity today," remarked Rounder. "Did you embrace it?" inquired his friend. "No, my wife was with me when I met it."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BUSINESS SERVICE

Business Services Offered 18

BRAXTON, JOE—General house cleaning. Windows cleaned, etc. Each floor washed. White woodwork cleaned. 431 E. 11th St. Phone HU 781-1.

LIBERTY ELECTRIC SIGN CO.
226 Royal street, New Orleans, La.
Electric signs $30 up.

SIAGARA metal weather strip, metal and light fixtures. Estimates free. Home Hardware, 21 South Forsyth street, Walnut 7202.

RENOVATORS—Call Wilfrid Matreux Company for high-grade marble restoring. Remick 0067.

Cleaning, Dyeing, Renovating 20
HATERS—Satisfaction guaranteed. Hats cleaned, dyed, pressed. Home Hardware, 21 South Forsyth street, Walnut 7202.

RENOVATORS—Call Wilfrid Matreux Company for high-grade marble restoring. Remick 0067.

Heating, Plumbing, Roofing 22
ROOFING—Painting and repairing. W. R. Broad, 1840 E. Twenty-two years experience. Estimates free. Call MA 1111.

PAINTING, PAPEERING, DECORATING 26
CHIMNEY and furnace repairing. For quick service call Walnut 9030.

INTERIOR AND EXTERIOR painting, tinting and papering. Estimates free. Call MA 1111.

PAINTING, PAPEERING, DECORATING 26
CHIMNEY and furnace repairing. For quick service call Walnut 9030.

PRINTING, ENGRAVING, BINDING 27
MULTIGRAPHING, filling in, addressing, etc. Estimates free. Call MA 1111.

REPAIRING AND REFINISHING 29
CRIS WOODS MUSIC SHOP, 144 Auburn. Phonographs, repairs. WY 9010.

PHOTOGRAPHS REPAIRED—All makes. Walnut 3333. 13 North Pryor street.

WEDDING—You can't break it where we weld it. Lamar Welding company.

EMPLOYMENT

Help Wanted—Female 32

BEAUTY PARLOR OPERATOR, experienced. Address Box 203, Constitution.

STENOGRAPHER—Experienced, capable, single; willing to start at $200 month.

TYPIST—High school education. No application fee charged. 1019 Wynne-Claughton Bldg.

BROWN DRUG CO.—Wanted, 8 waitresses; short hours, good pay. Apply Washington and Houston streets.

COLORADO COOKS, mids, waiters, general house girls, waitresses, $12 to $12. 1004 Auburn.

EXPERIENCED cashier, immediately; reference; three luncheonette girls. 417 Rhodes building.

FIVE EXPERIENCED salesladies, large department store; also two beginners. 417 Rhodes building.

HIGH-CLASS millinery trimmer and designer, steady employment for desirable person; furnish experience. Address Box W-252, Constitution.

LADY to manage small office; excellent future; good salary. 403 Walton Bldg.

LADY for general office work, $20 week. Call immediately. 403 Walton Bldg.

LEARN BEAUTY CULTURE—Now the highest-paid profession in which women can make a career. Address Box 203, Constitution.

LOCAL builder has opening for refitted lady with business experience and acquaintance with law to assist in business of refitting. Address Box 203, Constitution.

OVERSEER girl, sewing experience; small salary to begin. 207 Fourth street.

TWO neat girls for bakery and tea room. 215 Gould Bldg.

WOMEN—Exceptional opportunity for women to earn steady income handling well-known line of toilet and food products. Write for particulars. The Amole Company, 64 First street, Tippencanoe, Ind.

YOUNG LADY for job press immediately; good salary. 417 Rhodes Bldg.

Help Wanted—Male 33

BOOK MAN, ATTENTION!—Call and investigate the best proposition on the market. If you are not satisfied, return your money. We are waiting your time. All southern territory. Leads furnished. 403 Austell building.

BOOKKEEPER, competent, intelligent, high-type, general ledger man. Unusual opportunity.

OFFICE CLERK, clean-cut, young man, good penman for branch national insurance company. Good salary.

TWO file clerks, high-school graduates. Mighty good advancement.

ASSISTANT BOOKKEEPER, for retail establishment.

CORRESPONDENT, experienced automobile business. Good salary and possibilities executive position.

SALESMAN, preferably experienced construction materials.

SALESMAN, high-type college man, well experienced. Good salary.

PERSONNEL SERVICE, INC., 1019 Wynne-Claughton building.

COLLECTOR, wanted at once. Apply 428 Austell Bldg.

DRIVERS WANTED—Several experienced drivers, who know the city and can furnish references; 25 per cent commission and bonus. Yellow Cab company, 350 Courtland.

FORD TRUCK DRIVER wanted. Apply 200 Austell building.

JANITOR wanted for club. Apply 200 Austell building.

LAUNDRY route man wanted. Apply 428 Austell Bldg.

MECHANIC—WANTED

WE WANT a man not under 25 years of age that can handle and make connections on water pipes. A man with executive ability who can develop into complete charge of a service department for a hotel. A knowledge of refrigeration will help. A real position for an honest, reliable man. This is a new, well-refrigerated home, using water for power. See 247, Aldey, 612 Haswell building.

RAILWAY PORTAL CLERK—Commence $138 month. Men 18-25. Study. Sample mailing form. Apply today. Box 1-252, Constitution.

THE SHOP-O-COFF has prepared to a greatly improved Christmas gift sale—this year we have more than 1000 gifts. Address Box 203, Constitution.

YOUNG MAN—Wanted for office work. Apply 417 Rhodes building.

EMPLOYMENT

Help Wanted—Male 33

SALESMAN with references; exceptional opportunity, quick clean-up, small stock loan. 1111 E. 11th St. Phone HU 781-1.

SALESMAN—We will give you a position where you can earn from $100 to $500 weekly. No experience required. 421 Palmer building.

SALESMEN ATTENTION
WE are in need of several good salesmen for January 1 openings. See us at once.

PERSONNEL SERVICE, INC., 1019 Wynne-Claughton building.

WE HAVE AN OPENING FOR THREE GOOD HOUSE-TO-HOUSE
SOLICITORS WHO CAN MAKE MORE WORKING ON COMMISSION THAN ON SALARY. WE HAVE SOMETHING NEW TO OFFER THE PUBLIC AND A REAL SALESMAN CAN MAKE
BIG MONEY. APPLY IN PERSON
BETWEEN 9 AND 5:30 TO
H. A. TANNER, CONSTITUTION
BUILDING.

STENOGRAPHER, general office; also two truck drivers. 215 Gould building.

A-1 EXPERIENCED mail carrier; must furnish references. 307 Silvery building.

EXPERIENCED shoe salesman; good salary. 507 Silvery building.

EXPERIENCED SHIPPER clerk. Apply in own handwriting and furnish references. Address Box 203, Constitution.

EXPERIENCED ELECTROTYPING MOLDER AND AN EXPERIENCED ELECTROTYPING FINISHER—Give full particulars as to experience, references and salary expected. Kingsport Press Company, Inc.

FOUR white shop helpers wanted. Apply 428 Austell Bldg.

GET A U. S. government job. Men 18-25; railway mail clerks; commence $1,500 year; steady; 25 coached free; write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 47-R, Rochester, N. Y.

LEARN salesmanship; buyers taught free. Anderson's Salesmanship Co., 24 South Houston. Established 1904.

MEN—Learn the barber trade. Course and tools $50. Position waiting. Atlanta Barber college, 18 East Mitchell street.

MEN WANTED—Prepare as firemen, brickmen, colored train or sleeping car porter. First class roads. No strike. Name position wanted. Railway Institute, Dept. 3, Indianapolis, Ind.

RELIABLE MAN in every town and city to distribute free samples, advertising material. No selling. Selling advertising material. Outdoor work. Average pay $8 per week. Write for particulars. Sales Manager, 5103 North Clarke street, Chicago, Ill.

SIX GIRLS TO RELIABLE TICKETS. SALARY $16 PER WEEK. 507 SILVER BLDG.

TERMINAL STATION—wanted, three men for railroad news service. Call in person. 1 to 10 a. m.

TWO shop helpers wanted. Apply 200 Austell building.

TWO AUDITORS—Must be men of experience, character and ability. Apply Thursday, 9 to 9:45. Atlanta Audit Co., Atlanta Trust Company building.

WANTED—Three bellhops; also two porters. Apply 200 Austell building.

WANTED—Three young men of neat appearance to assist in work of preparing residential cards of Atlanta. Apply 853 Washington street.

WANTED—Competent draughtsman; preferred man with experience in cotton gin machinery. Apply at once. Centennial Cotton Gin Company, 107 Columbia, Ga.

WANTED—10 first-class waitresses, union shop, $60 per week; also pants makers, $20 per week. Write for particulars. Wire, Arnold & Co., Atlanta hotel, 200 N. 10th street.

WANTED—Several men, 18 to 25, weighing 130 pounds or more, to prepare for military and civil service examination. $2,500 yearly; common education sufficient. Write, Mr. Osmest, 240 St. Louis, Mo. (immediately)

WANTED—Operator for model C International job; work also; please present personal references to 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

WANTED—Operator for model C International job; work also; please present personal references to 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

WANTED—Young men, 21 to 25, to qualify for shipping work; training in position; assistant traffic manager, who is now expanding but ambitious to develop into executive. Salary $1,500 to $2,500 weekly. Call on qualifications of applicant. Only men having at least high school education will be given opportunity. Interviews by appointment only. Call Suite 800, Anstey hotel.

WE ARE NOW arranging our sales organization for 1937 and desire men, with automobiles, who have had experience in automobile lighting and advertising

WANTED
District Manager in a prosperous city who with sub-agents can pay for at least $250,000.
Mutual Life Insurance Co. of N. Y.
Assets $727,000,000.00
R. F. Shedden, Manager, Grant Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Unlimited Funds for Loans
On North Side Bungalows, $2,500 or more. 6%
On High Class North Side Dwellings, $7,500 to $20,000 5 1/2%
On Select and Well Located Apartment Houses. 5 1/2%
On Central and Semi-Central Business Property. 5 1/2%
Loans run for five years with liberal prepayment privileges.
Commission charges very reasonable.
WALnut 5416 10 Auburn Ave.

The Southern Mortgage Co.
J. T. Holloman, Pres.
W. L. Kemp, V. Pres.
J. W. Andrews, Secy.
George Williams, Treas.

A SERVICE TO HUMANITY
UNITY TRUST COMPANY
WYNNE-CLAUGHTON BLDG. - ATLANTA - Investments Suitable for Savings
Rents Loans Bonds
Real Estate Purchase Notes
First and Second Mortgages
WALnut 5116 Val Fitzpatrick, President

THE DESIRE for beautiful things is not a modern urge as is proved by the recent finding of household objects of rare beauty in the "Valley of the Kings," used by appreciative human beings thirty-five centuries ago.

It is safe to say that nothing is so dominant in the artistic scheme of things today as lighting—it contributes to real happiness in the home.

Light up at Christmas!

We have Edison Mazda Lamps.
Call us.

GEORGIA RAILWAY AND POWER CO.
A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE GO
WA. 6121 Sales Dept. 75 Marietta

RED ROSE COAL COLD WAVE
BURGESS COAL COMPANY
MAIN 0523-0524 PHONES MAIN 3839
3-11 GRANT ST. 60-70 WALKER ST.

DO YOU WANT A LOAN ON YOUR REAL ESTATE?
If So We Offer You
LOWEST INTEREST RATES CONSISTENT WITH CHARACTER OF PROPERTY
Immediate Service Absolutely No Delays
SLICER, NORMAN & WOFFORD
37 Poplar Street WALnut 0955
We Have the Money

Christmas and Coal-Giving

It is not only the very poor to whom wise gift-givers make their Christmas present in the shape of a supply of good coal. Such a gift is welcomed by nearly anyone.

We know this is so because from now on, year after year, our trucks are busy each Yuletide with the delivery of loads of the good coal we sell.

Men who prefer to leave the details of such a kindly transaction to those able to handle them well can depend on us, this year as any former year.

WALnut 4714
Randall Bros., Inc.

The Tri-Weekly Constitution gets the same immediate and careful reading in country homes which daily papers get in city homes.

- It is delivered every-other-day by rural carrier into over 100,000 well-to-do farm homes.
- These farmers pay the full subscription price, and pay it in advance.
- The Tri-Weekly Constitution carries the news of the world every-other-day into these homes—it takes the place of a daily paper.
- The trade of the farmers of the Southeast is well worth going after.

'Flying Yank' Shod for Race

John J. Seiler, professional walking and running champion, is shown at left above accepting a pair of Bostonian shoes from Advertising Manager Law, of the Stewart Shoe company, just as the famous track man began his 50-mile walk Monday against the Wills Sainte Claire automobile. Seller set what is believed to be a world's record for the walk, when he completed it in seven hours and 21 minutes.

"FLYING YANK" STAGES BIG EVENT

Continued From First Page.

50.3 miles in seven hours and 21 minutes, all the time steering the Wills Sainte Claire automobile he will race today.

Seller declared Tuesday night he was in perfect form for the race, which will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon in front of The Constitution building and will end in front of Loew's Grand theater. Although his feet were blistered by his exertions Monday, by careful attention and the application of liniments and ointments prepared from Cox's Prescription Shop, they were in much better condition Tuesday night, and he predicted that the foot-soreness caused by hard walking over paved streets of the city will not slow him up today.

Feet Well Protected.
He will wear the Bostonian shoes presented to him Monday by the Stewart Shoe company, which he declared preserved his feet better than any he has ever worn.

Vaughan's cafeteria is preparing the special diets ordered by Seller for his

LOANS ON DIAMONDS
Established 1893
Nat Kaiser Investment Co.
3 PEACHTREE STREET
PROFESSIONAL CARD
Albert Howell, Jr. Mark Bolding
Hugh H. Dorey John Howell
W. F. Bloodworth
Arthur Horan Herman Hays
DORSEY, HOWELL & HEYMAN
Lawyers
500 to 520 Connally Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.

Rubber Heels Attached in 5 Minutes, 35c and 50c
GWIN'S SHOE
SHOE SHINE, 5c
Half Soles Sewed, 50c Up
Established 1890
Moved to 31 South Pryor Street

TILES
Afford an unlimited range of color and decorative treatment.
The greatest variety of artistic effects is possible in their use, and the owner's tastes and wishes may be met completely.
Ask for booklet about Tiles for fireplaces, halls, porches, and other parts of the house. Consult us about any kind of Tile work.
CARMICHAEL TILE CO.
WAL 4006 104 E. Ellis St.

NEWNAN VISITORS GUESTS OF KIWANIS
Members of the Newnan Kiwanis club were entertained Tuesday at the Ansley hotel by the Atlanta club. Robert H. Jones, president of the local organization, presided. Twenty-five Newnan members were welcomed by Henry Helia, international treasurer, who has just returned from a meeting of the international Kiwanis officers in Chicago. Stanford Arnold, trustee of the visiting club, responded. Announcement was made that Mr. Jones, as retiring president, was elected chairman of the board of directors, and Claude Tyburn was elected club secretary to succeed Fred Sned at a meeting of the directors earlier in the day. Dr. W. L. Shelton will assume the office of president January 1.

WEST INDIES CRUISES—30-31 days
Megantic Jan. 23 Feb. 27
From New York stopping ample time for sightseeing at Havana, Santiago, Port au Prince, Kingston, Panama Canal, Curacao, La Guaira, Trinidad, Barbados, Martinique, St. Thomas, San Juan, Nassau, Bermuda.
*On Jan. 23rd Cruise

MEDITERRANEAN Adriatic Jan. 7 Feb. 25 Lapland Jan. 16 Mar. 6
Cruises from New York stopping ample time for sightseeing at Madeira, Gibraltar, Algiers, Monaco, Naples, Athens, Dardanelles, Constantinople, Haifa (for Holy Land), Alexandria (for Cairo and the Nile country), Syracuse, Naples and Monaco on return trip. 46 days. Liberal stopovers from ship to ship and optional return via North European ports.

WHITE STAR LINE RED STAR LINE
Mr. J. T. Martin, Mgr. Forayth and Poplar Sts., Atlanta or any Authorized Steamship Agent.

OFFENSIVE TAKEN BY 'MA' FERGUSON

Austin, Texas, December 8.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson has checked the next move in the battle to impeach her to her enemies.

Making her decision two days before the final date allowed her by the terms of an ultimatum signed by 44 legislators the woman governor Tuesday issued a hitmen action in which she said she would not call a special legislative session to investigate the affairs of the various state departments.

In taking the offensive in the sensational political war which has been raging in Texas for two weeks, "Ma" placed the burden of future action squarely on the shoulders of Speaker Lee Satterwhite, who has announced that if the woman chief executive refused to act he would issue the special call on December 10.

Decision Is Surprised.
The sudden decision of Governor Ferguson came as a surprise. Satterwhite is en route to Washington and has not been formally notified of her action.

There is considerable speculation here regarding Satterwhite's next step. He professes to have a petition signed by 50 or more legislators authorizing him to issue the special call in the event "Ma" refused to do so. Attorney General Moody, arch critic of the Ferguson administration, has held the cost of the extraordinary meeting could not be financed by private institutions, as was originally planned, and the proposition that legislators pay their own expenses while attending the assembly has not been favorably received.

Sentiment Changes.
The speaker cannot call the special session for purposes other than impeachment, and observe—point to the failure of a county to pay its taxes after a thorough investigation of the activities of the censored highway department and a sudden change of sentiment favorable to Governor Ferguson as two important facts that Satterwhite must consider carefully before acting.

The press, while generally demanding a cleansing of the state department, has adopted the position that impeachment of "Ma" would not help matters.

In refusing to call the special session, Governor Ferguson pointed to the heavy cost of such action and added: "I do not see any reason for putting the people of the state to the extra expense."

FILMS URGE EARLY HOLIDAY MAILING; CONGESTION SEEN

Films urging Atlantans to do their Christmas shopping early are being exhibited this week at local theaters at the request of Edwin K. Large, Atlanta's postmaster.

Atlantans should do their Christmas shopping and mailing as early as possible as one of the great Christmas seasons in the history of the postoffice department is expected and late packages are liable to reach their destinations in time for Christmas, Mr. Large said.

There will be no delivery Christmas day, except for special delivery.

Retail merchants, theaters and postoffice employees have joined Mr. Large in an effort to get Atlanta's Yuletide mailing off as early as possible.

GOVERNOR TO BRING MRS. WALKER HOME

Baltimore, Md., December 8.—Governor Charles D. Clark, of Georgia, is coming to Baltimore next Sunday, it was announced today, to accompany his wife back home from the Church Home and Infirmary where Mrs. Walker has been a patient for about four weeks following an operation.

While Mrs. Walker has not been permitted to leave her bed since she is reported to have been sitting up for several days.

NEW PEN CHAPLAIN

REV. G. F. W. LADLOW recently appointed Protestant chaplain of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary, will begin his service last Sunday. Rev. Ladlow succeeds the late Rev. Joseph Asbury Sewell.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

By order of court, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash, in the office of the referee, 525 Grant building, Atlanta, Ga., on December 15, 1925, the following described property, belonging to the estate of Thomas E. Peasland, bankrupt, and situated in the county of Howard, state of Florida, to wit: Units 1 and 2 of Tract Twenty (20), in Section Twenty-nine (29), Township Fifty-two (52) South, Range Forty-one (41) East, according to a plat of said lands filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, state of Florida, in Book No. 2, Page 77 of said records, said units containing Two (2) acres, more or less, and being subject to the reservations for the roadway, streets, canals, rights and way shown on said plat.

The above property is to be offered free of liens. Sale subject to confirmation by the court.

For further information see the undersigned.

CLARENCE WAYNE, Trustee.
508 Grant Building, Telephone WALnut 5525.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
By order of court, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale to the highest and best bidder for cash, in the office of the referee, 525 Grant building, Atlanta, Ga., on December 15, 1925, the following described property, belonging to the estate of Thomas E. Peasland, bankrupt, and situated in the county of Howard, state of Florida, to wit: Units 1 and 2 of Tract Twenty (20), in Section Twenty-nine (29), Township Fifty-two (52) South, Range Forty-one (41) East, according to a plat of said lands filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, state of Florida, in Book No. 2, Page 77 of said records, said units containing Two (2) acres, more or less, and being subject to the reservations for the roadway, streets, canals, rights and way shown on said plat.

The above property is to be offered free of liens. Sale subject to confirmation by the court.

For further information see the undersigned.

CLARENCE WAYNE, Trustee.
508 Grant Building, Telephone WALnut 5525.

WEST INDIES CRUISES—30-31 days
Megantic Jan. 23 Feb. 27
From New York stopping ample time for sightseeing at Havana, Santiago, Port au Prince, Kingston, Panama Canal, Curacao, La Guaira, Trinidad, Barbados, Martinique, St. Thomas, San Juan, Nassau, Bermuda.
*On Jan. 23rd Cruise

WHITE STAR LINE RED STAR LINE
Mr. J. T. Martin, Mgr. Forayth and Poplar Sts., Atlanta or any Authorized Steamship Agent.

MRS. STALLINGS IS GIVEN SCHOOL VISITING POST

Mrs. Martha Stallings was elected sixth ward representative on the board of visitors to the public schools by the board of education Tuesday.

Mrs. Stallings was nominated by Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, member from that ward.

REWARD IS POSTED FOR FRED COPELAND

Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday offered a reward of $300 for the arrest of Fred Copeland, charged with the shooting of Policeman Eugene Head on Luckie street last week.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin requested posting of the reward.

Policeman Head was shot when he and another officer attempted to arrest Copeland and four other men in a parked automobile, after Copeland and others had been recognized as escaped convicts. The officer is recovering from his wounds and has left the hospital.

MORTUARY

MRS. M. J. ROBERTSON.
Mrs. Mary Jane Robertson, 72, of 84 Walhall street, died at the home Monday. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. G. Wade and Mrs. G. W. McWilliams.

MRS. AMANDA FRANKLIN.
Mrs. Amanda Franklin, 76, of Lithonia, died at the home Monday. She leaves no known survivors. Blanchard Brothers in charge.

MARY HELEN FINDLEY.
Mary Helen Findley, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Findley, of 23 Rutledge street, died at the home Monday. She is survived by her parents, Gresham & Bond in charge.

LIVINGSTON INFANT.
The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Livingston, of 32 Griffin street, died Tuesday at the home. He is survived by his parents and two brothers, Willie and James Livingston. Funeral services will be held today at 10:30 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole, interment in Crest Lawn cemetery.

DEATH OF INFANT.
The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Galloway, of 300 West Third street, died Tuesday at the home. Funeral services will be held today at 10:30 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole, interment in Crest Lawn cemetery.

LOANS ON DIAMONDS
Jefferson Loan Society
8 Auburn Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

LOANS

10-Year Apartment Loans
On high-class apartments we will now place a long term loan at lowest interest rates. Call us for particulars.

Adair Realty & Trust Co.
MORTGAGE LOAN DEPARTMENT
Healey Bldg. WAL 0100

LOANS

RENTALS
"EXPERIENCE"
There is no extra charge for the wealth of information we are able to extend to you through our long years of experience in the Mortgage Loan business.

WEYMAN & CONNORS
621 Grant Bldg. INSURANCE WAL 2162

Imported Leather for Men

For a gift to the manish man we have for your selection a complete line of English leather bill folds, cigarette cases and purses.

Because the gift of leather embodies excellent taste and enduring quality it is always acceptable to a man.

Store open Saturday afternoon from now until Christmas.

Foot & Davies Co.

"Five Seconds from Five Points"
WALnut 4600 Edgewood at Pryor

5 1/2% and 6% Money to Lend also at 7% (With No Annual Reduction)

Appraisals made and money paid by our office. No delay.

Haas & Howell

Haas-Howell Bldg. Phone WALnut 3111
NOTE: Second Mortgage funds on hand.

WE PAY 4% On Savings

Compounded Quarterly
EMPIRE TRUST COMPANY
37 North Broad Street

Lowest Interest Rates on Real Estate Loans

Also in Other Smaller Georgia Cities
See us before you apply for a loan elsewhere. We are making attractive terms without red tape.

MORTGAGE BOND & TRUST CO.

G. J. LEWIS, President. F. W. PATTERSON, Vice Pres. M. R. MCCLATCHY, Vice Pres.
16 Walton Street, Corner Broad ATLANTA, GEORGIA

RICHARDSON, JACKSON & DAVIS

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS
Successors to
ALONZO RICHARDSON & COMPANY
1420-1425 Atlanta Trust Co. Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.

First Mortgage Loans at 6%—7%

Atlanta and Decatur Real Estate
On residential, business and apartment properties.
APPRAISALS MADE AND APPLICATIONS ACCEPTED HERE
Also First and Second Mortgages repayable in monthly installments.

HAAS & HAAS

1100 Fourth National Bank Building Phone: WALnut 5208-5209

FOR SALE

Flat newspaper paper suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right

P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

LODGE NOTICES

Best Point Council No. 55 will hold a special assembly tonight beginning at 8 o'clock. All the degrees will be conferred in full form. Refreshments.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will be given. All qualified visitors are invited to attend. By order of the club, R. P. LOCHHEAD, W. M.

The twelfth annual communication of Delta Lodge No. 641, F. & A. M., will be held in the Masonic temple, corner Peachtree and Cain streets, this (Wednesday) evening, December 9, 1925, 7:30 o'clock. Reports of the treasurer, secretary, and finance committee will be read. Election and installation of officers for the ensuing year will be held at 8:30 o'clock. Brother W. S. Richardson, Grand Master of Georgia. All qualified brethren are invited to attend. By order of the lodge, CLAUDE N. HUGHES, Pres.

Regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club, Peacock Cafe, Wednesday, December 9, 1925, 12:30. Special radio program will